WORKMEN TRY TO sort out wiring for a temporary traffic light controller Friday. Signals have been out of order for three weeks, Lightning is blamed for the breakdown.

Signals for intersection may take 6 months to fix

Crews were still working Friday to repair traffic signals at Northwest Highway and Euclid Avenue — one of Arlington Heights' most complicated intersections.

Traffic lights at the five-cornered intersection have been out of order for three weeks, and village officials say it may be many more weeks until the electronic controls for the lights are completely repaired.

In the meantime, officials say they will install a temporary control that will restore some order to the confusing intersection.

Gene Willroth, Arlington Heights director of public works, said he believes the original controls — which could automatically adjust the timing of red and green lights to the flow of traffic — were damaged by lightning.

THE TIMING equipment will have to be sent to the manufacturer in Iowa for repairs, he said.

For weeks, the lights have been flashing red, forcing motorists in all directions to stop and creep through the intersection, except during the evening rush hour when a police officer is posted to direct traffic.

"There's a lot of congestion there, but so far we haven't had accidents," said Police Capt. Jack Aldrich.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said the lights have been unreliable since the suspected lightning damage and had to be set on flash for safety reasons. "We'd get them working and everything looked fine. Then a couple hours later they'd go black. We just can't rely on them," he said.

Hanson guessed that it could take six months and cost $20,000 to get the controls repaired.

Artist to exhibit at shopping center

A group of 25 artists will display and sell their works at an art and craft fair today and Sunday at the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center.

The fair is scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m. Saturday and last until 5 p.m. Hours Sunday will be 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Weather permitting, works will be exhibited outside as well as in the mall.

Included in the variety of items that will be available are watercolors, crylic paintings, charcoal portraits, silver jewelry, pottery and wood carvings.

Cool weather not over yet; may be here at least 5 days

by DAVE GALANTI

The Northwest suburbs had its first battle with frost Friday night as the first cold snap of the year extended over the area.

The National Weather Service predicted possible frost for the northern half of Illinois Friday night. Today's temperature will not be much better, with a high scheduled to be in the 60s.

The cooler weather is not going to cause much trouble for Northwest suburban mosquitos, at least not yet. Wilbur Mitchell, head of the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District, said earlier this week the cooler weather will not kill the mosquitos but will probably force them to look for heat indoors. He said it takes at least three "good frosts" to kill off the insects.

DONALD WERNLY, weather service meteorologist, said the main factor in all this coolness is frigid Alaskan air being pumped down through Canada in the upper atmosphere to the Great Lakes and Chicago. He added this jet stream pattern would continue over the next five days, resulting in less than normal temperatures at least through Wednesday.

Wernly predicted the weather will warm up slightly Sunday. But he added a cold front will move through the area Monday, giving colder temperatures and a chance of rain.

Despite the cool temperatures, summer will officially be with us until Sept. 23, when the autumnal equinox at 10:55 a.m. marks the beginning of fall. The equinox marks the date when the days become longer in the southern hemisphere than in the northern hemisphere.

Teacher, musician; he's 80, still active

Saturday

by WANDALYN RICE

When Elmer Jackish dons his gold choir robe and takes his seat at the organ in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect, it is easy to see he is doing something he loves.

This Sunday, however, Jackish, a Palatine resident, won't be playing the hymns at St. Paul's. Instead, he will be watching as his son, chairman of the graduate school of music at Wittenburg University, plays for services in which the congregation will honor Jackish for 50 years of work as an organist and school teacher.

"I'm kind of nervous about this whole thing because they are really making this a big deal," Jacksih, a diminutive man who looks younger than his 80 years, said recently when he interrupted a practice session to discuss the honor .

THE "BIG DEAL" will include a fellowship dinner in Jackish's honor following the 11 a.m. service. Participants will include the Rev. Herman Noll of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Prospect Heights, who was Jackish's student in the third through fifth grades at St. Paul's School, and many members of the church who have had their lives touched by the man who makes music.

In his years as a teacher at St. Paul's School, and as choir director and organist for the church, Jackish has seen children grow up and have families of their own. These offspring have then ended up in his classes. "I have played for weddings for parents and then played at their children's weddings," he said.

Before he came to St. Paul's in 1925, Jackish taught in New York and Chicago and spent a short time as the only teacher in an eight-grade school in Wisconsin.

"The people in charge of that school wanted all eight grades kept separate, too," he recalls. "Since the students went on to high school, I was most concerned with preparing them for that. I was good friends with the high school principal — he was a singer and I was his accompanist — so he kept me clued in on what they needed."

WHEN HE CAME to St. Paul, Jackish was the third teacher at the school. He spent most of his career teaching third, fourth and fifth grades because, he says, that gave him time for his music. "The teachers in the upper grades were usually coaches," he said.

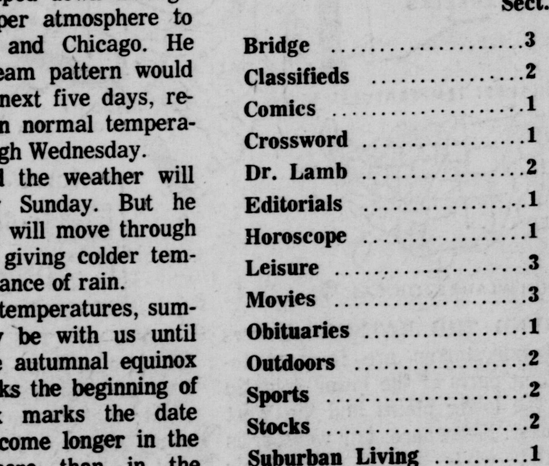
In recent years, Jackish has retired from teaching and given up his post as choir director. He now splits the duties of organist with a younger man but says he still practices his music nearly every day, "especially when I'm on duty."

The job of organist has gotten tougher over the years, he says. "Years ago it didn't matter how you played as long as you could play the hymns," he said. "Today people hear good organ music on recordings or on radio and television, and they expect to hear that when they come to church. I think it's been very good for me because it is a challenge and it keeps me sharp."

Other things in the church have also changed over the years, he says, but not the important things. "We have adopted some new customs, and the style of the service has changed, but doctrinely the church hasn't changed. The preaching is the same," he said.

EVEN AFTER Jackish receives his plaque expressing the gratitude of the congregation Sunday, he will not retire from his music. "I'm going to stay active as long as I'm able," he said. "It's very nice because I can choose my activity, and you don't get that chance too often.

"Our parish has a habit of keeping its professional people here for a long time," Pastor C. C. Kaufmann, coordinator of the tribute to Jackish, said. "We have people here who are visiting lonely old people in nursing homes who are older than the people in the nursing homes. I guess that's what's called Germanic durability."



ELMER JACKISH still practices the organ every day and splits the duties as St. Paul Lutheran Church organist with another man. Jackish, 80, has been at St. Paul for 50 years as a musician and teacher at the parish school.

Skokie cops sue village officials

Twenty-seven Skokie policemen who were fired for their part in a work stoppage last summer filed a $4.2 million damage suit Friday against Skokie village officials. They also asked for their jobs back. The suit, filed in U.S. District Court, asks that the village be prohibited from hiring replacements for the 27 fired policemen, and names as defendants 13 village officials, including Mayor Al Smith. The policemen were fired by the Skokie Police and Fire Commission after a wage dispute last summer in which the men refused to wear their uniforms to work for 11 days. Skokie police are not allowed to work without their uniforms. The suit was assigned to U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Sam Perry.

Teachers OK 10% pay hike

High School Dist. 211 teachers have overwhelmingly approved a two-year contract which makes them the highest paid secondary teachers in the area. The contract calls for salary increases of 10.65 per cent this year and 12.35 per cent next year. Starting salaries for teachers with a bachelor's degree and no experience are $10,255 this year and $11,000 next year. The contract is expected to be ratified by the board of education at a special 8 a.m. meeting today.

Sunday racing has foes

The possibility of Sunday racing at Arlington Park Race Track has met with objections from Rolling Meadows officials who feel people might better spend their time in church. Traffic congestion and noise were the main objections raised by the officials who plan to contact Arlington Heights officials to make their feelings known. Under a new bill, Arlington Park Race Track would be permitted to stay open all year and have Sunday racing with the consent of the Arlington Heights Village Board.

Interim lights to be installed

Traffic snarls at the intersection of Northwest Highway and Euclid Avenue for the past three weeks may improve. The Village of Arlington Heights is installing a temporary traffic signal at the intersection to replace the signal that was damaged by lightning three weeks ago. Village officials estimate it may be six months before the permanent signals are repaired at an estimated cost of $20,000.

'Tomfoolery' recruits students

Harper tutors race track magic

A course in magic tricks taught to employes of the Arlington Park Race Track through a state grant for educating the disadvantaged was called "tomfoolery" Thursday by a member of the Harper College Board.

Board member Robert Rausch abstained on voting to approve the program, which will be funded with part of a $26,700 state grant, after hearing a college staffer explain the class in magic "enticed" track employes to take other courses.

Frank Christensen, director of the college's learning laboratory, said the college teachers basic literacy courses in English and Spanish to grooms, cooks and other race track employes, "many of whom have serious educational disadvantages."

Christensen said, "We're enticing them into the program with very practical kinds of things. The man who taught magic was also very skilled at cards. He was also teaching about odds in gambling and that sort of thing. It is very realistic to these people."

Much of the state grant goes to support other basic education courses offered at the college in addition to the program for track employes, Christensen said.

The budget for the state grant was approved by the board, with Rausch abstaining. Rausch said, "I couldn't vote no because the major part of the program is so worthwhile, but I didn't feel I could be a part to an occasional bit of tomfoolery."

Debate set for faculty seat

The Harper board of trustees has agreed to decide next month a long-standing issue — whether to seat a faculty member on the board.

The board agreed Thursday to discuss a proposal from board member Robert Rausch to make a faculty member a nonvoting board member at its Oct. 9 meeting.

Rausch is proposing that a faculty member elected at-large by the faculty be given the nonvoting seat on the board similar to the seat given to a student by state law two years ago. Rausch said, "We have learned to live with the mighty student seat on the board and I think we can learn to live with a faculty seat, and maybe even learn to enjoy the interplay that results."

The board has discussed similar proposals for a faculty seat on the board during the past several years but has rejected them each time.

Colleges to sue New Trier

The Harper Board Thursday agreed to join a lawsuit by Oakton Community College against the New Trier High School district in an effort to collect $23,455 in tuition payments the high school district owes the college — if an agreement on legal fees can be worked out.

Oakton has filed suit against the high school district to collect $113,000 the high school district owes that school.

Because of a legal wrangle involving the creation of a community college district on the North Shore, New Trier has refused to pay the tuitions of high school students who have attended community colleges.

The tuition payments, called chargebacks, are designed to make up the difference between the in-district college tuition and the college's cost of educating a student.

The Harper board said it will join the lawsuit, assuming legal fees will be split between the college and Oakton in proportion to the amount of money the two schools will collect if they win.

Officials to explain Harper vote

Meetings are scheduled throughout the area this week by officials of Harper College in Palatine to explain the college's $12 million bond referendum Sept. 27.

The referendum package includes $2,106,000 to buy 117 acres at Palatine and Schoenbeck roads in Arlington Heights for a second college campus. Also included is $7,050,000 to complete building the college's present Palatine campus and $2,883,500 for building the second campus.

Meetings on the referendum this week are:

Monday

- Lady Lions of Buffalo Grove, Whipple Tree Village recreation center, 525 N. McHenry Rd., Wheeling, 8 p.m.

Tuesday

- Arlington Heights Lions Club, St. Peter's Lutheran School, 111 W. Olive, Arlington Heights, dinner meeting, 6:30 p.m.
- Elk Grove Homeowners Assn., Elk Grove Village Public Library, 101 Kennedy Blvd., Elk Grove Village, 8 p.m.

Wednesday

- Arlington Heights League of Women Voters, 609 E. Ivy Ln., Arlington Heights, 8 p.m.
- Northwest Municipal Conference, Elk Grove Village Hall, 8 p.m.

Thursday

- Arlington Heights Rotary club, Arlington Park Hilton, noon.
- Elk Grove Village Rotary Club, Maitre d' Restaurant, 111 E. Higgins, Elk Grove Village, 12:15 p.m.

Friday

- Schaumburg Rotary Club, Holiday Inn of Rolling Meadows, 3405 Algonquin Rd., Rolling Meadows, 12:15 p.m.

Program covers learning handicaps

"They Want to Test My Child" will be the topic of the Sept. 24 program hosted by the Northwest Suburban Council on Understanding Learning Disabilities (COULD).

Mary Ellen Sarbaugh, school psychologist from Elk Grove Township Dist. 59, will present the topic at the 8 p.m. meeting at Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas St., Arlington Heights.

The meeting will be the first of a series presented by COULD, a not-for-profit organization of parents and professionals whose goal is to increase understanding of children with learning disabilities.

COULD will present an all-day seminar on the hyperactive child Oct. 4 at Prospect High School. Dr. Paul H. Wender, head of child psychiatry, University of Utah School of Medicine, will present a series of lectures on the topic.

DR. WENDER is the author of "The Hyperactive Child: A Handbook for Parents" and "Minimal Brain Dysfunction in Children." His sessions will deal with labels, attention difficulties, auditory and visual learning problems, the effect of the teacher on the child with learning disabilities, development of the child with learning disabilities, behavioral and emotional development, the role of medication and controversial treatment methods.

Those interested in attending the seminar, which will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. may write COULD Seminar, P. O. Box 704, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006 for reservations. Cost is $4 for nonmembers and $3 for members.

Other COULD programs planned for the year include:

- Mirrors and Pictures: Patterns of Success for Children, 8 p.m. Nov. 19, Hersey High School. Speakers will be Jackie Everett, learning disabilities resource teacher in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, and Neil Everett, a motivational research scientist.
- Children's play and Christmas party benefit, Saturday, Dec. 13, Rolling Meadows High School, 2901 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows.
- Legislation for the Special Child, 8 p.m., Jan. 28, Hersey High School. Speaker is State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights.
- Children with Learning Disabilities: Theories, Diagnosis and Teaching Strategies, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday Feb. 7, Hersey High School cafeteria. Speaker will be Janet Lerner, professor, Northeastern Illinois University. Also, Estelle Bradley, reading and learning disabilities coordinator in Des Plaines Dist. 62 will speak on "Helping the L.D. Child in the Classroom."
- Systems of Remediation for Children with Learning Disabilities, 8 p.m. March 24, Hersey High School. Speaker will be August Mauser, professor of special education, Northern Illinois University.
- Understanding Learning Disabilities, 8 p.m. April 28, Hersey High School. Speaker will be Tanis Bryan, research scientist, Illinois State Pediatric Institute.
- Films dealing with adolescents and a panel of learning disabilities teenagers will be presented at the May 26 meeting, at 8 p.m. at Hersey High School.

Road death rate rises; speeding linked to wrecks

The death toll on Illinois highways has risen this year, an indication that drivers are ignoring the 55 m.p.h. speed limit, state police have announced.

Traffic deaths through August this year totaled 1,301, up 55 from the 1974 period.

Locally, Cook County deaths in August totaled 60. State police in District 3 headquarters, Des Plaines, investigated a total of 464 accidents in August. A total of 3,272 accidents have occurred since the first of the year, statistics show.

Spokesmen for Supt. Dwight E. Pitman's office said the higher fatality figures indicate motorists are surpassing the 55 mile per hour speed limit. Higher traffic volume may also be contributing to the rising totals, they agreed.

Free admission for $234,000 futurity

Arlington Park Race Track will offer free admission to the grandstand today for its richest race of the year, the $234,000 Arlington-Washington Futurity.

Free entrance to the racetrack is billed as an "appreciation day" for the racing public that has boosted Arlington Park's attendance and betting totals this season, a track spokesman said.

Arlington Park's gesture marks the first time ever that an Illinois race track has offered free admission on a Saturday.

The regular grandstand admission price is $2.

Skokie cops sue village officials

Twenty-seven Skokie policemen who were fired for their part in a work stoppage last summer filed a $4.2 million damage suit Friday against Skokie village officials. They also asked for their jobs back. The suit, filed in U.S. District Court, asks that the village be prohibited from hiring replacements for the 27 fired policemen, and names as defendants 13 village officials, including Mayor Al Smith. The policemen were fired by the Skokie Police and Fire Commission after a wage dispute last summer in which the men refused to wear their uniforms to work for 11 days. Skokie police are not allowed to work without their uniforms. The suit was assigned to U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Sam Perry.

Teachers OK 10% pay hike

High School Dist. 211 teachers have overwhelmingly approved a two-year contract which makes them the highest paid secondary teachers in the area. The contract calls for salary increases of 10.65 per cent this year and 12.35 per cent next year. Starting salaries for teachers with a bachelor's degree and no experience are $10,255 this year and $11,000 next year. The contract is expected to be ratified by the board of education at a special 8 a.m. meeting today.

Sunday racing has foes

The possibility of Sunday racing at Arlington Park Race Track has met with objections from Rolling Meadows officials who feel people might better spend their time in church. Traffic congestion and noise were the main objections raised by the officials who plan to contact Arlington Heights officials to make their feelings known. Under a new bill, Arlington Park Race Track would be permitted to stay open all year and have Sunday racing with the consent of the Arlington Heights Village Board.

Interim lights to be installed

Traffic snarls at the intersection of Northwest Highway and Euclid Avenue for the past three weeks may improve. The Village of Arlington Heights is installing a temporary traffic signal at the intersection to replace the signal that was damaged by lightning three weeks ago. Village officials estimate it may be six months before the permanent signals are repaired at an estimated cost of $20,000.

'Tomfoolery' recruits students

Harper tutors race track magic

A course in magic tricks taught to employes of the Arlington Park Race Track through a state grant for educating the disadvantaged was called "tomfoolery" Thursday by a member of the Harper College Board.

Board member Robert Rausch abstained on voting to approve the program, which will be funded with part of a $26,700 state grant, after hearing a college staffer explain the class in magic "enticed" track employes to take other courses.

Frank Christensen, director of the college's learning laboratory, said the college teachers basic literacy courses in English and Spanish to grooms, cooks and other race track employes, "many of whom have serious educational disadvantages."

Christensen said, "We're enticing them into the program with very practical kinds of things. The man who taught magic was also very skilled at cards. He was also teaching about odds in gambling and that sort of thing. It is very realistic to these people."

Much of the state grant goes to support other basic education courses offered at the college in addition to the program for track employes, Christensen said.

The budget for the state grant was approved by the board, with Rausch abstaining. Rausch said, "I couldn't vote no because the major part of the program is so worthwhile, but I didn't feel I could be a part to an occasional bit of tomfoolery."

Debate set for faculty seat

The Harper board of trustees has agreed to decide next month a long-standing issue — whether to seat a faculty member on the board.

The board agreed Thursday to discuss a proposal from board member Robert Rausch to make a faculty member a nonvoting board member at its Oct. 9 meeting.

Rausch is proposing that a faculty member elected at-large by the faculty be given the nonvoting seat on the board similar to the seat given to a student by state law two years ago. Rausch said, "We have learned to live with the mighty student seat on the board and I think we can learn to live with a faculty seat, and maybe even learn to enjoy the interplay that results."

The board has discussed similar proposals for a faculty seat on the board during the past several years but has rejected them each time.

Colleges to sue New Trier

The Harper Board Thursday agreed to join a lawsuit by Oakton Community College against the New Trier High School district in an effort to collect $23,455 in tuition payments the high school district owes the college — if an agreement on legal fees can be worked out.

Oakton has filed suit against the high school district to collect $113,000 the high school district owes that school.

Because of a legal wrangle involving the creation of a community college district on the North Shore, New Trier has refused to pay the tuitions of high school students who have attended community colleges.

The tuition payments, called chargebacks, are designed to make up the difference between the in-district college tuition and the college's cost of educating a student.

The Harper board said it will join the lawsuit, assuming legal fees will be split between the college and Oakton in proportion to the amount of money the two schools will collect if they win.

Ex-POW leaves board seat

John Young, former Vietnam prisoner of war from Arlington Heights, has resigned from the position of student member of the Harper board.

The board Tuesday accepted Young's resignation after being told by Student Senate Pres. Carol Tvrdy that Young has moved to Alaska to study at the University of Alaska. "He asked me to tell the board he's sorry this was so sudden, but that life is like that," Ms. Tvrdy said.

Young was elected by the students last spring and was supposed to serve until next July 1. Ms. Tvrdy said the student senate will appoint a person to complete Young's term.

Officials to explain Harper vote

Meetings are scheduled throughout the area this week by officials of Harper College in Palatine to explain the college's $12 million bond referendum Sept. 27.

The referendum package includes $2,106,000 to buy 117 acres at Palatine and Schoenbeck roads in Arlington Heights for a second college campus. Also included is $7,050,000 to complete building the college's present Palatine campus and $2,883,500 for building the second campus.

Meetings on the referendum this week are:

Monday

- Lady Lions of Buffalo Grove, Whipple Tree Village recreation center, 525 N. McHenry Rd., Wheeling, 8 p.m.

Tuesday

- Arlington Heights Lions Club, St. Peter's Lutheran School, 111 W. Olive, Arlington Heights, dinner meeting, 6:30 p.m.
- Elk Grove Homeowners Assn., Elk Grove Village Public Library, 101 Kennedy Blvd., Elk Grove Village, 8 p.m.

Wednesday

- Arlington Heights League of Women Voters, 609 E. Ivy Ln., Arlington Heights, 8 p.m.
- Northwest Municipal Conference, Elk Grove Village Hall, 8 p.m.

Thursday

- Arlington Heights Rotary club, Arlington Park Hilton, noon.
- Elk Grove Village Rotary Club, Maitre d' Restaurant, 111 E. Higgins, Elk Grove Village, 12:15 p.m.

Friday

Program covers learning handicaps

"They Want to Test My Child" will be the topic of the Sept. 24 program hosted by the Northwest Suburban Council on Understanding Learning Disabilities (COULD).

Mary Ellen Sarbaugh, school psychologist from Elk Grove Township Dist. 59, will present the topic at the 8 p.m. meeting at Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas St., Arlington Heights.

The meeting will be the first of a series presented by COULD, a not-for-profit organization of parents and professionals whose goal is to increase understanding of children with learning disabilities.

COULD will present an all-day seminar on the hyperactive child Oct. 4 at Prospect High School. Dr. Paul H. Wender, head of child psychiatry, University of Utah School of Medicine, will present a series of lectures on the topic.

DR. WENDER is the author of "The Hyperactive Child: A Handbook for Parents" and "Minimal Brain Dysfunction in Children." His sessions will deal with labels, attention difficulties, auditory and visual learning problems, the effect of the teacher on the child with learning disabilities, development of the child with learning disabilities, behavioral and emotional development, the role of medication and controversial treatment methods.

Those interested in attending the seminar, which will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. may write COULD Seminar, P. O. Box 704, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006 for reservations. Cost is $4 for nonmembers and $3 for members.

Other COULD programs planned for the year include:

- Mirrors and Pictures: Patterns of Success for Children, 8 p.m. Nov. 19, Hersey High School. Speakers will be Jackie Everett, learning disabilities resource teacher in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, and Neil Everett, a motivational research scientist.
- Children's play and Christmas party benefit, Saturday, Dec. 13, Rolling Meadows High School, 2901 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows.
- Legislation for the Special Child, 8 p.m., Jan. 28, Hersey High School. Speaker is State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights.
- Children with Learning Disabilities: Theories, Diagnosis and Teaching Strategies, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday Feb. 7, Hersey High School cafeteria. Speaker will be Janet Lerner, professor, Northeastern Illinois University. Also, Estelle Bradley, reading and learning disabilities coordinator in Des Plaines Dist. 62 will speak on "Helping the L.D. Child in the Classroom."
- Systems of Remediation for Children with Learning Disabilities, 8 p.m. March 24, Hersey High School. Speaker will be August Mauser, professor of special education, Northern Illinois University.
- Understanding Learning Disabilities, 8 p.m. April 28, Hersey High School. Speaker will be Tanis Bryan, research scientist, Illinois State Pediatric Institute.
- Films dealing with adolescents and learning disabilities and a panel of learning disabilities teenagers will be presented at the May 26 meeting, at 8 p.m. at Hersey High School.

Road death rate rises; speeding linked to wrecks

The death toll on Illinois highways has risen this year, an indication that drivers are ignoring the 55 m.p.h. speed limit, state police have announced.

Traffic deaths through August this year totaled 1,301, up 55 from the 1974 period.

Locally, Cook County deaths in August totaled 60. State police in District 3 headquarters, Des Plaines, investigated a total of 464 accidents in August. A total of 3,272 accidents have occurred since the first of the year, statistics show.

Spokesmen for Supt. Dwight E. Pitman's office said the higher fatality figures indicate motorists are surpassing the 55 mile per hour speed limit. Higher traffic volume may also be contributing to the rising totals, they agreed.

Free admission for $234,000 futurity

Arlington Park Race Track will offer free admission to the grandstand today for its richest race of the year, the $234,000 Arlington-Washington Futurity.

Free entrance to the racetrack is billed as an "appreciation day" for the racing public that has boosted Arlington Park's attendance and betting totals this season, a track spokesman said.

Arlington Park's gesture marks the first time ever that an Illinois race track has offered free admission on a Saturday.

The regular grandstand admission price is $2.

House panel ordered

Return secret reports: Ford

by DANIEL F. GILMORE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Because of four words in classified CIA documents disclosed by the House Intelligence Committee without permission, the White House Friday demanded return of the material. President Ford described the committee action as a breach of good faith.

Committee Chairman Otis Pike, D-N.Y., after a heated exchange with Assistant Atty. Gen. Rex H. Lee, refused to comply immediately and scheduled a meeting Monday to discuss the issue with the rest of his panel.

The confrontation centered on the committee's release Thursday of a segment from the documents, indicating the outbreak of the 1973 middle east war caught American intelligence agencies unaware.

The Central Intelligence Agency had OKd publication of all but four words of the material. But those four words, according to Director William E. Colby, "were important enough in this issue" to warrant interrupting the committee's work.

Neither Colby nor the committee would say what the four words were.

Ford was asked about the controversy when he landed at the airport in St. Louis, and he said the material was given to the committee on the condition that members would abide by an agreement on what could or could not be released.

"Unfortunately, the committee took action that did not coincide with the agreement," he told reporters. "We feel that we had a good faith agreement, and it was breached. I think we have taken proper action in requesting a return.

Lee, appearing before the panel Friday on behalf of the executive branch, said the committee violated constitutional and congressional precedent in deciding on its own to declassify the material.

"The constitutional question raised by the committee's action is a most serious one," Lee said.

"I do not plan to turn over the material today," Pike shot back, "and there is no question that the executive branch has technically stopped the legislative branch."

"If we comply with the request of the President it obviously stops the investigation if we are denied security material," said Pike, whose committee is conducting a broad-scale inquiry into U.S. intelligence activities.

Colby, in a rare news conference at the agency's complex in nearby Langley, Va., said he hoped the impasse between the committee and the White House could be resolved.

"We are prepared to negotiate" on committee handling of sensitive CIA material, he said, "but we can't do so with a unilateral decision by a committee chairman without jeopardizing sources of information and methods of operation."

PRESIDENT FORD, shrugging off yet another assassination scare, kicked off a three-state campaign sweep Friday by plugging his Vice President and telling black church leaders, "I stand for quality education for every American." Ford was greeted by crowds at Lambert-St. Louis Field.

Another Ford death scare

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A man believed to have been carrying a pistol and wearing a wig was the object of an unsuccessful police chase and search Friday at a building where President Ford was to speak.

Patrolman Thomas Calcaterra reported he saw the man with what he believed to be a .45-caliber automatic pistol. Calcaterra said the man was on a stairway leading down the 15th Street side of the third floor of Kiel Auditorium. Ford later used the 15th Street doorway to enter the building.

Calcaterra said he pursued the man down the stairway and chased him into a parking garage, where he lost him.

About 50 policemen, in addition to the regular security detail, converged on the garage, but a search failed to turn up the apparent gunman. Ford later delivered his speech to the National Baptist Convention as scheduled.

Police reported two bomb threats were received at Kiel Auditorium shortly before Ford's appearance.

Calcaterra described the pursued man as 30 to 35 years old, 175 pounds and wearing a black medium length wig, dark trousers and a white short-sleeved shirt.

At the airport, Ford showed no signs of reluctance to mingle with the crowds, hurrying to a roped-off area where about 200 persons waited with outstretched hands.

When reporters asked him about the bullet proof vest he wore in New Hampshire Thursday, Ford said, "I don't think I ought to talk about any security precautions." As for last week's attempt on his life in Sacramento, Calif., he said, "I'm just grateful to the Secret Service."

Later, in a radio interview, Ford said, "I feel I have to balance the risks to my own personal security" against the need to get out and meet people and find out what they are thinking. He said he thought such efforts by a president were necessary "and what's good for the country overbalances anything else."

"I don't think I should discuss whether I wear it (the vest) or don't wear it," he said. "The Secret Service makes recommendations and I feel an obligation to follow their recommendations."

Army admits using LSD to test agents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army tested intelligence men with LSD from 1958 to 1960 to see whether a spy can be made to disclose his secrets under the influence of the drug, it was disclosed Friday.

General Counsel Charles D. Ablard, the Army's top legal officer, told a joint Senate subcommittee hearing the experiments were aimed at testing "The possible use of LSD as an aid in intelligence interrogation."

Ablard's testimony was continued in a prepared statement he made Wednesday before the Senate subcommittees on health and administrative practice. His statement was made public Friday.

Describing the experiment involving 31 Army intelligence men, Ablard said: "It was designed to determine whether, as a result of the administration of LSD, a well-trained and experienced intelligence agent could be made to divulge classified information that could not be obtained from the agent solely through the use of conventional questions."

He said the experiment was conducted at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., from 1958 through 1960 as a joint project of the U.S. Army Intelligence Board and the Medical Research Directorate of the Army's Chemical Warefare Laboratory.

The joint subcommittee also heard testimony Friday that LSD, a powerful hallucinogenic drug, and other physically and mentally disabling narcotics, have been tested on about 4,000 military volunteers and civilian prisoners since 1967.

Dr. Van Sim, former chief of medical research at the Edgewood Arsenal, said the Army is providing followup medical checks and treatment, where necessary, on only 585 of the volunteers.

"We didn't have the money or manpower to follow up with the type of investigation we thought necessary" on the thousands of others, Sim said.

"That's an intolerable sitaution, to say you don't have enough money," said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

He demanded and got assurances that Sim would request necessary funds and personnel to follow through with proper medical treatment for all participants in military drug experiments and chemical experiments.

Fighting renewed in Lebanon

Rival Moslem and Christian political factions traded mortar fire in north Lebanon late Friday, shattering a day-long truce. Reporters in the region said gunmen in Tripoli, Lebanon's second largest city, and in the Christian village of Majdlaya, a few miles to the east, began firing around 3 p.m. (CDT). Authorities reported two dead in the latest fighting. Fighting Thursday night left about 20 dead and 45 injured in Tripoli itself and the Akkar region near the northern border with Syria.

Soviets urged to get peace pact

Egypt struck hard Friday at critics of its interim peace agreement with Israel and challenged the Russians to arrange a similar pact on the Syrian Golan Heights. Cairo also said it wants the Geneva peace conference to meet in November. Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi said in an interview with the newspaper Al Ahram Egypt would welcome any disengagement agreement on the Golan Heights or other fronts, "if the Soviet Union could arrange one."

Argentina's Peron leaving office

Pres. Isabel Peron will take a leave of absence from office beginning today and hand over the Argentine government to Senate Pres. Italo A. Luder, the government announced Friday. The official announcement from the president's press secretary said Luder, 58, a constitutional law expert and member of Mrs. Peron's own political party, would be sworn in as acting president at 5 p.m. (CDT). Air force sources said Mrs. Peron would rest at an air force resort in Cordoba Province in the northwest.

Corporate loan rate increased

Several major banks Friday raised their key corporate loan rate to 8 per cent, the highest level in six months and another indicator of rising prices. First National City Bank of New York, the nation's second largest commercial bank, began the trend, adding one quarter percentage point to its prime rate.

Encephalitis reported in 16 states

Outbreaks of encephalitis were reported in 16 states Friday by the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., which said the mosquito-borne illness was more widespread than at any time in recent years. Cases of the sometimes fatal disease were reported in Mississippi, Illinois, Texas, Tennessee, North Dakota, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Alabama, Louisiana, Arkansas, New Jersey, Georgia, Missouri, Maryland, and Iowa.

Mississippi and Illinois were the hardest-hit states. Mississippi listed 242 cases, either confirmed or suspected, of St. Louis encephalitis, with 33 deaths. Illinois reported 210 cases and nine deaths.

$106 million to Saudi Arabia

Lockheed tells of bribes

by LEONARD CURRY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Lockheed Aircraft Corp. disclosed Friday it paid $106 million in bribes, kickbacks and commissions over a five-year period to promote aircraft sales in Saudi Arabia.

At a congressional hearing, one angry senator accused Lockheed of "reprehensible conduct" and another suggested the Lockheed witness — board chairman Daniel J. Haughton — was "an authority" on bribery and kickbacks.

In his testimony before the Senate subcommittee on multi-national corporations, Haughton said Lockheed had paid $106 million to middlemen and officials in Saudi Arabia to boost sales there. But he said that included legitimate commissions and "kickbacks" as well as the "bribes" mentioned by subcommittee chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho.

"What's the difference between a bribe and a kickback?" Church asked.

"A kickback is something in the price you return to the buyer," Haughton replied. "A bribe is where you ask for a service and pay for it. That's how it comes through to me, but I'm no authority . . ."

An outburst of laughter in the hearing room gallery interrupted Haughton's remarks. He blushed a deep shade of red and Church cut in:

"If you aren't an authority, I don't know who is."

Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., challenged Lockheed's business ethics and the credibility of Haughton's testimony.

"This is further evidence of the reprehensible conduct of your company!" Biden said. "I think it's phoney — your answers. Thank God, you're not a company that employes people in Delaware and I won't have to reconsider my remarks and apologize."

Church introduced the subject of improper payments — calling it bribery — early in the session, telling Haughton: "You pay out $100 million in bribes in one country Saudi Arabia alone."

"I don't think we consider the $100 million as bribes because we did receive benefits," Haughton said. He said Lockheed lost no income because it added the extra charges to the price of aircraft sold to the Saudis. Later, Haughton raised the estimate to $106 million.

"Lockheed does not defend or condone the practice of payments to foreign officials," Haughton said in a prepared statement he delivered as a subcommittee witness.

"We only say the practice exists, and that in may countries it appeared, as a matter of business judgment, necessary in order to compete against both U.S. and foreign competitors."

Church said the Lockheed money was funneled through Mideast weapons agent Adnan Khashoggi, an American-educated Arab who tried to buy a California bank last year. He has also been linked with Northrop Corp.'s payments to Saudi generals.

Khashoggi denied the charges through a spokesman in Washington. The "stream of allegations" were based on "misunderstanding, confusion and hearsay," Khashoggi said.

Haughton said Lockheed considers it both undesirable and unnecessary to identify publicly the officials who may have received the payments and stressed that the corporation often does not even know where the money goes.

"It is so often difficult or impossible to know with any certainty whether an apparent recipient actually received the payments," he said.

On Thursday, the panel released 205 pages of documents detailing Lockheed payments in Indonesia, Iran, Saudi Arabia and the Philippines.

Walker raps Daley for teachers' strike

Mayor Richard J. Daley's "fiscal irresponsibility" is responsible for the Chicago school strike, Gov. Daniel Walker charged Friday.

In his strongest statement on the strike which has kept 530,000 students out of classes since Sept. 3, Walker accused Daley of "Mickey Mouse financing" and "slippery budget procedures."

"There is plenty of loose, unaccounted money floating around Chicago" to pay for the teachers, Walker said. He said people should ask the mayor if his priority is education or "Keeping up the patronage army at City Hall."

The governor said Daley wants all the people of Illinois to pay for his educational debts, but they won't.

Calcaterra said he pursued the man down the stairway and chased him into a parking garage, where he lost him.

About 50 policemen, in addition to the regular security detail, converged on the garage, but a search failed to turn up the apparent gunman. Ford later delivered his speech to the National Baptist Convention as scheduled.

Police reported two bomb threats were received at Kiel Auditorium shortly before Ford's appearance.

Calcaterra described the pursued man as 30 to 35 years old, 175 pounds and wearing a black medium length wig, dark trousers and a white short-sleeved shirt.

At the airport, Ford showed no signs of reluctance to mingle with the crowds, hurrying to a roped-off area where about 200 persons waited with outstretched hands.

When reporters asked him about the bullet proof vest he wore in New Hampshire Thursday, Ford said, "I don't think I ought to talk about any security precautions." As for last week's attempt on his life in Sacramento, Calif., he said, "I'm just grateful to the Secret Service."

Later, in a radio interview, Ford said, "I feel I have to balance the risks to my own personal security" against the need to get out and meet people and find out what they are thinking. He said he thought such efforts by a president were necessary "and what's good for the country overbalances anything else."

"I don't think I should discuss whether I wear it (the vest) or don't wear it," he said. "The Secret Service makes recommendations and I feel an obligation to follow their recommendations."

Army admits using LSD to test agents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army tested intelligence men with LSD from 1958 to 1960 to see whether a spy can be made to disclose his secrets under the influence of the drug, it was disclosed Friday.

General Counsel Charles D. Ablard, the Army's top legal officer, told a joint Senate subcommittee hearing the experiments were aimed at testing "The possible use of LSD as an aid in intelligence interrogation."

Ablard's testimony was continued in a prepared statement he made Wednesday before the Senate subcommittees on health and administrative practice. His statement was made public Friday.

Describing the experiment involving 31 Army intelligence men, Ablard said: "It was designed to determine whether, as a result of the administration of LSD, a well-trained and experienced intelligence agent could be made to divulge classified information that could not be obtained from the agent solely through the use of conventional questions."

He said the experiment was conducted at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., from 1958 through 1960 as a joint project of the U.S. Army Intelligence Board and the Medical Research Directorate of the Army's Chemical Warefare Laboratory.

The joint subcommittee also heard testimony Friday that LSD, a powerful hallucinogenic drug, and other physically and mentally disabling narcotics, have been tested on about 4,000 military volunteers and civilian prisoners since 1967.

Dr. Van Sim, former chief of medical research at the Edgewood Arsenal, said the Army is providing followup medical checks and treatment, where necessary, on only 585 of the volunteers.

"We didn't have the money or manpower to follow up with the type of investigation we thought necessary" on the thousands of others, Sim said.

"That's an intolerable sitaution, to say you don't have enough money," said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

He demanded and got assurances that Sim would request necessary funds and personnel to follow through with proper medical treatment for all participants in military drug experiments and chemical experiments.

Fighting renewed in Lebanon

Rival Moslem and Christian political factions traded mortar fire in north Lebanon late Friday, shattering a day-long truce. Reporters in the region said gunmen in Tripoli, Lebanon's second largest city, and in the Christian village of Majdlaya, a few miles to the east, began firing around 3 p.m. (CDT). Authorities reported two dead in the latest fighting. Fighting Thursday night left about 20 dead and 45 injured in Tripoli itself and the Akkar region near the northern border with Syria.

Soviets urged to get peace pact

Egypt struck hard Friday at critics of its interim peace agreement with Israel and challenged the Russians to arrange a similar pact on the Syrian Golan Heights. Cairo also said it wants the Geneva peace conference to meet in November. Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi said in an interview with the newspaper Al Ahram Egypt would welcome any disengagement agreement on the Golan Heights or other fronts, "if the Soviet Union could arrange one."

Argentina's Peron leaving office

Pres. Isabel Peron will take a leave of absence from office beginning today and hand over the Argentine government to Senate Pres. Italo A. Luder, the government announced Friday. The official announcement from the president's press secretary said Luder, 58, a constitutional law expert and member of Mrs. Peron's own political party, would be sworn in as acting president at 5 p.m. (CDT). Air force sources said Mrs. Peron would rest at an air force resort in Cordoba Province in the northwest.

Corporate loan rate increased

Several major banks Friday raised their key corporate loan rate to 8 per cent, the highest level in six months and another indicator of rising prices. First National City Bank of New York, the nation's second largest commercial bank, began the trend, adding one quarter percentage point to its prime rate.

Encephalitis reported in 16 states

Outbreaks of encephalitis were reported in 16 states Friday by the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., which said the mosquito-borne illness was more widespread than at any time in recent years. Cases of the sometimes fatal disease were reported in Mississippi, Illinois, Texas, Tennessee, North Dakota, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Alabama, Louisiana, Arkansas, New Jersey, Georgia, Missouri, Maryland, and Iowa.

Mississippi and Illinois were the hardest-hit states. Mississippi listed 242 cases, either confirmed or suspected, of St. Louis encephalitis, with 33 deaths. Illinois reported 210 cases and nine deaths.

$106 million to Saudi Arabia

Lockheed tells of bribes

by LEONARD CURRY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Lockheed Aircraft Corp. disclosed Friday it paid $106 million in bribes, kickbacks and commissions over a five-year period to promote aircraft sales in Saudi Arabia.

At a congressional hearing, one angry senator accused Lockheed of "reprehensible conduct" and another suggested the Lockheed witness — board chairman Daniel J. Haughton — was "an authority" on bribery and kickbacks.

In his testimony before the Senate subcommittee on multi-national corporations, Haughton said Lockheed had paid $106 million to middlemen and officials in Saudi Arabia to boost sales there. But he said that included legitimate commissions and "kickbacks" as well as the "bribes" mentioned by subcommittee chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho.

"What's the difference between a bribe and a kickback?" Church asked.

"A kickback is something in the price you return to the buyer," Haughton replied. "A bribe is where you ask for a service and pay for it. That's how it comes through to me, but I'm no authority . . ."

An outburst of laughter in the hearing room gallery interrupted Haughton's remarks. He blushed a deep shade of red and Church cut in:

"If you aren't an authority, I don't know who is."

Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., challenged Lockheed's business ethics and the credibility of Haughton's testimony.

"This is further evidence of the reprehensible conduct of your company!" Biden said. "I think it's phoney — your answers. Thank God, you're not a company that employes people in Delaware and I won't have to reconsider my remarks and apologize."

Church introduced the subject of improper payments — calling it bribery — early in the session, telling Haughton: "You pay out $100 million in bribes in one country Saudi Arabia alone."

"I don't think we consider the $100 million as bribes because we did receive benefits," Haughton said. He said Lockheed lost no income because it added the extra charges to the price of aircraft sold to the Saudis. Later, Haughton raised the estimate to $106 million.

"Lockheed does not defend or condone the practice of payments to foreign officials," Haughton said in a prepared statement he delivered as a subcommittee witness.

"We only say the practice exists, and that in may countries it appeared, as a matter of business judgment, necessary in order to compete against both U.S. and foreign competitors."

Church said the Lockheed money was funneled through Mideast weapons agent Adnan Khashoggi, an American-educated Arab who tried to buy a California bank last year. He has also been linked with Northrop Corp.'s payments to Saudi generals.

Khashoggi denied the charges through a spokesman in Washington. The "stream of allegations" were based on "misunderstanding, confusion and hearsay," Khashoggi said.

Haughton said Lockheed considers it both undesirable and unnecessary to identify publicly the officials who may have received the payments and stressed that the corporation often does not even know where the money goes.

"It is so often difficult or impossible to know with any certainty whether an apparent recipient actually received the payments," he said.

On Thursday, the panel released 205 pages of documents detailing Lockheed payments in Indonesia, Iran, Saudi Arabia and the Philippines.

Murderer one of nation's 'outstanding'

• A convicted murderer, Michael P. Moeller, 33, has been named one of 9,000 "Outstanding Young Men of America" for 1975. Moeller is serving a 17½-year term in the Hawaii State Prison for the sniper-slaying of a policeman and wounding of six other persons in 1965.

• American painter Clarence Hagins, 33, of Richmond Va., has a problem. Mistaken for a Middle East prince, Hagins contends he is "being wined and dined to death." "It's becoming an exhausting program and I can't take it," Hagins said. Hagins was in London when he was mistaken for a prince traveling incognito and was treated to dinner and champagne by a Saudi Arabian businessmen who thought he was Prince Quaboos of Oman. Walker raps Daley for teachers' strike

Mayor Richard J. Daley's "fiscal irresponsibility" is responsible for the Chicago school strike, Gov. Daniel Walker charged Friday.

In his strongest statement on the strike which has kept 530,000 students out of classes since Sept. 3, Walker accused Daley of "Mickey Mouse financing" and "slippery budget procedures."

"There is plenty of loose, unaccounted money floating around Chicago" to pay for the teachers, Walker said. He said people should ask the mayor if his priority is education or "Keeping up the patronage army at City Hall."

The governor said Daley wants all the people of Illinois to pay for his educational debts, but they won't.

Ask Andy

Gannets, boobies fearless birds

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Mary Lou Bloxsom, age 11, of Milford, Conn., for her question:
WHAT SORT OF BIRD IS THE GANNET?

The handsome gannet is as big as a goose and as gentle as a tame pet budgie. In fact, his close cousins are called boobies because they do not fear human beings at all. Sad to say, many gannets and boobies have been killed by people who took advantage of their trusting natures.

The gannet belongs to cool coastal seas, where he fishes all day and sleeps like a floating duck on the water. In early spring he comes ashore to raise the family chick on some lofty, lonely cliff. If you chance to see him, he is sure to be with a flock of friends and relatives. You might mistake them for a flock of big geese, crowded on a cliff or wheeling above the water.

The adult gannet may be more than a yard long, and most of his plumage is as white as fresh fallen snow. His graceful head and neck are tinged with rosy gold, and there are black tips on his wide wings. His webbed feet are charcoal gray, fine for swimming but rather clumsy for walking. He has a long, straight yellow beak with a wide base that tapers to a point — just right for jabbing fish.

When the times comes to feed, the whole flock flies around over a school of herring, mackerel or squid. One by one, down they plunge with half-folded wings, splashing the water in spurts of spray. A gannet may plunge from 100 feet or more, dive underwater and flap wings and feet to chase his prey. His skull bones are extra hard, and there are air sacs in his head to soften the blow as he dives.

In winter the gannet may migrate to Florida or North Africa. In February he returns to one of 22 worldwide gannetries. There on a lofty ledge he battles his brethren for his chosen nesting site — which is about two feet from neighbors on all sides.

The female gannet lays a blue 3-inch egg, which soon turns chalky white. The nest on a bare rock is a solid bed of seaweeds and assorted debris. For a day or so, the precious egg is folded under her wide webbed feet. Then the male gannet takes his turn.

The naked chick soon gets a fluffy coat, mottled with brown and white. His devoted parents feed and tend him for two months. Then he is deserted — and promptly flies down to the sea. However, he is too fat to fly back home. But after a few days of dieting, while learning to fish, he is slim enough to fly off where he chooses.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the "Chronicles of Narnia" to Brent C. Hartinger, 10, of Tacoma, Wash., for his question:

WHAT EXACTLY IS RADIATION?

Picture a lot of straight rays, all spreading out from the same central point. Actually we cannot picture radiation because its spreading rays are energies — and energy is invisible. It may be heat radiation or light radiation that fans out from the dazzling sun. The heat from a campfire spreads out and warms things around it by radiation. Light radiates out from a lamp in all directions, turning night into day.

Our largest supplies of radiation pour forth from the sun. This is solar energy that fans outward in various forms of electromagnetic energy. This fancy name includes solar heat, light and other forms of energy that combine the invisible forces of electricity and magnetism. Other forms of radiation include piercing X-rays, plus the dangerous rays that come from atomic bombs and natural radioactive substances, such as uranium.

Allen's 'Family Robinson' like his films: a disaster

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK — Irwin Allen specializes in producing disasters — his movies have included "The Towering Inferno" and "The Poseidon Adventure" — and that's what his television serial version of "Swiss Family Robinson" is — a disaster.

Allen's latest venture includes a shipwreck, a fire and a typhoon. The shipwrecked Robinsons live through it all, but whether the show can is another matter.

"Irwin Allen's Swiss Family Robinson" — that's the full title, not to be confused with the classic from which it is derived — will air on ABC Sunday from 6-7 p.m. Central time, opposite CBS's new "Three for the Road" and NBC's long-lived "Wonderful World of Disney."

IT INCLUDES Martin Milner as a boyish Karl Robinson, father of the family. Cameron Mitchell plays Jeremiah Worth like a waterlogged Dan'l Boone, and the script is predictable.

When Karl is splinting Jeremiah's sprained leg, Jeremiah asks if he will be able to dance a sprightly sailor's hornpipe again. Karl is reassuring. Inevitably, Jeremiah responds, "That's funny, I never could dance a hornpipe before." Sigh.

The first televised chapter is "The Typhoon," in which Karl's son, Fred, overcomes during a typhoon the fear of water he acquired during the shipwreck.

FEAR ALSO plays a part in "Three For the Road," starring pleasantly gruff-voiced Alex Rocco as Pete Karras, a professional photographer who travels around the country with his two sons in an oversized camper. In the first episode of this warm but trite series, the family tries hang gliding, which gives the audience some beautiful beach views and a lesson in the sport.

Son John, however, is afraid of the heights, and thereby hangs a tale as well as a glider.

Another new weekender is "Doc" on CBS Saturday, 7:30-8 p.m. Central time. Doc, a kindly old curmudgeon played by Barnard Hughes, treats a racially mixed group of patients in a rundown neighborhood. In the opener, however, you don't see much of the patients.

What you see is Doc's wife conspiring with a Roman Catholic priest to force Doc to attend Mass and receive Communion. The priest joins Doc's weekly poker game and when Doc runs out of chips, his church attendance is thrown into the pot.

Adventures in Paradise? Try New Jersey instead

It seems even a trip to Paradise has its problems.

Last month, Long Grove resident Frank Butler left the Northwest suburbs in his 41-foot ketch sailboat, "Seaward," for a new home in the British Virgin Islands. Everything went well for the crew until Aug. 23, when its members decided to put in for fuel and water at Cape May, N.J.

Then it happened. The sailboat got stuck on a sandbar east of Hereford Inlet and was in danger of breaking up.

The craft bounced up and down in three-to four-foot waves until Coast Guard rescuers were able to pull the craft over the sand into clear waters.

THE RESCUERS used a helicopter and 41-and 30-foot rescue boats to dislodge the Seaward, battling the breakers and sand for more than 20 minutes before freeing the craft.

Two of the crew members were ordered to abandon ship by Butler when it appeared the craft would break up. The two were picked up from their liferaft by the helicopter, which transported them to shore.

Butler is being accompanied on the 3,200-mile journey by his 25-year-old son Bill and four other crew members. His wife Mary will fly to the Virgin Islands this weekend, about a week before Butler is scheduled to arrive.

Butler, who said before he left that he "didn't want to retire without any memories," already has had plenty of them.

FRANK BUTLER checks his charts before leaving home, not knowing what would happen to him and his sailboat on the way to Paradise.

3 hired to get Wickes zoning

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

A team of politically connected attorneys was hired to win zoning for a Wickes furniture warehouse in Wheeling because officials of the firm learned that political boss James Stavros controlled the village, a Wickes vice president said Friday.

Eugene Gordon, who directed the Wickes project in Wheeling, said "I was expecting something like that" when told that zoning would cost "50 big ones" ($50,000) by furniture consultant Edward Sheldon of Deerfield in December 1971.

"I felt we were being blocked . . . I recall speculating that Stavros might be involved," said Gordon, who received immunity from prosecution to testify at the trial of Ira Colitz and Nicholas Phillips.

COLITZ, A former state representative from Chicago, and Phillips, of 410 Marion St., Prospect Heights, and a cousin of Stavros, are charged with conspiracy and with extorting $50,000 from Wickes to influence zoning for the project.

Wickes officials switched from the firm of Kirkland and Ellis to Chicago cause "we were not making any progress," Gordon said.

Fisher then recommended hiring of attorney Gerald White and then added attorney Lee R. Hamburg to the "team" which negotiated zoning with Wheeling officials. Although Gordon estimated that hiring of the three attorneys required more than a month, defense lawyers Harvey Silets produced a series of letters from White to Gordon that began May 17, 1971.

The May 17 letter came only six days after Kirkland and Ellis explained Wickes' initial zoning petition to the Wheeling zoning board and came before the zoning board officially rejected the proposal May 20.

"DIDN'T IT OCCUR to you that someone should speak to him (Stavros)?" Silets asked. "Wasn't that one of your reasons for hiring White and Fisher?"

"Possibly," said Gordon, who was the only witness to testify Friday, the third trial day before U.S. Dist. Court Judge Prentice Marshall.

"You were looking to sort of grease the skids," Silets said.

"Nope" Gordon answered.

"Were you aware that Mr. Hamburg was a personal friend of Mr. (Ted) Scanlon, the village president?" Silets said.

"I'M NOT SURE. I knew he was from Wheeling and that he had associates in Wheeling," Gordon said.

"Were you aware that Mr. Hamburg was trying to contact the local banker to win support for the project?" Silets said.

Silets did not identify the bank official. During cross-examination Thursday, Silets referred to Hamburg's friendship with a "Wheeling bank president" without identifying the official.

Silets' examination of Gordon followed an opening statement on Wednesday that Wickes representatives conducted "a program of attempting to influence" and "seek out" Wheeling officials. Although Silets did not deny that Colitz requested $50,000 from Wickes, he said, during the opening statement, "the government will not bear the burden" of proving extortion.

SILETS, WHO represents Colitz, and Louis Carbonaro, who is Phillips' attorney, may claim that the $50,000 payoff was a bribe, not extortion, because Wickes' officials initiated the scheme.

Gordon said Friday that Sheldon "told me (in fall 1971 . . . that he was in contact with Ira Colitz . . . who said he could get Wickes into Wheeling for 50 big ones."

Although Wickes Pres. Emil L. McNeely said "Wickes should not become involved in the matter," Gordon approved further contact with Colitz. When a second Wickes' zoning petition was denied by village officials, McNeely "asked that I try and work out the problem with Arthur Rubloff," real estate agent for Wickes.

"Was he saying . . . let Rubloff make the payoff?" Silets asked.

"I guess that's the way it comes out," Gordon answered.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS repeated objections to the Wickes project and convinced Gordon the "project was dead" in July 1971, he said. Wickes then began to search for another north suburban location that included examination of the site in Northbrook and property near Arlington Park in Rolling Meadows.

Gordon rejected the Arlington Park site which was "too close" to the Wickes warehouse in Itasca. Another furniture warehouse chain, Levitz, later built near the proposed Wickes site.

The trial will reconvene at 9:15 a.m. Tuesday.

Condos seek change to apartments

The Courtyards of Arlington Heights, an apartment complex under construction at Somerset and Miner streets, has received plan commission approval to convert from condominium apartments to a rental plan.

Courtyards is the second multi-family development in Arlington Heights to request a change from condominium to rental units in the last two months.

Arlington Square apartments, Rand Road and Ill. Rte. 53, will now be marketed as a rental project.

Developers in both instances say that economic conditions have prevented the sale of condominium units.

The Arlington Heights Village Board still must approve the change in the Courtyards plan.

Tax vote forum on Wednesday

A forum on the Sept. 27 tax rate referendum in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Elk Grove Township Hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

The panel will include Supt. Roger Bardwell, Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administrative services; Timothy Frisby, director of R. J. Frisby Manufacturing Co. in Centex Industrial Park, Elk Grove Village; and John Lecraw of Mosstype Corp., Elk Grove Village.

Panel members will discuss the referendum in which voters are being asked to approve a 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation tax rate increase.

The forum is being sponsored by the Dist. 59 School Community Council. Each panel member will give a five-minute presentation which will be followed by questions from the audience.

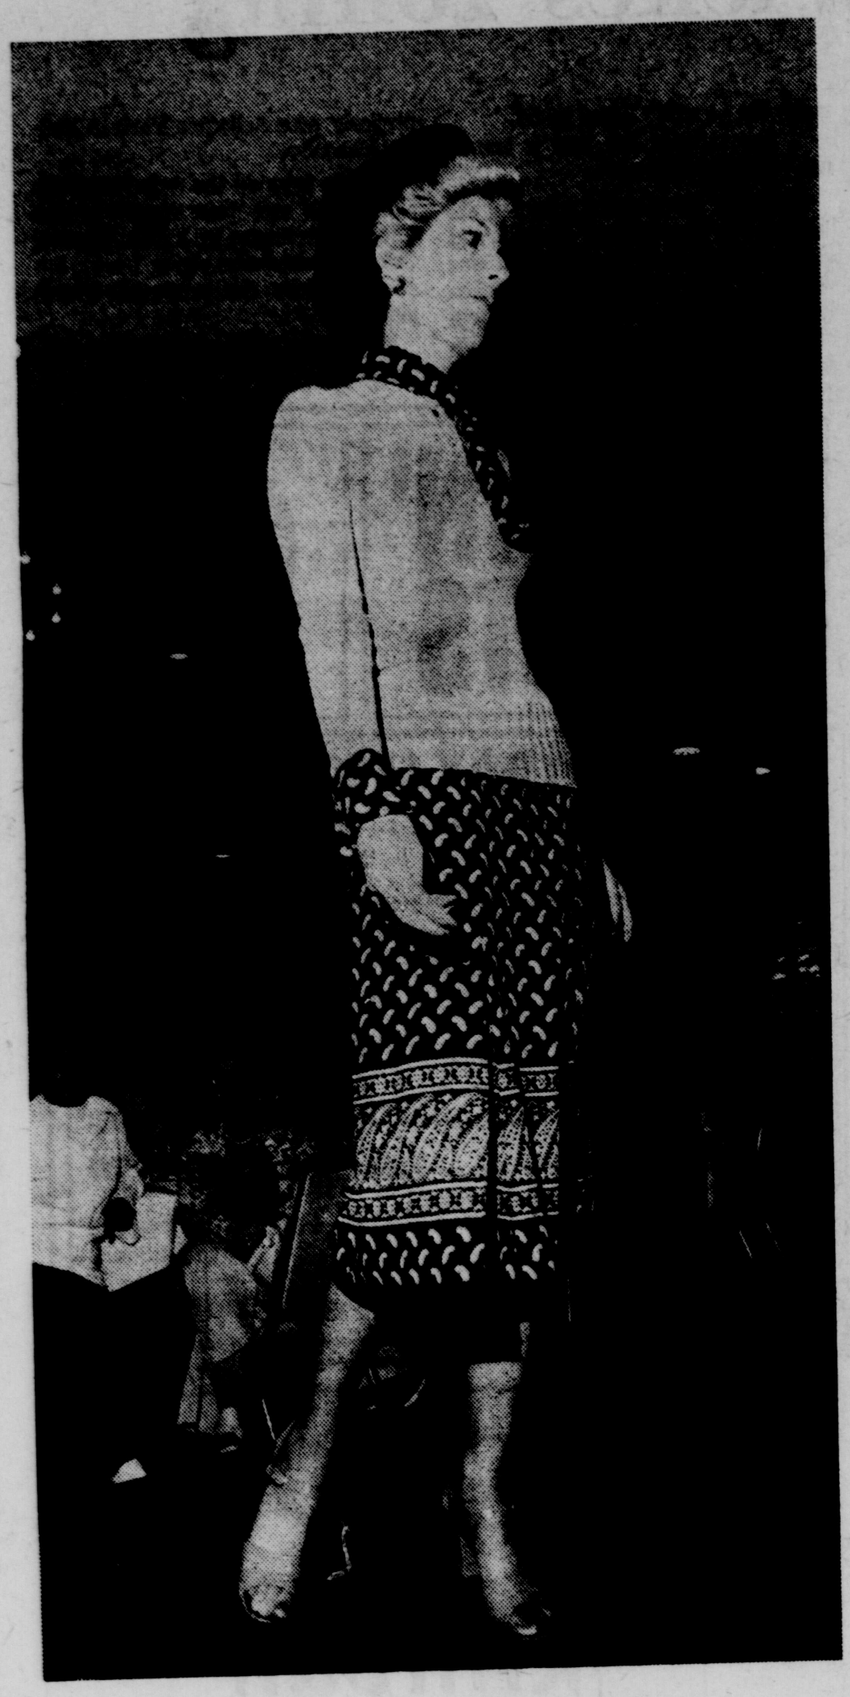
Fashion borrows from past



OLD-FASHIONED GOWN from yesteryear led off the parade of fashions at Allgauer's this week for the Bicentennial luncheon and Saks fashion show sponsored by Northwest Chapter, Illinois Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association. Though the gown is typical of styles of 1776, today's ensembles have borrowed many features from the distant past and also from the 1930s type gown and boa worn by model above. For daytime the layered look is still in and no outfit is complete without at least one bulky or slinky sweater topping dress, skirt or slacks. Hairdos for the show, coordinated with the fashions, were created by area hairdressers.

You get the beer, he'll take cans

with Grace Carolyn

I've been driving very slowly lately, keeping one eye peeled on my side of the road while John, my nephew, watches the other. "Stop, Auntie — I see a good one!" he shouts, and I pull off, cautioning him to look out for traffic while he retrieves the treasure. He comes back to the car either elated or depressed, depending on the type and condition of his find.

And what is it that so intrigues an 11-year-old that he can talk an aunt not known for her patience into driving at 25 miles per down the highway? Why, beer cans! That latest, zaniest, country-sweeping fad of the 9 to 16-year-old set, mainly, although I know several grown men afflicted with the bug too.

The minister's kid who lives behind us has the walls of his room lined with Pabst, Schlitz, Blatz, as well as hundreds of lesser known, foreign and off-beat brand name cans. He collects only "fulls" and his mother tells me that any one of these days, she expects the whole house to take off in a giant beery blast.

MY NEPHEW John, who is visiting from the Chicago area, is a neophyte, with only about 50 cans to his credit, most of which we have scrounged from the roadside. We do our bit for ecology — or at least we transfer the litter from road to room. But at the local flea market (held in conjunction with the Sweet Corn and Watermelon Festival) he used his vacation money to buy several rarities he knew he couldn't find al fresco.

Watching me work on one of my columns the other day, John suggested I write about beer cans. "But I can only write about something I know about," I answered. "So what do you want to know? I can tell you everything," he assured me. And this is his story, in his words:

"You look for unusuals, see, those made in a different place. Now Coors, for instance — you could get a Colorado or a Missouri, and if you could get a three label which is a mistake, printed three times instead of two, man, that's great.

"YOU DON'T WANT them squished but if they are squished, up and down only. I know this kid that has this pneumatic thing and he can pop them right up again.

"Pearl is a good brand, and pretty hard to find, and Tennents makes one in Scotland with girls on the side, you know, in bikinis, and all the guys want to get all six of those girls. I have Pat. I don't know the other girls' names.

"You can collect fulls or empties. Fulls cost more because they still have the beer in them, but empties are okay because they don't weigh so much and don't leak out and make your room smell and your mom mad. And if you find one for me at the store and want to drink it, open it on the bottom and leave the tab on top, that's better.

"SOME GUYS LIKE posters and other beer stuff too, you know, like hats and signs and things out of taverns, but I don't know how they get those, unless their dad's a bartender or something.

"I would pay up to a dollar for some cans, but most of them I can get for about a quarter at a flea market or off some guy. I'd rather get them by trading."

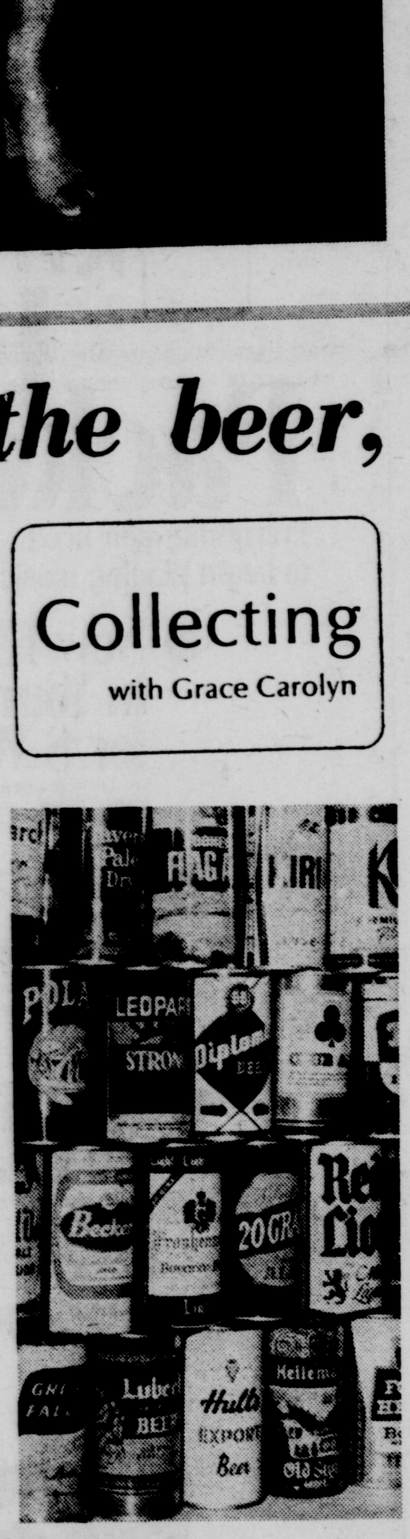
John could go on and on — and he does, but the idea is, beer cans are the top collectible now among the preteen and the high school crowd, it seems, at least among the boys.

SLIGHTLY UP THE ladder from the free or cheap cans are the beer collectibles made with collectors in mind, such as the Burgie Man bottle made by Burgermeister Beer or the Hamm's Beer Bear bottles. These ceramic beer collectibles run into the dollars, and there is even a museum devoted to breweriana in El Cajon, Calif., called the American Beer Museum, now being readied for the public.

The first Hamm's Beer Bear ceramic bottle sold for $5.50; today it sells for around $25. There are also salt and pepper shakers, plates, a Schlitz 125th anniversary decanter, trays, mugs, all sorts of items, all made for devotees of the brew collecting craze.

But I think John has the right idea — freebies are best. "Stop, Auntie — there's a silver Stag — gee, I hope it isn't squished!"

(If you have questions, please write Grace Carolyn Dahlberg, and if it's about beer cans, I'll ask John, in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)



BEER CANS, boys of all ages love to collect them — from along highways, at flea markets or by trading. It's a national craze.

Aqua accents bridal white

A pale aqua blue color scheme highlighted the double ring wedding Aug. 16 of Linda Huster and D. Lawrence Stone. Linda carried aqua carnations with white roses and baby's breath, and her maids were in aqua gowns with matching hooded jackets. They also carried aqua carnations but with white daisies and baby's breath, blue bachelor buttons and yellow pompons.

Daughter of Jeanne Huster, Arlington Heights, and the late Edward A. Huster, Linda and Larry, son of the David Stones, Steubenville, Ohio, were married at 6:15 p.m. in Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington Heights. Linda's gown was of silk organza and trimmed in Venise lace. A headpiece of the lace held her elbow-length veil.

Cheryl Ingalls, Hoffman Estates, was her sister's matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Linda's sister, Jackie, her cousin, Mary White, Chicago; and her roommates, Michele Drolet, Arlington Heights, and Mary Beth Gabbett, Champaign.

BEST MAN WAS Larry's brother, Edward of Pittsburgh, and ushers were three of his fraternity brothers: David Schlentner, Des Plaines, Donald Stanzak, Western Springs, and Bill Hast, York, Pa.; along with Jeff Melching, Huron, Ohio.

A dinner reception for 100 guests was held at Lancer's Restaurant, Schaumburg, after which the couple left on a 10-day honeymoon in Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Lawrence Stone

A graduate of St. Francis Hospital School of Nursing, Evanston, Linda is employed at Northwest Community Hospital. Her bridegroom, who studied at Kent State University, is with First Arlington National Bank, Arlington Heights.

Are you a creative collector? Rate yourself

by JEAN BARNES

Are you a creative collector?

"What," you ask, "is a creative collector?"

Perhaps the following questions will define the term and give you an objective view of yourself as a collector:

- Do you play the "numbers?" You do if you describe your collection by saying, "I have 5,000 - -."
- Do you use the stock broker approach, using your collection solely as an investment, sacrificing personal preference for profit potential?
- Are you afraid to share your collection for fear of damage or theft? Do you find yourself being extremely nervous when someone handles an object to admire it?
- Have you filled the gaps in your collection with less than perfect pieces or with reproductions?
- Is your collection displayed with flair and imagination and do you keep it clean and free of dust?
- Have you culled your collection within the past year?
- Do family members share your enthusiasm for collecting?
- Can you talk knowledgeably about your collection, its historical significance, origin, craftsmanship and other details?
- Does your home library contain at least two books on your collecting field?
- Is there a "certain joy" for you in your collection?

Your motives for collecting are very personally your own. But if you answered any of the first four questions with a "yes" or the last six with a "no," you are missing some of the very special benefits of being a creative collector.

This does not mean that you must be naive and unrealistic about the financial aspects of collecting. You should use sound businesslike methods in collecting.

However, collecting involves people as well as things and most collectors place a great value on the friendships formed through their hobby. Sharing your collection, not only with family and friends but with your community through special exhibits, has its own special rewards. You can do this and still safeguard your collection from theft with anonymity.

The more research you do in your collecting field, the deeper your appreciation will be of the objects in your collection. Your knowledge and expertise can be of valuable assistance to less experienced collectors.

As an artist studies and perfects the components to make a beautiful picture, so the collector must realize that the collection will be only as good as the individual pieces in it. Be an artist with your collection. Build it with careful, thoughtful attention and with the special joy of a creative person.

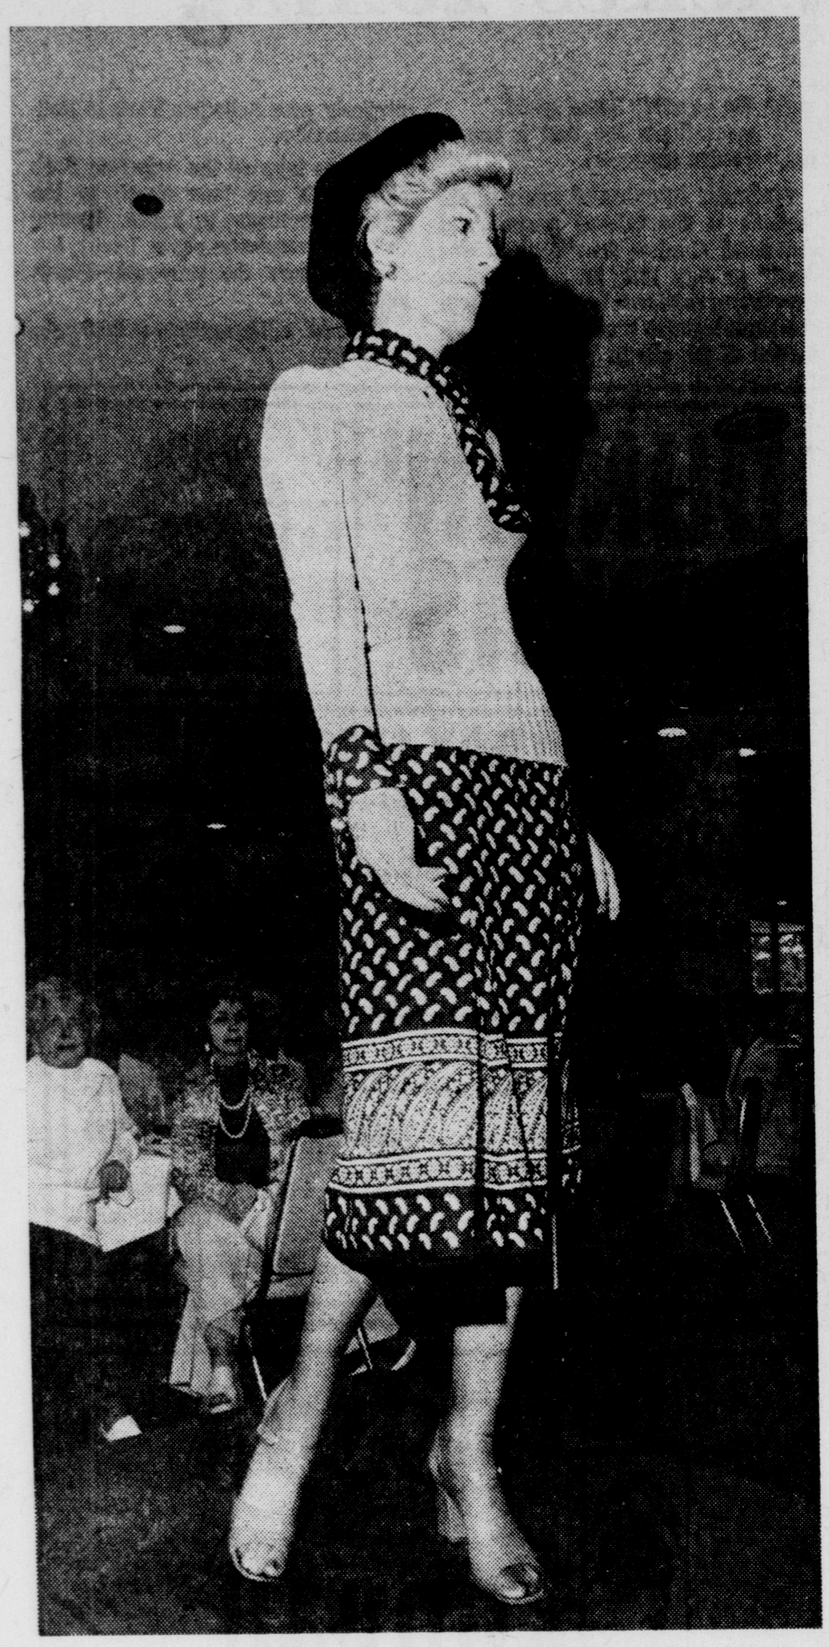
Fashion borrows from past



OLD-FASHIONED GOWN from yesteryear led off the parade of fashions at Allgauer's this week for the Bicentennial luncheon and Saks fashion show sponsored by Northwest Chapter, Illinois Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association. Though the gown is typical of styles of 1776, today's ensembles have borrowed many features from the distant past and also from the 1930s type gown and boa worn by model above. For daytime the layered look is still in and no outfit is complete without at least one bulky or slinky sweater topping dress, skirt or slacks. Hairdos for the show, coordinated with the fashions, were created by area hairdressers.

Collecting
with Grace Carolyn

I've been driving very slowly lately, keeping one eye peeled on my side of the road while John, my nephew, watches the other. New teachers wed in Aug. 16 rites

Recent graduates of Illinois State University, MaryEllen Geisler of Prospect Heights and Martin Joseph Knuth of Oswego, Ill., were married Aug. 16 in St. Anne's Church, Oswego.

They are living in Hoffman Estates since returning from a honeymoon at Niagara Falls, Canada. Martin teaches at Rolling Meadows High School, and his bride expects to do substitute teaching in Dist. 214.

MaryEllen is the daughter of the Alfred J. Geislers and is a '71 graduate of Wheeling High School. Martin's parents are the William C. Knuths.

APRICOT AND white was the color scheme for the 2:30 p.m. double ring ceremony. The bride, wearing a white silk organza gown frosted with Venise lace daisies and a mantilla veil edged in matching lace and held by a lace cap, carried apricot daisies, white carnations and baby's breath.

Her five attendants wore apricot printed polyknit gowns with matching jackets and carried apricot daisies.

Patricia Horcher, Wheeling, a Delta Zeta sorority sister of the bride, was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Maureen and Carol Geisler, the bride's sisters, Nancy Jo Schenck, Glen Ellyn, another Delta Zeta, and Denise Rozzano, Prospect Heights.

Bernard Knuth of Tacoma, Wash., was his brother's best man. Ushers were Martin Geisler, the bride's brother; William Grabow, Aurora, a Delta Sigma Phi fraternity brother of the groom; Fred Bramley, Carol Stream; and William Blonn, the groom's brother-in-law from Aurora.

A reception for 225 guests followed in St. Anne's hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Knuth

William Bulows wed 62 years

Observing their 62nd wedding anniversary Wednesday at a family gathering were William and Hazel Bulow, Palatine residents of 19 years. William, 85, and Hazel, 84, both born in Chicago, were married Sept. 10, 1913 in the Waukesha, Wis., home of Hazel's sister.

Following their marriage the couple lived in Chicago where William, a statistician with the Crane Co., worked for 51 years. He retired 19 years ago. The Bulows' first home in Palatine was at Dundee and Doe Roads where they lived for 10 years.

Before moving to the home of their daughter, Florence Hams, also in Palatine, the pair lived on Schiller Street. They also have a son, William, who resides in Carpentersville; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Sweater look strong

The sweater look which is flattering to most figures will be stronger than ever this coming season. It is interpreted by designers in coats, suits and dresses.

Sad start, happy ending

Mr. and Mrs. Steven R. Struss

It was a Friday the 13th and the car in which Catherine C. Lentine was a passenger and the Steven R. Struss' motorcycle had both broken down. Both Cathy and Steve were headed home on spring break from the University of Illinois when the breakdowns occurred, and the pair met in a gas station just 50 miles outside of Champaign.

On Aug. 2 Cathy, daughter of the Anthony Lentines, Arlington Heights, and Steve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Struss, Glenview, were married in a 3 p.m. double ring service in Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington Heights. They honeymooned in Florida and then returned to Champaign where Cathy, a graduate of Arlington High, is a senior in engineering and where Steve, a graduate in civil engineering, is now employed in the army's construction engineering research lab.

LINDA JACOBS OF Arlington Heights was maid of honor for the service, and Melanie Reed, Normal, Janice Polito, Des Plaines, a cousin of the bride, and Mary Lentine, Waukegan, sister-in-law of the bride, were bridesmaids. Jeffrey Roth, Chicago, was best man; the groom's brother, Ronald, the bride's brothers, Tony of Arlington Heights and Frank of Waukegan, were ushers along with Michael Dinkelman of Princeton and John Ellis, Glenview.

A dinner reception in the Camelot Restaurant, Des Plaines, for 100 guests followed the service.

Bloodmeal will banish rabbits from the garden

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Can't help but note that none of you knows the proper treatment for getting rid of rabbits in gardens. We have a mother rabbit who raises a family each year from our garden. She's a tomato addict, never bothering with other vegetables. We leave her alone until she goes on a binge and samples the biggest, ripest, most appealing tomatoes. Then we take action. This treatment will work equally well for the lad whose broccoli was being eaten by the rabbits.

Simply sprinkle a narrow line of bloodmeal to enclose the area visited by Br'er Rabbit. The animal will not cross the line because the scent of blood repels said animal as effectively as a fence. It should be used sparingly in application. It's harmless and the only drawback is that it's easily washed away by rain.—Mrs. B. J. Daniels

Seems to me this ought to help the countless amateurs who struggle so hard with their gardens and reap so little as a result of innocent marauders like rabbits and birds. Many thanks.

Dear Dorothy: My children love fruit and their clothes sure show it. Is there any simple way to get out the stains? —Rose George

The latest dope on fruit stains is to put one teaspoon of white vinegar and one teaspoon of detergent in one quart of water and let the garments soak as long as possible, then launder. If this fails, try hydrogen peroxide.

Dear Dorothy: Readers have asked how to keep ice cubes from coming out of the tray shattered. I dry the ice trays well, then spray on the pure vegetable spray (to keep foods fom sticking) and fill tray with cold water. This treatment has to be repeated only about every 12 to 15 uses. —Lynn Steele.

Dear Dorothy: Would you believe that toothpaste is the answer to stain problems? My son dropped a ballpoint pen on my new rust colored rug. I rubbed toothpaste on it; it came out. Then I wiped the area with a wet cloth. No stain. I had a stain on a dress which wouldn't come off with any kind of cleaner. I rubbed it with toothpaste. It worked. —Mrs. J. Zelasko

It adds zest to a day when I can test a home remedy like this and make it work. Made a good ballpoint ink stain on a piece of carpeting, rubbed it with toothpaste and then used the damp cloth. No stain. It was fascinating. Dabbed the same ink at each end of a kitchen towel. Plain water took one stain out easily; had to rub several times with the toothpaste before the other ink stain came out.

As with every remedy, it can't be expected to work on every kind of material or every kind of stain. but with ballpoint stains so pervasive these days, it's a victory to find something now that works fairly well. A bow to Mrs. Z.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Wed in church courtyard

The courtyard of St. Peter Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, was the setting Aug. 16 for the wedding of Laurie Ann Stluka of Arlington Heights and Daniel R. Pittenger of Palatine. The 11 a.m. double ring service was followed by a reception for 100 guests in the Greenhouse of Countryside.

A January '74 graduate of Arlington High, Laurie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emery O. Stluka, Arlington Heights. Daniel, son of the Dwan O. Pittengers, Palatine, is a '71 graduate of Fremd High and studied at Illinois State University. He is with High School District 211, Palatine.

MRS. STLUKA made Laurie's silk chiffon and cotton lace gown. A white picture hat and veil, and a bouquet of lilies, white roses and stephanotis with ivy completed her ensemble.

Shawn Schaerf, Arlington Heights, was maid of honor, and Val Sansone, Buffalo Grove, and Ellen Kehoe, Palatine, were bridesmaids. Their gowns were of apricot flowered fabric, and they carried white baskets with orange and yellow roses, mums and lilies. They also wore apricot picture hats.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Pittenger

Best man was the bride's brother, Robert of Lakeland, Fla., and ushers were Robert Formella, Arlington Heights, and Daniel's brothers, Clay and Ed.

White big day or night

Although bright, crisp colors are returning after months of somber grays and browns, look to light tones, too, when building on to your current wardrobe. Off-white, winter white and cream colors are big for day and nighttime wear.

KIDS' KORNER
by MARILYN HALLMAN

WHAT A CORNY SHOW!

One of the best shows in town is on the Des Plaines River. And it costs just 20 cents. You'll find it at River Trail Nature Center, Rt. 21 (Milwaukee Ave.) just north of Euclid-Lake Ave.

Stop by the nature center building. When you are through looking at the many interesting displays, go by the desk. You can buy a sack of corn there for 20 cents. Outside, follow the path past the medicinal herb garden and the Indian bark house to the river bank.

You'll get instant attention from the wild ducks swimming there. They'll glide over, ready to dip and dive for the treats you throw them.

When the corn is gone, you may want to say hello to Loudmouth the crow. But don't expect an answer from this grouchy fellow. You may also want to visit the outdoor cages housing ferrets, white-tailed deer, timber wolves, turkeys, and a fox recovering from surgery. (He was recently rescued from a steel trap.) Several self-guiding trails through the woods also begin and end at the nature center.

New teachers wed in Aug. 16 rites

Recent graduates of Illinois State University, MaryEllen Geisler of Prospect Heights and Martin Joseph Knuth of Oswego, Ill., were married Aug. 16 in St. Anne's Church, Oswego.

They are living in Hoffman Estates since returning from a honeymoon at Niagara Falls, Canada. Martin teaches at Rolling Meadows High School, and his bride expects to do substitute teaching in Dist. 214.

MaryEllen is the daughter of the Alfred J. Geislers and is a '71 graduate of Wheeling High School. Martin's parents are the William C. Knuths.

APRICOT AND white was the color scheme for the 2:30 p.m. double ring ceremony. The bride, wearing a white silk organza gown frosted with Venise lace daisies and a mantilla veil edged in matching lace and held by a lace cap, carried apricot daisies, white carnations and baby's breath.

Her five attendants wore apricot printed polyknit gowns with matching jackets and carried apricot daisies.

Patricia Horcher, Wheeling, a Delta Zeta sorority sister of the bride, was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Maureen and Carol Geisler, the bride's sisters, Nancy Jo Schenck, Glen Ellyn, another Delta Zeta, and Denise Rozzano, Prospect Heights.

Bernard Knuth of Tacoma, Wash., was his brother's best man. Ushers were Martin Geisler, the bride's brother; William Grabow, Aurora, a Delta Sigma Phi fraternity brother of the groom; Fred Bramley, Carol Stream; and William Blonn, the groom's brother-in-law from Aurora.

A reception for 225 guests followed in St. Anne's hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Knuth

William Bulows wed 62 years

Observing their 62nd wedding anniversary Wednesday at a family gathering were William and Hazel Bulow, Palatine residents of 19 years. William, 85, and Hazel, 84, both born in Chicago, were married Sept. 10, 1913 in the Waukesha, Wis., home of Hazel's sister.

Following their marriage the couple lived in Chicago where William, a statistician with the Crane Co., worked for 51 years. He retired 19 years ago. The Bulows' first home in Palatine was at Dundee and Doe Roads where they lived for 10 years.

Before moving to the home of their daughter, Florence Hams, also in Palatine, the pair lived on Schiller Street. They also have a son, William, who resides in Carpentersville; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Sweater look strong

The sweater look which is flattering to most figures will be stronger than ever this coming season. It is interpreted by designers in coats, suits and dresses.

Sad start, happy ending

Mr. and Mrs. Steven R. Struss

It was a Friday the 13th and the car in which Catherine C. Lentine was a passenger and the Steven R. Struss' motorcycle had both broken down. Both Cathy and Steve were headed home on spring break from the University of Illinois when the breakdowns occurred, and the pair met in a gas station just 50 miles outside of Champaign.

On Aug. 2 Cathy, daughter of the Anthony Lentines, Arlington Heights, and Steve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Struss, Glenview, were married in a 3 p.m. double ring service in Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington Heights. They honeymooned in Florida and then returned to Champaign where Cathy, a graduate of Arlington High, is a senior in engineering and where Steve, a graduate in civil engineering, is now employed in the army's construction engineering research lab.

LINDA JACOBS OF Arlington Heights was maid of honor for the service, and Melanie Reed, Normal, Janice Polito, Des Plaines, a cousin of the bride, and Mary Lentine, Waukegan, sister-in-law of the bride, were bridesmaids. Jeffrey Roth, Chicago, was best man; the groom's brother, Ronald, the bride's brothers, Tony of Arlington Heights and Frank of Waukegan, were ushers along with Michael Dinkelman of Princeton and John Ellis, Glenview.

A dinner reception in the Camelot Restaurant, Des Plaines, for 100 guests followed the service.

Bloodmeal will banish rabbits from the garden

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Can't help but note that none of you knows the proper treatment for getting rid of rabbits in gardens. We have a mother rabbit who raises a family each year from our garden. She's a tomato addict, never bothering with other vegetables. We leave her alone until she goes on a binge and samples the biggest, ripest, most appealing tomatoes. Then we take action. This treatment will work equally well for the lad whose broccoli was being eaten by the rabbits.

Simply sprinkle a narrow line of bloodmeal to enclose the area visited by Br'er Rabbit. The animal will not cross the line because the scent of blood repels said animal as effectively as a fence. It should be used sparingly in application. It's harmless and the only drawback is that it's easily washed away by rain.—Mrs. B. J. Daniels

Seems to me this ought to help the countless amateurs who struggle so hard with their gardens and reap so little as a result of innocent marauders like rabbits and birds. Many thanks.

Dear Dorothy: My children love fruit and their clothes sure show it. Is there any simple way to get out the stains? —Rose George

The latest dope on fruit stains is to put one teaspoon of white vinegar and one teaspoon of detergent in one quart of water and let the garments soak as long as possible, then launder. If this fails, try hydrogen peroxide.

Dear Dorothy: Readers have asked how to keep ice cubes from coming out of the tray shattered. I dry the ice trays well, then spray on the pure vegetable spray (to keep foods fom sticking) and fill tray with cold water. This treatment has to be repeated only about every 12 to 15 uses. —Lynn Steele.

Dear Dorothy: Would you believe that toothpaste is the answer to stain problems? My son dropped a ballpoint pen on my new rust colored rug. I rubbed toothpaste on it; it came out. Then I wiped the area with a wet cloth. No stain. I had a stain on a dress which wouldn't come off with any kind of cleaner. I rubbed it with toothpaste. It worked. —Mrs. J. Zelasko

It adds zest to a day when I can test a home remedy like this and make it work. Made a good ballpoint ink stain on a piece of carpeting, rubbed it with toothpaste and then used the damp cloth. No stain. It was fascinating. Dabbed the same ink at each end of a kitchen towel. Plain water took one stain out easily; had to rub several times with the toothpaste before the other ink stain came out.

As with every remedy, it can't be expected to work on every kind of material or every kind of stain. but with ballpoint stains so pervasive these days, it's a victory to find something now that works fairly well. A bow to Mrs. Z.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Wed in church courtyard

The courtyard of St. Peter Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, was the setting Aug. 16 for the wedding of Laurie Ann Stluka of Arlington Heights and Daniel R. Pittenger of Palatine. The 11 a.m. double ring service was followed by a reception for 100 guests in the Greenhouse of Countryside.

A January '74 graduate of Arlington High, Laurie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emery O. Stluka, Arlington Heights. Daniel, son of the Dwan O. Pittengers, Palatine, is a '71 graduate of Fremd High and studied at Illinois State University. He is with High School District 211, Palatine.

MRS. STLUKA made Laurie's silk chiffon and cotton lace gown. A white picture hat and veil, and a bouquet of lilies, white roses and stephanotis with ivy completed her ensemble.

Shawn Schaerf, Arlington Heights, was maid of honor, and Val Sansone, Buffalo Grove, and Ellen Kehoe, Palatine, were bridesmaids. Their gowns were of apricot flowered fabric, and they carried white baskets with orange and yellow roses, mums and lilies. They also wore apricot picture hats.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Pittenger

Best man was the bride's brother, Robert of Lakeland, Fla., and ushers were Robert Formella, Arlington Heights, and Daniel's brothers, Clay and Ed.

White big day or night

Although bright, crisp colors are returning after months of somber grays and browns, look to light tones, too, when building on to your current wardrobe. Off-white, winter white and cream colors are big for day and nighttime wear.

KIDS' KORNER
by MARILYN HALLMAN

WHAT A CORNY SHOW!

One of the best shows in town is on the Des Plaines River. And it costs just 20 cents. You'll find it at River Trail Nature Center, Rt. 21 (Milwaukee Ave.) just north of Euclid-Lake Ave.

Stop by the nature center building. When you are through looking at the many interesting displays, go by the desk. You can buy a sack of corn there for 20 cents. Outside, follow the path past the medicinal herb garden and the Indian bark house to the river bank.

You'll get instant attention from the wild ducks swimming there. They'll glide over, ready to dip and dive for the treats you throw them.

When the corn is gone, you may want to say hello to Loudmouth the crow. But don't expect an answer from this grouchy fellow. You may also want to visit the outdoor cages housing ferrets, white-tailed deer, timber wolves, turkeys, and a fox recovering from surgery. (He was recently rescued from a steel trap.) Several self-guiding trails through the woods also begin and end at the nature center.

River Trail Nature Center is open every day except Friday. Hours are 8:30 to 5 p.m. weekdays and 9 to 5:30 p.m. weekends and holidays.

Charismatics test love in churches

World of religion

by David E. Anderson

This age appears to be a charismatic time for the churches.

The action of the Holy Spirit, particularly the Spirit's spectacular gifts of healing and glossolalia, have infected mainline churches to such an extent that the role and validity of charismatics has become a major source of debate and, sometimes, disruption.

There are Catholic charismatics, Lutheran charismatics and even some Baptist charismatics.

For many Christians who have never experienced the phenomenon of such a dramatic visitation of the Spirit as claimed by those who speak in tongues, the appearance of the charismatics in their midst is a frightening and confusing event.

KRISTER STENDAHL, dean of the Harvard Divinity School and one of the nation's most prominent New Testament scholars, offered some witty and sage advice to the churches about the Spirit, from a New Testament perspective, during the 39th annual Ministers' Week at Emory Campus.

His comments, along with those of others both involved in or interested observers of the charismatic movement, have been collected in a book, "What the Spirit is Saying to the Churches," (Hawthorn).

Stendahl says that Paul's first letter to the Christians at Corinth was his own attempt to come to grips with the charismatic movement.

He says in the famous 13th chapter — the "love chapter" as it is known — Paul's answer to the problems raised by the movement is "a positive and yet critical answer."

"Now, Paul himself spoke in tongues; in fact, he was a great tongues speaker — if you take his word for it," Stendahl notes, adding with a wry insight into Paul's character:

"AS YOU KNOW, Paul was always the greatest: the greatest apostle, the hardest worker, the greatest sinner — you know the type."

However, Stendahl says, it remains true Paul did speak in tongues and found it meaningful.

At the same time, he added, it is important to understand the role that glossolalia had in Paul's life, for it is precisely in determining the role of the gifts of the spirit that so much dissension is sown among contemporary Christians.

According to Stendahl, the remarkable thing about Paul's gift "is that for him it is not the badge of superspiritual achievement."

"ON THE CONTRARY, glossolalia is the support and help that come from God in prayer when Paul is down and out, not even knowing how to pray."

Stendahl adds one other important fact that contemporary Christians might keep in mind: The gifts of the Spirit, in the New Testament, "were considered a family affair."

He compares the early church's experience with speaking in tongues to Jesus' reluctance to broadcast his power to heal.

What is at stake, then, with the gifts the Spirit, Stendahl says, is not a theological question but a pastoral one: "How can we coexist when different gifts are given to different people?"

His response — what he believes to be the Pauline response — is simple to grasp but difficult to practice: Love.

And that, says Stendahl, "can be measured by how much tension you can take in the church."

Aerosol cans need controls

There's new and alarming evidence that we need to reduce sharply our reliance on certain of those convenient aerosol spray cans.

Last week the co-chairman of a federal task force studying the problem of ozone erosion of the earth's upper atmosphere reported that the threat posed by fluorocarbon-based aerosol sprays is just as real as imagined several months ago.

Warren R. Muir told a Senate subcommittee:

"Nothing has occurred which would change our assessement or recommendations . . . Recent research results reported since the issuance of our report, unfortunately, reinforce rather than diminish our concern." (In June the task force backed a ban on all fluorocarbon-based aerosols, to go into effect Jan. 1, 1978, if a National Academy of Sciences study, due out in April, confirms the worst fears of the scientists.)

Muir's concern coincides with a New York Times report that satellite observation of the stratosphere has backed the hypothesis that fluorocarbons are breaking down the ozone layer, which protects us from cancer-producing ultra-violet radiation.

In other words, the threat is just as severe as first imagined, and we believe it's time for the government to take steps to end the use of fluorocarbons in aerosol cans.

Despite the pleas of the industry, this does not have to be an impossible task. Johnson Wax of Racine, Wis., reported in June that it was going to reformulate its aerosol propellants, and Johnson Wax is talking about replacing fluorocarbons with a harmless propellant, rather than another sensible alternative, that of replacing aerosols with pump-top or squeezable containers.

The initial reaction of much of the industry to the ozone controversy has been predictable. It has complained that all the data is not in, the economic burden of a changeover would be enormous and jobs might be lost.

We acknowledge the difficulties that such a changeover would create. Nonetheless, the threat that skin cancer can increase by 30,000 cases for even a 2 per cent erosion of the ozone layer is ominous news. It deserves some response from the aerosol industry and a change of lifestyles for American consumers. If there's a reasonable chance that the data is accurate, as it appears to be, no time should be wasted in ending this source of pollution.

We await the April, 1976, study which will hopefully give us the definitive answer on the hazards of fluorocarbons. But it would be foolhardy to reject the evidence at hand as not at least suggesting a grave threat to the present and future residents of this planet. Voluntary action, under these circumstances, is no longer enough; the force of law is needed to force a gradual and orderly phase-out of this aerosol propellant.

All in favor, punt!

In an election year, members of the press, civic organizations and citizens' "watchdog" groups question hundreds of candidates for public office about their qualifications.

In recent years, these interviews have tended more and more toward an emphasis on financial disclosure, possible conflicts of interest and the candidate's ability to devote the needed time to his office.

Now, thanks to the Buffalo Grove Village Board, we discover that our past interviews have had a serious deficiency.

Never had it occurred to us that the sports fan as public official might encounter difficulty in performing his duties because the board meets during the Monday night football telecast.

For the second year in a row, the Buffalo Grove Village Board is struggling with the question of whether traditional Monday night meetings should be preempted so members may watch Notre Dame and the Chicago Bears on television.

Obviously, this requires probing new questions of prospective officeholders.

Obviously, too, the task of examining and evaluating candidates has become infinitely more complex.

We thought we had hit upon a solution in the proposal that all governmental bodies conduct their meetings at luncheon sessions. But then we were reminded . . . Bozo's Circus comes on at noon.

Aerosol spray use debate grows

(A News Analysis)

When you reach for that brightly colored aerosol can on the shelf — the one that is supposed to make your hair stay in place or make you smell pleasant — you may be about to make a small contribution to the spread of skin cancer across the globe.

That's the troubling issue in the present controversy about the cans. It seems that the propellant in many aerosol cans, a compound called fluorocarbon, has been accused of eroding the protective ozone layer 15 to 30 miles above our heads. That in turn may be increasing the rate of skin cancer on earth.

In June, 1974, two scientists at the University of California, Mario Molina and F. S. Rowland, raised the first substantial alarms about the fluorocarbon peril.

SINCE THEN a series of studies have reinforced the Molina-Rowland study, a federal task force is sifting through a variety of federal studies under way, the aerosol industry is fighting back with lobbying and with its own research and state and federal legislators are trying to come up with their own solutions to the vexing problems allegedly caused by these cans.

Last Monday a co-chairman for the federal study group dropped the latest bombshell when he told a Senate subcommittee that recent research "reinforces rather than diminishes this concern." That pronouncement was followed by the disclosure that a weather satellite has produced strong evidence to support the ozone erosion theory.

To understand this scientific issue which ultimately may affect all of us, one must first get to know fluorocarbons, the key component in many aerosol cans, as well as in refrigerators and air conditioners.

The compound is composed of fluorine, carbon and chlorine, and it's a vital ingredient in aerosol cans because it forces the active ingredients out of the can in a fine spray without altering the composition of those ingredients.

Fluorcarbons aren't the only propellants for spraying chemicals out of aerosol cans, but they are used in 60 per cent of the cans. A total of 24 companies in the $3 billion-a-year industry produce 1.7 million pounds of fluorocarbons annually and six manufacturers in the United States produce about half of that total.

OTHER COMPOUNDS, called hydrocarbons, are used in some aerosol cans. Because of their flammability, however, they are used primarily in shaving creams, paints and furniture polishes, in which the water base overcomes the danger of flammability.

In 1947, a meager 4.3 million cans were sold, but by 1973 sales had ballooned to 2.9 billion cans. Even though statistics show that, in some cases, it costs 4½ times as much per application to use aerosol cans as compared to other applicators, the convenient cans have become a routine part of every American's life.

Until the California study last year, scientists had neglected to study the ultimate effects of the release of fluorocarbons. According to researchers, this compound drifts lazily toward the top level of the earth's atmosphere. As it reaches the stratosphere, which contains the ozone layer, the sunlight breaks the compound into other compounds, which include the element chlorine. This chlorine, in turn, destroys the ozone layer.

AS A RESULT, more and more ultra-violet rays filter through the stratosphere. Scientists contend that the possible incidence of skin cancer, crop damage, genetic mutations and climactic changes increases as a result.

As aerosol cans become more popular, scientists fear that the ozone erosion is increasing. One scientist reports that for every 2 per cent reduction in the ozone layer, an added 30,000 Americans will suffer skin cancer every year (currently, 300,000 cases of skin cancer are reported annually).

The first public concern about what might be happening to our upper atmosphere surfaced during the 1971 hearings on the SST. But in June, 1974, the California study spawned considerable public concern and new private and public research. On June 12, 1975, a federal task force composed of representatives of 14 government agencies called the problem "a legitimate cause for serious concern." The group recommended a ban, effective on Jan. 1, 1978, if a National Academy of Sciences study planned for completion next April confirms the fears of scientists.

AFTER THE first grim warnings, legislators in Washington and in state capitols offered a flurry of bills to contend with this real or imagined horror. On the federal level, Reps. Les Aspin, D-Wis., and Paul Rogers, D-Fla., offered bills tying aerosol controls to future rulings from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

In at least 14 states, bills have been introduced to restrict aerosols containing fluorocarbons. Oregon is the only state so far to ban the use of fluorocarbons entirely. (The ban will go into effect on March 1, 1977). Wisconsin is also considering a bill to ban the sale of fluorocarbon-based aerosols until 1980; hearings will be held on the legislation Sept. 22 in Madison.

But the aerosol industry, responding quickly to the controversy and to slumping sales, is fighting back. According to The New York Times, lobbying against the proposed legislation has been at least partly responsible for the death of six of the bills.

The industry has also fought back with plans for its own study. Thirty corporations and five trade associations formed the Council on Atmospheric Studies, which is currently undertaking a three-year, $5-million study of the problem.

THE ECONOMIC impact of the controversy on the industry is severe. Production of aerosol cans dropped 6.9 per cent between 1973 and 1974. Du Pont reported a drop in sales of 25 per cent, and a company which makes aerosol valves reported a 40 per cent drop in sales during February and March of this year.

Some industry experts argue it would take between three and nine years to develop an alternative to fluorocarbons. A different response has come from Johnson Wax of Racine, Wis., which announced in June it would reformulate all of its domestically produced fluorcarbon aerosols. The Serigard Corp. of Irviner, Calif., patented an aerosol can which keeps the fluorcarbons in the can. Due to problems with the seams of the cans, however, production of this new product has been halted.

The effects of last Monday's findings on the already nervous aerosol industry have not been measured. The bulk of the new and damaging evidence against these chemicals comes from a U.S. weather satellite, Nimbus 6, which discovered low levels of chlorine at the upper levels of the atmosphere. According to experts, this tends to confirm the thesis that chlorine has contributed to the breakdown of the ozone layer, for after it dissolved the ozone, it has dissipated.

Another scientific group, the National Center for Atmospheric Research, based in Boulder, Colo., launched a weather ballon to collect samples of the upper atmosphere. Their findings also report a significant deterioration of the upper atmosphere.

BUT THE prevailing theories about fluorocarbons have been challenged, too. In May, two government scientists, James K. Angell and Julius Korshover of the National Oceanics and Atmospheric Administration, blamed the sun for the ozone erosion.

After checking data from 60 stations around the earth, they reported that ozone had increased in the atmosphere during the 1960s, then declined between 1970 and 1972. They contend that sunspot activity might be the culprit, for they reported a significant depletion when the sunspots were most active.

As the research results continue to pour in, pressure for government action is mounting. To date the three federal agencies that could be primarily responsible for an administrative ban — the Food and Drug Administration, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Consumer Product Safety Commission — have resisted controls on the fluorocarbon-based cans. Like the industry and the general public, they are waiting for more evidence before they move decisively against these aerosol cans.

IT IS A safe conclusion that many Americans have a renewed interest in roll-on, pump-top, squeeze sprays and just plain bottles as replacements for the aerosol can.

But fluorocarbon-based spray cans are still big sellers across the United States. Whether they will continue to be popular — or even available — depends on the continued accumulation of scientific evidence.

A matter of memory

by DOROTHY MEYER

Forgetfulness is generally considered to be one of the symptoms of aging, but in my case it is simply a sign that I have to many things on my alleged mind.

(You can tell that I work for a newspaper — we say "alleged" a lot around here, especially when referring to something that is not yet proven to be a fact.)

Yesterday I couldn't remember my married name and I've been married to Whosits for 31 years. I was signing a form, forms being one of the things currently cluttering up my mind, and I almost signed my maiden name.

A psychologist would probably diagnose the maiden name syndrome as a subconscious desire to be single again, but in my case he'd then have to explain why I couldn't think of Mary's last name either.

MARY IS A fellow worker I have known for many years. The other day I had to make an interoffice call to her and belatedly realized that I was looking for her in the office directory under "M" for "Mary." Suddenly I couldn't think of her last name and had to search the entire directory for all the Marys listed until it hit me.

It isn't only names I forget.

The last time I invited my sons and their wives for dinner, I couldn't remember which ones loved asparagus and who it was hated lima beans. So I served creamed carrots and they all went, "Yccchhhh." I don't like creamed carrots either, and I can't remember why I thought I had to make so many. Even the cat hates creamed carrots.

Then last night I opened the refrigerator and immediately forgot what I wanted in there.

It has been suggested that when you forget what you wanted, as I did when I opened the refrigerator door, you should return to where you were when you had the thought and it'll come back to you. It works, too.

I'd been doing a crossword puzzle, filled in the word "ale" which reminded me that I was thirsty. Since I do not have any ale in the house, I'd gone to the refrigerator for a glass of milk.

ALL I HAD to do was return to the puzzle and I remembered the milk. Which was more than I did when I went grocery shopping yesterday, something that occurred to me as I went to the refrigerator the second time.

The complicated process was not an entirely lost cause, however — as I opened the refrigerator door again a bad smell reminded me that I had forgotten to throw out the leftover creamed carrots.

Also as I opened the refrigerator a second time I had a sudden brilliant idea for a column.

But I forget what it was.

A different response has come from Johnson Wax of Racine, Wis., which announced in June it would reformulate all of its domestically produced fluorcarbon aerosols. The Serigard Corp. of Irvine, Calif., patented an aerosol can which keeps the fluorcarbons in the can. Due to problems with the seams of the cans, however, production of this new product has been halted.

The effects of last Monday's findings on the already nervous aerosol industry have not been measured. The bulk of the new and damaging evidence against these chemicals comes from a U.S. weather satellite, Nimbus 6, which discovered low levels of chlorine at the upper levels of the atmosphere. According to experts, this tends to confirm the thesis that chlorine has contributed to the breakdown of the ozone layer, for after it dissolved the ozone, it has dissipated.

Another scientific group, the National Center for Atmospheric Research, based in Boulder, Colo., launched a weather ballon to collect samples of the upper atmosphere. Their findings also report a significant deterioration of the upper atmosphere.

BUT THE prevailing theories about fluorocarbons have been challenged, too. In May, two government scientists, James K. Angell and Julius Korshover of the National Oceanics and Atmospheric Administration, blamed the sun for the ozone erosion.

After checking data from 60 stations around the earth, they reported that ozone had increased in the atmosphere during the 1960s, then declined between 1970 and 1972. They contend that sunspot activity might be the culprit, for they reported a significant depletion when the sunspots were most active.

As the research results continue to pour in, pressure for government action is mounting. To date the three federal agencies that could be primarily responsible for an administrative ban — the Food and Drug Administration, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Consumer Product Safety Commission — have resisted controls on the fluorocarbon-based cans. Like the industry and the general public, they are waiting for more evidence before they move decisively against these aerosol cans.

IT IS A safe conclusion that many Americans have a renewed interest in roll-on, pump-top, squeeze sprays and just plain bottles as replacements for the aerosol can.

But fluorocarbon-based spray cans are still big sellers across the United States. Whether they will continue to be popular — or even available — depends on the continued accumulation of scientific evidence.

The almanac

Today is Saturday, Sept. 13, the 256th day of 1975 with 109 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Venus, Saturn, Mars and Jupiter.

The evening star is Mercury.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Virgo.

John J. Pershing, illustrious American general of World War I, was born Sept. 13, 1860.

On this day in history:

• In 1788, Congress authorized the first U.S. national election, to be held "the first Wednesday in January next (1789)."

• In 1966, American astronaut Richard Gordon's scheduled 115-minute "space walk" was cut to 44 minutes when perspiration in his suit partially blinded him.

• In 1967, howling mobs of Chinese Communists stormed and seized the British consulate in Shanghai.

• In 1971, New York state forces stormed and regained control of Attica state prison. Twenty-eight convicts and nine hostages they held were killed.

A matter of memory

by DOROTHY MEYER

Forgetfulness is generally considered to be one of the symptoms of aging, but in my case it is simply a sign that I have to many things on my alleged mind.

(You can tell that I work for a newspaper — we say "alleged" a lot around here, especially when referring to something that is not yet proven to be a fact.)

Yesterday I couldn't remember my married name and I've been married to Whosits for 31 years. I was signing a form, forms being one of the things currently cluttering up my mind, and I almost signed my maiden name.

A psychologist would probably diagnose the maiden name syndrome as a subconscious desire to be single again, but in my case he'd then have to explain why I couldn't think of Mary's last name either.

MARY IS A fellow worker I have known for many years. The other day I had to make an interoffice call to her and belatedly realized that I was looking for her in the office directory under "M" for "Mary." Suddenly I couldn't think of her last name and had to search the entire directory for all the Marys listed until it hit me.

It isn't only names I forget.

The last time I invited my sons and their wives for dinner, I couldn't remember which ones loved asparagus and who it was hated lima beans. So I served creamed carrots and they all went, "Yccchhhh." I don't like creamed carrots either, and I can't remember why I thought I had to make so many. Even the cat hates creamed carrots.

Then last night I opened the refrigerator and immediately forgot what I wanted in there.

It has been suggested that when you forget what you wanted, as I did when I opened the refrigerator door, you should return to where you were when you had the thought and it'll come back to you. It works, too.

I'd been doing a crossword puzzle, filled in the word "ale" which reminded me that I was thirsty. Since I do not have any ale in the house, I'd gone to the refrigerator for a glass of milk.

ALL I HAD to do was return to the puzzle and I remembered the milk. Which was more than I did when I went grocery shopping yesterday, something that occurred to me as I went to the refrigerator the second time.

The complicated process was not an entirely lost cause, however — as I opened the refrigerator door again a bad smell reminded me that I had forgotten to throw out the leftover creamed carrots.

Also as I opened the refrigerator a second time I had a sudden brilliant idea for a column.

But I forget what it was.

Huskies nip Lions in 24-20 headliner

by PAUL LOGAN

A combination of explosive offensive plays and timely defensive ones by Hersey and some early mistakes by the St. Viator Lions gave the Huskies a thrilling 24-20 home opener victory Friday night.

The Huskies of Coach Joe Gliwa ended a three-year dominance of St. Viator by controlling the ball most of the third quarter and then coming up with the key turnover of the game with less than a minute to play.

St. Viator, thanks to the passing of quarterback Jim Thompson, had moved halfway down the field and appeared on its way to pulling out another thriller between the two prep football titans. But on a second and two from the Hersey 41, defensive end Mark Johnson put heavy pressure on the scrambling Lion quarterback. Defensive back Chuck Veselits intercepted and the Huskies ran out the final 52 seconds.

"He's the slowest defensive back afoot," said Gliwa of Veselits. "I think he makes up for it with hustle and desire."

Hersey, now 2-0, shocked the highly touted Lions with three quick touchdowns and led 21-0 with 9:40 remaining in only the second quarter. Bill Cashmore and Joe Pusatera recovered fumbles to set up two scores by Wally Hommerding of 28 yards and 36 yards, the latter coming on a pass from Scott Topczewski.

Hommerding, a 6-foot-0, 170-pound runner who led all backs with 14 carries and 110 yards, also broke loose on a counter for a 35-yard score.

Despite those two fumbles as well as an interception, St. Viator rallied to make it 21-14 at halftime. The Lions passed their way back into the contest. Kevin McAleer taking the ball away from two Huskie defenders for a 34-yard touchdown. After Thompson hit on passes of 31 and 18 yards, running back Jack Gracheck scored from the six.

Both placekickers — Hersey's Bob Schackner and St. Viator's Mike Murray — were perfect in the first half.

The third quarter saw Hersey have the ball for all but six plays. After a superb goal line stand stopped the Huskies at the one, they came right back and eventually scored on a 23-yard field goal by Schackner.

The Lions, thanks to a fine punt return by Gracheck and a 37-yard pass play from Thompson to Bonucchi, eventually scored on a three-yard run by Thompson. The kick failed, making it 24-20.

"We played a super good football team," said losing coach Jim Lyne. "We just made some mistakes."

"The game was highlighted by the excellent running of Hommerding and the great protection for Topczewski," said Gliwa. His quarterback was never sacked en route to a 7 for 12 night with 110 yards.

"The defense is sound. There's no telling how far this club can go. The line keeps getting better and if the backs continue to improve, we're going to be a pistol to stop."

Hersey's defense nearly stopped cold the Lions' ground game, limiting them to just 68 yards. Thompson passed for 152 yards, but had two passes picked off.

The Huskies, thanks to Hommerding and the 84 yards by Matt Zakula, rolled up 204 rushing and a total of 314 total.

Orcutt's scoring show sparks Buffalo Grove to impressive triumph

by J. ANDREW KEHE

WHEATON — Ben Orcutt scored five touchdowns, rushed for 222 yards and returned a kickoff for 85 yards as Buffalo Grove defended Mid-Suburban League pride with a 38-26 smashing of highly regarded Wheaton Central here Friday evening on Red Grange Field.

Amazingly, there was no scoring in the first period. Bison quarterback Dave Zimmer tossed a 25-yard touchdown pass to George Bastable for the game's first points at 10:45 of the second period.

When Orcutt booted the extra point, that began his great night which panned out to 32 points, including two conversions.

All of Orcutt's points were from scrimmage, excluding the kickoff return. He rushed 76 yards on the game's last play to score Buffalo Grove's sixth touchdown.

Orcutt's scoring runs were for two, three and 67 yards. He also caught two Zimmer passes for 17 yards and intercepted one pass while playing defensive halfback.

The Bison amassed 366 total yards, 219 rushing, less than Orcutt's personal total, because Zimmer was dropped for 30 yards attempting to pass.

Grant Blaney's visiting Bison never trailed, taking a 20-0 lead before Wheaton scored the first of its four touchdowns. It was a 26-6 game at halftime.

Wheaton made it a game with two third period touchdowns, drawing to a 26-19 deficit. Gar Simers threw a six-yard pass to Mike Rogala. That was Simers' second of three passing touchdowns.

Wheaton Central's first points came on a Simers to John Williams pass of four yards.

After Simers' TD pass to Rogala, making it 26-12 for Buffalo Grove, Dana Noel ran 45 yards for Wheaton Central, making it a seven-point spread. But the Tigers were soon further behind.

Orcutt scored his fourth touchdown from two yards, culminating a 79-yard drive. The big play was a 44-yard pass from Zimmer to Doug Browning. An extra point pass failed, but Buffalo had its 32-19 lead through three periods.

Noe, who totaled 186 yards rushing, was a workhorse for the Tigers on their last scoring drive. But the drive stalled on a fourth and six on the Bison 20.

However, Buffalo Grove fumbled the ball right back. The Tigers went in on an 18-yard pass to Overby.

After the kick, it was 32-26, still for Buffalo Grove. And that's how it stayed until Orcutt ran 76 on the game's final play.

Scoring pass opens gate; Falcons explode in 2nd half for 33-8 win

"Last week we found out some things we couldn't do . . ."

Fred Lussow didn't even have to complete the sentence. His smile told everything. In much the same way his Forest View football team had been zapped the previous week, they did the zapping this time around and favored Prospect came away on the embarrassing end of a 33-8 Mid-Suburban League verdict on the Knight gridiron Friday.

What the Falcons found out they could do was establish a running game. And while Prospect waited and waited for View ace southpaw quarterback Jim Petran to put the ball in the air — or even run with it for that matter — Joe Difatta and Steve Coskey kept coming at them.

The result through halftime was a 6-6 standoff. That's when Petran finally uncorked one . . . much to the evident surprise of the hosts. Petran unleashed three bombs in the second half and turned the contest into a route, avenging last year's 14-7 setback and regaining the edge in this oldest MSL rivalry.

Prospect mentor Dave Keefe saw the contest as a tragedy of errors: his club fumbled away control of the ball four times and had three passes intercepted. "They took it to us," he shrugged, "Breaks dictated the outcome of this game and they did an awful lot to make them go their way."

To be sure the Knights had ample opportunity to swerve those breaks in their own direction during the first half. They bobbled away the opening kickoff but an offsides penalty erased that mistake.

Then on their first series from scrimmage quarterback Tim Kubicki broke off a 27-yard gainer well into Forest View territory but two plays later the Knights bobbled away possession and the guests were able to move the ball out of the danger zone.

In the second stanza Prospect appeared to be rolling again and a Kubicki to Don Meyer screen pass keyed a drive to the View 15 before it ran out of gas, Diffatta and Coskey, the lat ter a linebacker pressed into offensive action just this week, responded with a quick 85-yard scoring march.

Difatta lumbered off 52 yards on one foray and Coskey wrapped things up with an 18-yard romp off left tackle. Knight Meyer blocked the extra point kick but the Falcons owned a 6-0 lead.

There was still time in the second quarter for an interchange of fumbles, leaving Prospect in control at the View 43 after Scott Doney bounced on a loose ball Kubicki managed to launch five passes in the final 38 seconds, the last one from 17 yards out finding Tim Twitchell right at the goal line after the gun had gone off.

The game didn't remain in a deadlock for long. On the second play of third period Petran, who had run the ball only once and not passed at all the entire first half, fired up the middle to Ray Michaelsen. The play netted 62 yards and a touchdown and the Falcons were on their way.

Prospect did have one opportunity a short time later to retaliate. Meyer nailed Falcon punter Rick Holan in the endzone for two quick points and force the View to kick again.

But Kevin Kronforst intercepted for the guests moments later and Petran proceeded to drive his club 36 yards for another score. Petran took it over himself this time behind a nice block by Greg Goetz to make it a 20-8 contest.

Twice more Petran directed scoring thrusts in the fourth quarter, connecting with Michaelson for 59 yards and Jim Vartanian for 41 yards through the air. Greg Jacobs toed over three extra point boots to round out the rom at 33-8.

TWO OF THE BEST performers at Hersey Friday night were Hersey running back Wally Hommerding and defensive tackle Scott Zettek. Hommerding ran for 110 yards in leading the Huskies to a 24-20 win. Zettek was a standout on defense, but early St. Viator offensive mistakes were too much to overcome.

Defending champ triumphs over stubborn Elk Grove

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

The Grens looked tough. The Saxons looked tough. But Schaumburg had the extra edge in manpower and the defending Mid-Suburban League champions outlasted a dogged and dug-in Elk Grove team 14-0 Friday night.

"Their whole team played a helluva fine game," said Schaumburg head coach Bob Ferguson. "We knew Roberts would be quick but we didn't know he was that quick."

Tim Roberts hauled the ball the first seven times Elk Grove ran a play and the stage was set. In the first half alone he picked up 85 yards.

Yet the Grens couldn't solve the Schaumburg defense.

"Our defense had to get acclimated to Roberts' quickness," Ferguson said, "but when we were in trouble we got the job done."

Roberts, who finished to lead all rushers with 117 yards in 23 carries, had a 28-yard sprint that was one tackler short of being a touchdown. Driving all the way to Schaumburg's one-yard line, the Grens were stacked up on five straight plays by the likes of Scott Mielke and couldn't convert.

"Mielke had an excellent game," Ferguson remarked. "On both offense and defense."

Aside from making the touchdown-saving tackle on Roberts' run and intercepting a Tom Allen pass, Mielke also scampered for 66 yards and scored all of Schaumburg's points.

"Scott was hurt there on one play," Ferguson said. "And without him in there the offense was not the same."

Much the same could be said of Russ Zonca, who optioned the Grens all night for 87 yards in 16 carries. Early in the first quarter the heavy-hitting Elk Grove defense knocked Zonca hard enough to remove him from the game for a couple plays.

Davis Cup turmoil as Chile doubtful

The Chilean Tennis Federation postponed until next week making a decision about whether to play Sweden in Davis Cup tennis semi-finals.

Also on Friday, in London, a Davis Cup Committee refused to change the semifinals site from Baastad, Sweden, to a neutral nation.

Threats of hostile demonstrations plus an alleged assassination plot against Jaime Fillol, Chile's top player, led the top three men on Chile's squad to withdraw from the competition in Baastad.

The trio are Fillol, Patricio Cronejo and Belus Prajoux who have been heavily criticized in their own country after announcing their decision.

The Chilean Tennis Federation is attempting to assemble another team.

Fitzsimons leads World Open

Pat Fitzsimons fired a 69 for a two-day total of 6-under-par 136 and a one-stroke lead over Howard Twitty and Rod Funseth midway through the World Open golf tournament at Pinehurst, N.C.

First round leader Lee Elder ballooned from his opening 65 to a 74 and 139 total, identical with Tom Kite and Danny Edwards. Tom Weiskopf and Ed Sneed are tied at 138.

Twitty's second round 68 moved him close to Fitzsimons but it wasn't the lowest round. Ben Crenshaw (142 total) and Joe Inman (146) each carded a 67 second round.

Elsewhere, California Angels' flamethrower Nolan Ryan will undergo surgery on Sept. 23 to remove bone chips from his right elbow. Ryan, 14-12 after winning 22 games last season, pitched his fourth no-hitter this season.

Arlington Park slates free admission today

John F. Loome, president and chief executive officer of Arlington Park-Washington Park Race Tracks Corporation, has announced that today will be "Great Year" Appreciation Day at Arlington Park.

Fans will be admitted to the grandstand at the northwest suburban track free for the complete nine race program which features the Midwest's richest horse race — the $200,000 estimated Arlington-Washington Futurity.

Today will also mark the beginning of the "Great Year Bonanza" game. Each day, through the conclusion of the meeting on Thursday, Sept. 25, fans will be able to pick up a numbered coupon free of charge at Arlington, a coupon which could be good for one of 20 major prizes, including two trips to Las Vegas for two.

Other prizes will include a wide variety of complete parties, starting with a complete neighborhood picnic and going on to such specialties as a Prime Steak Chest and Irish and Italian parties.

Winning numbers will be posted on Sept. 25 and prizes may be claimed the same day.

The reason for Arlington Park's generosity is that at the conclusion of the first 81 programs of the current Arlington Park meeting, the total mutuel handle has hit the $138,602,315 mark.

The same period last year produced $137,543,902. The new mutuel high was reached after the third race on Wednesday's card. A total of 11 more racing days remain on the current meeting.

The eyes of Big Ten football will be trained on East Lansing, Mich., this afternoon where the Michigan State Spartans will entertain Woody Hayes' Ohio State Buckeyes in a potentially spectacular opening to the conference season.

But that's only half the splendid story. For perennial co-champion Michigan (honors with Hayes' boys) journeys into Camp Randall Stadium where John Jardine's Wisconsin Badgers are fired up to prove their early season credentials as a throne room challenger.

And closer to home, John Pont's Northwestern University Wildcats will entertain the Purdue Boilermakers of ex-Wildcat coach Alex Agase. It's a 1:30 p.m. game in Evanston's Dyche Stadium.

Elsewhere in the Big Ten, Illinois visits Iowa where the Illini are favored and Minnesota starts with Indiana in the Hoosier state.

There will be football tonight in Chicago, also, as Jack Pardee's Bears finish their preseason efforts with the Houston Oilers. The Bears are 2-3 and Houston 2-2.

It's an 8 p.m. game in Soldier Field with an 11 p.m. delayed telecast over WBBM-TV, channel 2.

The great interest in this first Big Ten weekend stems from all four title contenders — Ohio State, Michigan, Michigan State and Wisconsin — bumping heads immediately.

The rebuilding program of Michigan State coach Denny Stolz reached fruition last season with a 7-3-1 record. Most of those Spartans return, including quarterback Charlie Baggett.

It may surprise some, but Michigan State had defeated Ohio State in three of four previous meetings. Hayes has Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin and All-Big Ten quarterback Cornelius Greene ready plus a few gallons of venom.

Their game last season ended in a 16-13 MSU upset with an apparent Ohio State touchdown on the final play being nullified.

Today's meeting isn't on live television. But ABC-TV (Channel 7 in Chicago) has Ohio State-Michigan State hghlights scheduled for its 4 p.m. Wide World of Sports.

In other major games, favorites are Oklahoma over Oregon, Nebraska over LSU, Penn State over Stanford, Tenessee over Maryland, UCLA over Iowa State and Auburn over Memphis State.

HEAA Commandos 13, Boys Club Titans 0

The defending National Champion Hoffman Estates Athletic Assn. Commandos opened their 1975 Chicago Suburban Junior Football League schedule with a 13-0 triumph over crosstown rival H.E. Boys Club Titans.

The Commandos put their first six points on the scoreboard late in the first period when quarterback John Bernat hit halfback Andre Fournier with a 33-yard pass. The Commandos capped the scoring in the third quarter when Bernat fired a 13-yard scoring strike to Robby Sophin and Tom Grall swept left end for the extra point. Defensive stalwarts included Joel Gajvia, Bernat, and Kavin Laurence who limited the Titans to 22 total yards.

HEAA Raiders 13, Boys Club Lancers 6

The Raiders had to drive to score the winning touchdown with 39 seconds left on the clock.

The Raiders opened the scoring on Jim O'Shea's one-yard plunge but the Lancers tied the score after a 40-yard march. But with 39 seconds remaining, O'Shea tallied his second touchdown and added the conversion.

Big Ten's big day here! Bears host Oilers tonight

The eyes of Big Ten football will be trained on East Lansing, Mich., this afternoon where the Michigan State Spartans will entertain Woody Hayes' Ohio State Buckeyes in a potentially spectacular opening to the conference season.

But that's only half the splendid story. For perennial co-champion Michigan (honors with Hayes' boys) journeys into Camp Randall Stadium where John Jardine's Wisconsin Badgers are fired up to prove their early season credentials as a throne room challenger.

And closer to home, John Pont's Northwestern University Wildcats will entertain the Purdue Boilermakers of ex-Wildcat coach Alex Agase. It's a 1:30 p.m. game in Evanston's Dyche Stadium.

Elsewhere in the Big Ten, Illinois visits Iowa where the Illini are favored and Minnesota starts with Indiana in the Hoosier state.

There will be football tonight in Chicago, also, as Jack Pardee's Bears finish their preseason efforts with the Houston Oilers. The Bears are 2-3 and Houston 2-2.

It's an 8 p.m. game in Soldier Field with an 11 p.m. delayed telecast over WBBM-TV, channel 2.

The great interest in this first Big Ten weekend stems from all four title contenders — Ohio State, Michigan, Michigan State and Wisconsin — bumping heads immediately.

The rebuilding program of Michigan State coach Denny Stolz reached fruition last season with a 7-3-1 record. Most of those Spartans return, including quarterback Charlie Baggett.

It may surprise some, but Michigan State had defeated Ohio State in three of four previous meetings. Hayes has Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin and All-Big Ten quarterback Cornelius Greene ready plus a few gallons of venom.

Their game last season ended in a 16-13 MSU upset with an apparent Ohio State touchdown on the final play being nullified.

Today's meeting isn't on live television. But ABC-TV (Channel 7 in Chicago) has Ohio State-Michigan State hghlights scheduled for its 4 p.m. Wide World of Sports.

In other major games, favorites are Oklahoma over Oregon, Nebraska over LSU, Penn State over Stanford, Tenessee over Maryland, UCLA over Iowa State and Auburn over Memphis State.

Davis Cup turmoil as Chile doubtful

The Chilean Tennis Federation postponed until next week making a decision about whether to play Sweden in Davis Cup tennis semifinals.

Also on Friday, in London, a Davis Cup Committee refused to change the semifinals site from Baastad, Sweden, to a neutral nation.

Threats of hostile demonstrations plus an alleged assassination plot against Jaime Fillol, Chile's top player, led the top three men on Chile's squad to withdraw from the competition in Baastad.

The trio are Fillol, Patricio Cronejo and Belus Prajoux who have been heavily criticized in their own country after announcing their decision.

The Chilean Tennis Federation is attempting to assemble another team.

Fitzsimons leads World Open

Pat Fitzsimons fired a 69 for a two-day total of 6-under-par 136 and a one-stroke lead over Howard Twitty and Rod Funseth midway through the World Open golf tournament at Pinehurst, N.C.

First round leader Lee Elder ballooned from his opening 65 to a 74 and 139 total, identical with Tom Kite and Danny Edwards. Tom Weiskopf and Ed Sneed are tied at 138.

Twitty's second round 68 moved him close to Fitzsimons but it wasn't the lowest round. Ben Crenshaw (142 total) and Joe Inman (146) each carded a 67 second round.

Elsewhere, California Angels' flamethrower Nolan Ryan will undergo surgery on Sept. 23 to remove bone chips from his right elbow. Ryan, 14-12 after winning 22 games last season, pitched his fourth no-hitter this season.

Mississippi State has come under NCAA perusal for alleged infractions within its football program. The school reportedly is accused of offering large sums of money to football recruits. Mississippi State was 9-3 last year after losing records in nine of 10 previous seasons.

Heavyweights Ron Lyle and Earnie Shavers will fight a 12-rounder tonight in Denver. Around the world, Argentina's Victor Galindez and South Africa's Pierre Fourie will meet in Fourie's country to contest for the world light heavyweight boxing title.

The NCAA has petitioned the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans to stay and suspend a district court injunction won by the University of Alabama against its new "48-60" rule which limits the number of football players allowed to uniform for NCAA games.

Olympic Organizing Committee members have accepted an offer in excess of $10 million from the European Broadcasting Union for television rights to the 1976 Summer Games in Montreal.

Japanese businessmen have cancelled their interest in buying the San Francisco Giants, citing financial problems plus concern it might arouse anti-Japanese sentiment among American sports fans.

Kentucky Derby winner Foolish Pleasure plus Avatar will run in today's field for the $250,000 Marlboro Cup at Belmont Park. Foolish Pleasure is second choice to Forego.

Los Angeles Dodgers' manager Walt Alston has been rehired for 1976, his 23rd consecutive season with the Dodgers. He has guided them to four World Series titles and seven National League pennants.

Evert wins in Wightman Cup play

Chris Evert of the United States and Virginia Wade of Great Britain each won singles matches handily Friday night as the U.S. and Great Britain tied the first day's play in the 46th annual Wightman Cup Championship being held in Cleveland.

Miss Evert defeated Glynis Coles 6-4, 6-1 and Miss Wade, the British captain, beat Mona Schallau 6-2, 6-1.

Arlington Park slates free admission today

John F. Loome, president and chief executive officer of Arlington Park-Washington Park Race Tracks Corporation, has announced that today will be "Great Year" Appreciation Day at Arlington Park.

Fans will be admitted to the grandstand at the northwest suburban track free for the complete nine race program which features the Midwest's richest horse race — the $200,000 estimated Arlington-Washington Futurity.

Today will also mark the beginning of the "Great Year Bonanza" game. Each day, through the conclusion of the meeting on Thursday, Sept. 25, fans will be able to pick up a numbered coupon free of charge at Arlington, a coupon which could be good for one of 20 major prizes, including two trips to Las Vegas for two.

Other prizes will include a wide variety of complete parties, starting with a complete neighborhood picnic and going on to such specialties as a Prime Steak Chest and Irish and Italian parties.

Winning numbers will be posted on Sept. 25 and prizes may be claimed the same day.

The reason for Arlington Park's generosity is that at the conclusion of the first 81 programs of the current Arlington Park meeting, the total mutuel handle has hit the $138,602,315 mark.

The same period last year produced $137,543,902. The new mutuel high was reached after the third race on Wednesday's card. A total of 11 more racing days remain on the current meeting.

HEAA Commandos 13, Boys Club Titans 0

The defending National Champion Hoffman Estates Athletic Assn. Commandos opened their 1975 Chicago Suburban Junior Football League schedule with a 13-0 triumph over crosstown rival H.E. Boys Club Titans.

The Commandos put their first six points on the scoreboard late in the first period when quarterback John Bernat hit halfback Andre Fournier with a 33-yard pass. The Commandos capped the scoring in the third quarter when Bernat fired a 13-yard scoring strike to Robby Sophin and Tom Grall swept left end for the extra point. Defensive stalwarts included Joel Gajvia, Bernat, and Kavin Laurence who limited the Titans to 22 total yards.

The Raiders had to drive to score the winning touchdown with 39 seconds left on the clock.

The Raiders opened the scoring on Jim O'Shea's one-yard plunge but the Lancers tied the score after a 40-yard march. But with 39 seconds remaining, O'Shea tallied his second touchdown and added the conversion.

Palatine scores three first half TDs in 26-0 w in

by ART MUGALIAN

Palatine recorded its first shoutout in two seasons as quarterback Mark McCostlin and halfback Jim Popp led the Pirates to a 26-0 romp over Conant under the lights at Palatine Friday.

"I can't really recall our last shutout," said Pirate coach Arv Herstedt, who forgot in the post-game excitement a 1973 whitewash of Prospect.

No wonder. Hersted't bruising offense ground out 378 total yards against coach John Ayres' Cougars. The attack was so awesome that it was easy to forget that Palatine's second 1975 win in a row was a shutout.

Popp contributed 49 of his 157 rushing yards in the opening drive of the game when the Pirates moved 65 yards — all on the ground — in just nine plays. Popp, a 519, 165-pound senior, began the onslaught with gains of eight and 17 yards and then capped the march with a six-yard touchdown burst.

After the Pirates' defense held Conant to only 15 yards during the Cougars' first two possessions, the offense went back to work.

A short Conant punt and a Cougar penalty put the Pirates just 45 yards from the goal line at the outset of the second period. On third and five, McCostlin handed to John Bals on the counter play and Bals rambled down the left sideline for 37 yards, all the way to the Conant one-foot line. Jeff Williams bulled over for the score a moment later.

"McCostlin felt it was about time for the counter," Herstedt said. "So we sent it in. You've got to have a lot of time on that play and the whole line did a good job of blocking."

McCostlin, a heady, 6-2, 185-pounder, showed unbelievably quick movements in the backfield, faking once and twice before handing off or keeping the ball on the option. The Pirate senor signalcaller picked up 82 yards on the ground, including a 34-yard TD for the only score of the second half.

"We always knew Mark was a good quarterback," said Herstedt, who figured McCostlin would bounce back from a lackluster showing in the season opener last week.

McCostlin completed three passes in just three attempts, all to senior split end Bill Finlay and all for sizable gains. A 13-yard McCostlin-to-Finlay hookup closed out the first-half scoring.

The only dim note for Palatine's offense was the loss of starting senior guard Jeff Nelson, who suffered a broken leg in the second Pirate drive.

Conant's bright spot on offense again was 5-foot-1 running back Steve Stompanato, a tiny tornado with 69 yards rushing for the night. The Cougars managed 172 total yards, including 29 on four pass completions by starting quarterback Scott Schafer.

Palatine allowed 10 Conant first downs and closed off both of the Cougars' serious attempts to dent the goal line — once in each half.

In the second quarter, a 17-yard keeper by Schafer and a 10-yard run by Stompanato preceded a nifty pass from Schafer to Ed Hill, good for nine yards. A nine-yard gain by Stompanato and a Palatine offside penalty put the ball on the Pirate 29, but Popp broke up a fourth-down pass attempt and the drive stalled.

With just a couple of minutes to play in the game, a fumble by Palatine handed the Cougars the ball at the Pirate 18. But Dan Santy picked off an errant pass by Conant's Tom Haupert and the threat was stymied.

Card balance overwhelms touted Pioneers

Arlington puts on dazzling show in 36-6 win

by BOB GALLAS

The small, but ever so deadly Arlington Cadinals shocked touted St. Francis De Sales Friday night in a one-sided battle, 36-6.

Heavily outweighed at almost every position and underdogs going into the contest, the Cards stormed to a 28-0 lead at halftime and coasted in for the win.

Card quarterback Matt Shaughnessy was deadly accurate, hitting 9 of 12 passes for 173 yards and two touchdowns. Card halfback Mike Schell also chipped in with a 38-yard touchdown strike in the first half.

Arlington's ground attack complemented the passing game crunching out consistent gains all night, for 162 yards rushing.

Highlighting the Arlington offense was the running of Phil Dinielli who carried 21 times for 117 yards and a touchdown.

Card coach Chuck Haines said he didn't expect his team's quick burst of points, especially in light of all the size his squad was giving away.

"We're getting used to being small," Haines said. "I don't know what the kids will do when they finally do meet a team their own size," he added.

"Our pass defense was vastly improved over last week," Haines said. "But we still have some things to work on," he said.

A late passing attack against a second-string Arlington defense willing to give up short yardage allowed the Pioneers to complete 14 of 22 passes in the game. But the Cardinals successfully contained the DeSales passing attack during the first three quarters, allowing only short passing gains.

The Pioneers were their own worest enemies and the Cards were quick to take advantage of the DeSales miscues, including five personal fouls whistled against the Poneers.

The Cards fumbled the ball away on the Pioneer 1-yard line as the third period ended. But they quickly turned things around, ss Greg Kloiber sacked Pioneer quarterback Terry McGuire in his own end zone for a two-point safety.

The Pioneers' only score came midway through the third quarter when McGuire hit end, Dan Brady with a 31-yard touchdown pass. The extra point kick was blocked.

A 45-yard Shaughnessy to Tom North pass set up the first Arlington score which came about three minutes into the game. Shaughnessy then hit Kloiber with a 12-yard toss for the touchdown to cap a 70-yard drive. Steve Leonhard's kick made it 7-0, Arlington.

The Cards came right back three minutes later when Schell bulled in from the three yard line with 5½ minutes left in the first period. Leonhard's kick made it 14-0, Arlington.

A bad snap over the head of the Pioneer punter set up the next Cardinal score as Arlington got the ball on the DeSales three-yard line. Three plays later, Dinielli went in from the two-yard line for a score. Leonhard's third kick of the contest made it 21-0.

The fourth Card TD of the half quarter on a 38-yard halfback pass from Mike Schell to Tom North. Leonhard's kick made it 28-0.

Arlington got on the board again with 2:19 left in the third quarter when Shaughnessy hit Wayne Eisenhuth for a nine-yard score. The kick failed to make it 34-0.

Kloiber's safety early in the final period made the final score Arlington 36, deSales 6.

Harper drops opener; Wright displays solid defense in 14-7 victory

by DOUG PALM

An inexperienced offense was tested doubly by Wright's defensive line which resulted in a net 49-yard total offensive effort Friday night as the Harper College Hawks opened their season with a 14-7 road defeat.

In the second quarter, Wright struck on an 84-yard run by halfback Don Strasser, basically his whole total for the evening.

Strasser picked up teammate John Ferlito's fumble at the line of scrimmage, broke to his left and proceeded past defender Kevin Kristick to the end zone.

This play came with just 33 seconds remaining in the first half and gave Wright a 7-0 lead when Chuck Janus kicked an extra point.

Wright blossomed to a 14-0 margin at 4:58 of the third quarter when tailback David Dallas broke a quick opener off left tackle for 30 yards.

The play appeared stopped at the 15-yard line, but Dallas broke loose from John McLaughlin. Janus again converted successfully.

Harper scored its first touchdown of the new season with 10:01 left in the game. With Wright punting from near its end zone, defensive end Joe Lange nailed Wright punter Mark Allen at the one-yard line when Allen bobbled the snap.

The Hawks recovered with possession at the Wright one-yard line. Frustrated on the offense all evening, the Hawks needed four attempts to cover that one yard.

Quarterback Dave Patterson, on his second successive plunge, snuck over behind right guard Jerry Parker. And Patterson kicked the extra point.

Harper had one other drive which started at the Wright 29-yard line. But that was foiled, with nearly eight minutes remaining, when Patterson suffered his fourth intercepted pass.

Harper owned the ball again with six minutes and two minutes to play, but couldn't score. They advanced to Wright's 45 and 44-yard lines before stalling.

Total offense for Harper, those 49 yards, consisted mostly of passing yardage. Patterson was 8-for-28 for 56 yards and four interceptions.

Their ground game, in 31 attempts, netted minus seven yards as the Hawks quietly opened their season with six major turnovers . . . four interceptions, one fumble and one messed-up punt play.

plays before Zonca could return and he showed no ill effects to hit Bob Alty with a 10-yard pass to the Elk Grove six yard line.

Mielke crashed from there, the extra point attempt hit the upright, and Elk Grove had been unable to stop the Saxons on the very first time they tried.

"Our offense ran well in that first series and I was confident we could keep it up," Ferguson said. "But (Elk Grove head coach Don) Schnake has been around a long time and I could have expected he'd make the adjustments necessary to shut us down."

Elk Grove's defense, and penalties of one sort or another every time they had the ball, kept Schaumburg off the board the rest of the first half.

The flags continued to drop for the Saxons in the third quarter and a clipping penalty cost Zonca a 51-yard touchdown.

The 5-11, 190 pound senior quarterback dropped back to pass under a terrific rush from Elk Grove's Pete Gennuso, Scott Stromberg and David King. On the verge of being slapped with a big loss, Zonca wiggled free and motored down the right sideline for a touchdown that was wiped out when one of his blockers cleared out a man from the wrong side.

Mielke put some breathing room between the clubs early in the fourth quarter. Elk Grove tried a fake punt on fourth down that didn't work and Mielke took Zonca's handoff on the first play of the series up the middle for a 34-yard touchdown. Mielke also scored the two-point conversion.

Elk Grove had two aerials picked off by Bob Connell and Mielke in the closing minutes as Schaumburg preserved their second straight shutout of the season.

Smilers hold awards luncheon for season

The Smilers Golf League of Arlington Heights held its awards luncheon at Old Orchard Country Club for the 1975 season.

Arlene Runge and Louise Lawrenz were awarded trophies for low gross while the low net awards went to Peggy Birmingham (Flight A), Lee Yelovich (Flight B), Nancy Fendius (Flight C) and Dottie Bartlett (Flight D).

Laurie White was voted Most Improved and Connie Malecki was the low ringer. The low gross and low net of the tournament went to Flo Marzullo and Mickey Sorenson respectively.

Arlene Runge had the most pars and Sandy Fernstrom had the fewest putts (93). Connie Koza and Connie Malecki received special awards for shooting birdies.

Carmel shades Wheeling in thriller

by MIKE GARBUS

A fumble on a center exchange during a two-point conversion attempt stymied a late fourth quarter rally by Wheeling, preserving a 22-20 victory by Carmel Friday night on the Wildcats' field.

Following a Carmel punt, Wildcat quarterback Glenn Barry guided his mates 76 yards in 16 plays, with halfback Mark Dollen snaring a five-yard toss from Barry at 1:49 to set up Wheeling's try at tie with the Corsairs that went for naught.

Wheeling had jumped out to the lead early in the second quarter as running back Bill Larson ran three yards over left tackle and Scott Jones added the extra point.

But following the ensuing kickoff, it was the East Suburban Catholic League's entry to march.

The Corsair drive ate up nearly seven minutes with a 90-yard, 15 play series, culminated in a scoring burst from a yard out by halfback Rob Hovseth getting the visitors on the board.

Junior quarterback Bill Haldeman then deftly tossed a two-point conversion to split end Mike May, putting Carmel ahead 8-7.

The Wildcats went to the air to reclaim the lead with only 1:12 left in the half. Wide receiver Dan Black, running a fly pattern to the end zone's left corner, managed to slip behind a leaping Carmel defender and gather in 26-yard aerial from Barry. Another conversion by Jones forged a 14-8 'Cat lead as both teams retreated for halftime.

Carmel wasted no time in evening things up thanks to the punishing running of fullback Tom Miller. The 190-pound junior bulled his way for 39 yards during the Corsairs' first possession of the second half, scoring himself from a yard away. An attempt at another two point conversion failed this time.

The key to the game, according to Wheeling coach Gerry Clinnin though, occurred during the Wildcats' possession prior to Miller's scoring effort.

After fielding the kickoff to begin the second half, the 'Cats began from their 36, but after being caught holding and clipping and the hosts wound up punting four yards behind where their original drive began. The boot carried just 12 yards, giving Carmel field position they immediately took advantage of.

"They made the difference," lamented Clinnen of the penalties. "We need a lot of improving defensively. We let down in the second half."

Miller once again punctured that defense to post his team's winning points going over from the five with :30 left in the third quarter. Miller finished the contest with 108 in 15 carries.

Palatine scores three first half TDs in 26-0 w in

by ART MUGALIAN

Palatine recorded its first shoutout in two seasons as quarterback Mark McCostlin and halfback Jim Popp led the Pirates to a 26-0 romp over Conant under the lights at Palatine Friday.

"I can't really recall our last shutout," said Pirate coach Arv Herstedt, who forgot in the post-game excitement a 1973 whitewash of Prospect.

No wonder. Hersted't bruising offense ground out 378 total yards against coach John Ayres' Cougars. The attack was so awesome that it was easy to forget that Palatine's second 1975 win in a row was a shutout.

Popp contributed 49 of his 157 rushing yards in the opening drive of the game when the Pirates moved 65 yards — all on the ground — in just nine plays. Popp, a 519, 165-pound senior, began the onslaught with gains of eight and 17 yards and then capped the march with a six-yard touchdown burst.

After the Pirates' defense held Conant to only 15 yards during the Cougars' first two possessions, the offense went back to work.

A short Conant punt and a Cougar penalty put the Pirates just 45 yards from the goal line at the outset of the second period. On third and five, McCostlin handed to John Bals on the counter play and Bals rambled down the left sideline for 37 yards, all the way to the Conant one-foot line. Jeff Williams bulled over for the score a moment later.

"McCostlin felt it was about time for the counter," Herstedt said. "So we sent it in. You've got to have a lot of time on that play and the whole line did a good job of blocking."

McCostlin, a heady, 6-2, 185-pounder, showed unbelievably quick movements in the backfield, faking once and twice before handing off or keeping the ball on the option. The Pirate senor signalcaller picked up 82 yards on the ground, including a 34-yard TD for the only score of the second half.

"We always knew Mark was a good quarterback," said Herstedt, who figured McCostlin would bounce back from a lackluster showing in the season opener last week.

McCostlin completed three passes in just three attempts, all to senior split end Bill Finlay and all for sizable gains. A 13-yard McCostlin-to-Finlay hookup closed out the first-half scoring.

The only dim note for Palatine's offense was the loss of starting senior guard Jeff Nelson, who suffered a broken leg in the second Pirate drive.

Conant's bright spot on offense again was 5-foot-1 running back Steve Stompanato, a tiny tornado with 69 yards rushing for the night. The Cougars managed 172 total yards, including 29 on four pass completions by starting quarterback Scott Schafer.

Palatine allowed 10 Conant first downs and closed off both of the Cougars' serious attempts to dent the goal line — once in each half.

In the second quarter, a 17-yard keeper by Schafer and a 10-yard run by Stompanato preceded a nifty pass from Schafer to Ed Hill, good for nine yards. A nine-yard gain by Stompanato and a Palatine offside penalty put the ball on the Pirate 29, but Popp broke up a fourth-down pass attempt and the drive stalled.

With just a couple of minutes to play in the game, a fumble by Palatine handed the Cougars the ball at the Pirate 18. But Dan Santy picked off an errant pass by Conant's Tom Haupert and the threat was stymied.

Card balance overwhelms touted Pioneers

by BOB GALLAS

The small, but ever so deadly Arlington Cadinals shocked touted St. Francis De Sales Friday night in a one-sided battle, 36-6.

Heavily outweighed at almost every position and underdogs going into the contest, the Cards stormed to a 28-0 lead at halftime and coasted in for the win.

Card quarterback Matt Shaughnessy was deadly accurate, hitting 9 of 12 passes for 173 yards and two touchdowns. Card halfback Mike Schell also chipped in with a 38-yard touchdown strike in the first half.

Arlington's ground attack complemented the passing game crunching out consistent gains all night, for 162 yards rushing.

Highlighting the Arlington offense was the running of Phil Dinielli who carried 21 times for 117 yards and a touchdown.

Card coach Chuck Haines said he didn't expect his team's quick burst of points, especially in light of all the size his squad was giving away.

"We're getting used to being small," Haines said. "I don't know what the kids will do when they finally do meet a team their own size," he added.

"Our pass defense was vastly improved over last week," Haines said. "But we still have some things to work on," he said.

A late passing attack against a second-string Arlington defense willing to give up short yardage allowed the Pioneers to complete 14 of 22 passes in the game. But the Cardinals successfully contained the DeSales passing attack during the first three quarters, allowing only short passing gains.

The Pioneers were their own worest enemies and the Cards were quick to take advantage of the DeSales miscues, including five personal fouls whistled against the Poneers.

The Cards fumbled the ball away on the Pioneer 1-yard line as the third period ended. But they quickly turned things around, ss Greg Kloiber sacked Pioneer quarterback Terry McGuire in his own end zone for a two-point safety.

The Pioneers' only score came midway through the third quarter when McGuire hit end, Dan Brady with a 31-yard touchdown pass. The extra point kick was blocked.

A 45-yard Shaughnessy to Tom North pass set up the first Arlington score which came about three minutes into the game. Shaughnessy then hit Kloiber with a 12-yard toss for the touchdown to cap a 70-yard drive. Steve Leonhard's kick made it 7-0, Arlington.

The Cards came right back three minutes later when Schell bulled in from the three yard line with 5½ minutes left in the first period. Leonhard's kick made it 14-0, Arlington.

A bad snap over the head of the Pioneer punter set up the next Cardinal score as Arlington got the ball on the DeSales three-yard line. Three plays later, Dinielli went in from the two-yard line for a score. Leonhard's third kick of the contest made it 21-0.

The fourth Card TD of the half quarter on a 38-yard halfback pass from Mike Schell to Tom North. Leonhard's kick made it 28-0.

Arlington got on the board again with 2:19 left in the third quarter when Shaughnessy hit Wayne Eisenhuth for a nine-yard score. The kick failed to make it 34-0.

Kloiber's safety early in the final period made the final score Arlington 36, deSales 6.

Harper drops opener; Wright displays solid defense in 14-7 victory

by DOUG PALM

An inexperienced offense was tested doubly by Wright's defensive line which resulted in a net 49-yard total offensive effort Friday night as the Harper College Hawks opened their season with a 14-7 road defeat.

In the second quarter, Wright struck on an 84-yard run by halfback Don Strasser, basically his whole total for the evening.

Strasser picked up teammate John Ferlito's fumble at the line of scrimmage, broke to his left and proceeded past defender Kevin Kristick to the end zone.

This play came with just 33 seconds remaining in the first half and gave Wright a 7-0 lead when Chuck Janus kicked an extra point.

Wright blossomed to a 14-0 margin at 4:58 of the third quarter when tailback David Dallas broke a quick opener off left tackle for 30 yards.

The play appeared stopped at the 15-yard line, but Dallas broke loose from John McLaughlin. Janus again converted successfully.

Harper scored its first touchdown of the new season with 10:01 left in the game. With Wright punting from near its end zone, defensive end Joe Lange nailed Wright punter Mark Allen at the one-yard line when Allen bobbled the snap.

The Hawks recovered with possession at the Wright one-yard line. Frustrated on the offense all evening, the Hawks needed four attempts to cover that one yard.

Quarterback Dave Patterson, on his second successive plunge, snuck over behind right guard Jerry Parker. And Patterson kicked the extra point.

Harper had one other drive which started at the Wright 29-yard line. But that was foiled, with nearly eight minutes remaining, when Patterson suffered his fourth intercepted pass.

Harper owned the ball again with six minutes and two minutes to play, but couldn't score. They advanced to Wright's 45 and 44-yard lines before stalling.

Total offense for Harper, those 49 yards, consisted mostly of passing yardage. Patterson was 8-for-28 for 56 yards and four interceptions.

Their ground game, in 31 attempts, netted minus seven yards as the Hawks quietly opened their season with six major turnovers . . . four interceptions, one fumble and one messed-up punt play.

Chain O' Lakes produces quality stringer

Those who have preached that fishing in the Chain O' Lakes is dead, may wish to revise their forecasts after seeing the pictures on this page.

The whoppers represent the winning entries during the five-week Pepsi-Cola-sponsored Chain O'Lakes Fishing Derby that concluded on Labor Day. And area residents were among those who cashed for the handsome prizes awarded to the lucky anglers.

Fishing was conducted in the waters from the Illinois state line on the Fox River to the McHenry Dam on the Fox for the species of northern and walleye pike, largemouth bass, crappie, striped bass, bluegill and channel catfish.

Local fishermen and women accounted for four weekly first place entires, a pair of seconds and two thirds in the very competitive atmosphere.

The biggest winner was Henry Rybarczyk of 3600 Kingfisher Dr. in Rolling Meadows who earned a new Johnson Seahorse motor by netting a 16-inch striped bass from Lake Marie and entering the beauty at the Wooster Lake Park headquarters station.

Rybarczyk set his hook in the winner during the first week of the contest, but it dwarfed all other competition to earn the Grand Prize Award.

Roger Tillander of 138 Cambridge in Hoffman Estates waited until the second week of the derby to land a first-place 18¾ inch largemouth from Lake Marie while Judy Edgar of 1105 W. Lonnquist in Mount Prospect fished a Sure Hit in West Loon Lake for the winning bluegill entry.

While Judy was reeling in her prized 8-5/8 inch gill, her husband Ralph was winning a six-pack of fishing plugs with a third-place buckетmouth that measured 18½ inches.

Rounding out a propserous week of angling, Liza Czepiel of 518 W. Burr Oak, Arlington Heights, boated a hefty 12¾ inch striper out of Channel Lake that ranked second in the weekly stringer and won an insulated Pepsi cooler.

Striped bass continued to be the target of area anglers in the third week of action as witnessed by the dandy 11¼ incher taken by James Michael Touhy of 609 Sienna Dr., Schaumburg from Channel Lake.

The big news during the fourth week of fishing was Mike J. Klingbe's huge 26½ inch catfish caught in Channel Lake.

The 1808 Basswood in Mount Prospect resident notched a second in the week's balloting to win a Pepsi cooler to take the good-eating fish home.

The final week of competition proved fruitful for little Ron Nader of 12 E. McDonald Rd. in Prospect Heights who wormed his way to the top bluegill for the week — a 9¼ incher from Lake Marie.

Anyone who caught a fish during the derby was eligible for weekly sweepstakes prizes which included various fishing accessories.

Tim Hyskrs of 270 E. Mors, Wheeling and Mike Smoron of 4009 Owl Dr. in Rolling Meadows cashed in for goodies in the final drawing.

The higly-successful five-week derby drew a resounding number of 3,500 fish entries and according to director Margaret A. Tuck, the number of weekly entries was progressively doubling by the time the tournament closed.

"We're still negotiating with the Pepsi-Cola people, but we're hoping to have an eight-week derby next year," she said.

Mysterious evolution of northern pike keeps naturalists guessing

Can you name the fish that has 16 canine teeth in its lower jaw, was believed to grow from slender pieces of grass, and is named after an ancient war weapon?

If you guessed anything but the northern pike, your piscatorial knowledge needs to be enhanced.

No fish has inspired more mystery about itself than the northern pike. Early literature refers to the pike as Luce, the waterwolf, and historical accounts show this fish to have been a vicious predator, the subject of much mythology and misunderstanding of its true character.

As an example, early day naturalists explained the introduction of pike into new waters by saying that the fish obviously grew from pieces of grass nurtured by the sun in shallow water. After all, wasn't the pike's grass-colored, slender body reminiscent of its plant progenitors?

Pike were also thoughto live for hundreds of years, growing in this time to enormous size and often attacking men and farm animals in their eternal quest for food.

This fear of the pike carried into more recent times and resulted in at least one attempt to prove the fish's longevity and great size by perpetrating a fraud. What was supposed to be a 19-foot-long, 350 pound pike was proven to be a cleverly mounted fish made of many other pike. The pieces were fitted together to form the monster that everyone wanted to believe had actually lived.

Pike are a popular game fish today, and information indicates their numbers are growing as they are introduced to new waters by state fish and game agencies.

As a result of these stocking efforts, many midwest and southern lakes have resident populations of northern pike. Most states report their experimental plantings are successful, and anglers are enthusiastic about the opportunity to fish for the wolf of the weedbeds.

Flinching may be cause for hunter's woes

Quick dove demand proper lead

Vic Watia

The small flock of dove approached rapidly in an erratic flight pattern, following the twists and turns of the tree-lined drainage ditch.

"I'll take the ones on the left, you take those on the right," Don Peters whispered as we sat in deep grass along the edge of a soybean field.

Seconds later the dove flew within shotgun range, changing flight positions like fighter planes eluding pursuers. When the group of about 10 birds finally saw us, it was too late. They divided, about half swinging in front of us toward the ditch and the others to our backs.

"Now!" Peters said, coming up on his knees with the shotgun at his shoulder. I followed suit, swinging my gun with the lead bird in front of us.

My first shot missed. So did my second. Peters quickly dropped two birds.

"You flinched again, I bet," he said after retrieving the birds.

"I know I did, but I won't next time," I said.

Shooting more than a box of high brass seven and a half's earlier in a lightweight Remington .16 gauge automatic had given me a black and blue shoulder. Each shot brought extreme pain, and I had started flinching in anticipation of the recoil. The result was missed birds.

I switched over to a .20 gauge Browington lightweight automatic, but that provided little relief because I also was shooting high brass shells in that gun, and it kicked as bad as the sixteen.

The high brass shells had not been my choice. They simply were all that was left at the local sporting goods store when I dashed out at the last minute to purchase shells.

It wasn't until Peters of Clifton, Ill., handed me his pigeon grade Winchester pump .12 gauge and a handful of trap loads that I got some relief. At first I didn't believe him when he told me the gun didn't have much recoil.

Those two shots at a passing bird told me he was right. "I still flinched," I said, "but it was in anticipation of the kick I never got. Wait until the next bird."

"You don't have long to wait," Peters said. "Here comes one now."

The single was following the same drainage ditch, and swung out in front of us. I took my time and swung the gun barrel with him, squeezing the trigger gently this time. The bird dropped with the shot.

Peters was using my .20 gauge automatic, protesting he wouldn't be able to hit anything with "the Chicago city slicker's gun." We teamed up on the next double. "There goes mine," I said, dropping the first bird. "I missed mine," Peters said, "and you were right, this gun kicks like a horse."

But it didn't take long for him to become adapted to the shotgun. Soon he was knocking down doubles. "I've changed my mind about this gun," he said grinning after taking two birds in a row with one shot each. "It ain't bad. . .for a city slicker's gun."

Hunters often call the dove the "gray bullet" because it makes a tough target when moving at high speeds. However, be warned the bird is not always as difficult to hit as some hunters would have us believe.

The basic problem I had when I began dove hunting about six years ago was putting a proper "lead" on the bird. All my life, I've been more of an instinct or what I call a "snap" shooter.

But before I began hunting dove, hunters warned me to give the bird a proper lead or I would surely miss. Everything I read on the dove proclaimed it as a nearly impossible target that drives hunters mad. Certainly it is all of that at one time or another.

However, my basic shooting style has always been to swing on a bird, line the sights on his head or just in front of it and squeeze the trigger while maintaining the swing. This is all done in a split second automatically.

When I tried to alter that style by thinking of what I was doing and just how many feet to lead the dove to match its speed, I began missing. I finally have gotten back to my original style of shooting, and am now hitting more birds.

For those "snap" shooters like myself who are just getting into dove shooting, don't worry. After enough misses, you'll find your style begins adjusting to any difference in the speed of the "gray bullet" and the birds you're now hunting.

The whoppers represent the winning entries during the five-week Pepsi-Cola-sponsored Chain O'Lakes Fishing Derby that concluded on Labor Day. And area residents were among those who cashed for the handsome prizes awarded to the lucky anglers.

Fishing was conducted in the waters from the Illinois state line on the Fox River to the McHenry Dam on the Fox for the species of northern and walleye pike, largemouth bass, crappie, striped bass, bluegill and channel catfish.

Local fishermen and women accounted for four weekly first place entires, a pair of seconds and two thirds in the very competitive atmosphere.

The biggest winner was Henry Rybarczyk of 3600 Kingfisher Dr. in Rolling Meadows who earned a new Johnson Seahorse motor by netting a 16-inch striped bass from Lake Marie and entering the beauty at the Wooster Lake Park headquarters station.

Rybarczyk set his hook in the winner during the first week of the contest, but it dwarfed all other competition to earn the Grand Prize Award.

Roger Tillander of 138 Cambridge in Hoffman Estates waited until the second week of the derby to land a first-place 18¾ inch largemouth from Lake Marie while Judy Edgar of 1105 W. Lonnquist in Mount Prospect fished a Sure Hit in West Loon Lake for the winning bluegill entry.

While Judy was reeling in her prized 8-5/8 inch gill, her husband Ralph was winning a six-pack of fishing plugs with a third-place bucketmouth that measured 18½ inches.

Rounding out a propserous week of angling, Liza Czepiel of 518 W. Burr Oak, Arlington Heights, boated a hefty 12¾ inch striper out of Channel Lake that ranked second in the weekly stringer and won an insulated Pepsi cooler.

Striped bass continued to be the target of area anglers in the third week of action as witnessed by the dandy 11¼ incher taken by James Michael Touhy of 609 Sienna Dr., Schaumburg from Channel Lake.

The big news during the fourth week of fishing was Mike J. Klingbe's huge 26½ inch catfish caught in Channel Lake.

The 1808 Basswood in Mount Prospect resident notched a second in the week's balloting to win a Pepsi cooler to take the good-eating fish home.

The final week of competition proved fruitful for little Ron Nader of 12 E. McDonald Rd. in Prospect Heights who wormed his way to the top bluegill for the week — a 9¼ incher from Lake Marie.

Anyone who caught a fish during the derby was eligible for weekly sweepstakes prizes which included various fishing accessories.

Tim Hyskrs of 270 E. Mors, Wheeling and Mike Smoron of 4009 Owl Dr. in Rolling Meadows cashed in for goodies in the final drawing.

The higly-successful five-week derby drew a resounding number of 3,500 fish entries and according to director Margaret A. Tuck, the number of weekly entries was progressively doubling by the time the tournament closed.

"We're still negotiating with the Pepsi-Cola people, but we're hoping to have an eight-week derby next year," she said.

Mysterious evolution of northern pike keeps naturalists guessing

Can you name the fish that has 16 canine teeth in its lower jaw, was believed to grow from slender pieces of grass, and is named after an ancient war weapon?

If you guessed anything but the northern pike, your piscatorial knowledge needs to be enhanced.

No fish has inspired more mystery about itself than the northern pike. Early literature refers to the pike as Luce, the waterwolf, and historical accounts show this fish to have been a vicious predator, the subject of much mythology and misunderstanding of its true character.

As an example, early day naturalists explained the introduction of pike into new waters by saying that the fish obviously grew from pieces of grass nurtured by the sun in shallow water. After all, wasn't the pike's grass-colored, slender body reminiscent of its plant progenitors?

Pike were also thoughto live for hundreds of years, growing in this time to enormous size and often attacking men and farm animals in their eternal quest for food.

This fear of the pike carried into more recent times and resulted in at least one attempt to prove the fish's longevity and great size by perpetrating a fraud. What was supposed to be a 19-foot-long, 350 pound pike was proven to be a cleverly mounted fish made of many other pike. The pieces were fitted together to form the monster that everyone wanted to believe had actually lived.

Pike are a popular game fish today, and information indicates their numbers are growing as they are introduced to new waters by state fish and game agencies.

As a result of these stocking efforts, many midwest and southern lakes have resident populations of northern pike. Most states report their experimental plantings are successful, and anglers are enthusiastic about the opportunity to fish for the wolf of the weedbeds.

Flinching may be cause for hunter's woes

Vic Watia

The small flock of dove approached rapidly in an erratic flight pattern, following the twists and turns of the tree-lined drainage ditch.

"I'll take the ones on the left, you take those on the right," Don Peters whispered as we sat in deep grass along the edge of a soybean field.

Seconds later the dove flew within shotgun range, changing flight positions like fighter planes eluding pursuers. When the group of about 10 birds finally saw us, it was too late. They divided, about half swinging in front of us toward the ditch and the others to our backs.

"Now!" Peters said, coming up on his knees with the shotgun at his shoulder. I followed suit, swinging my gun with the lead bird in front of us.

My first shot missed. So did my second. Peters quickly dropped two birds.

"You flinched again, I bet," he said after retrieving the birds.

"I know I did, but I won't next time," I said.

Shooting more than a box of high brass seven and a half's earlier in a lightweight Remington .16 gauge automatic had given me a black and blue shoulder. Each shot brought extreme pain, and I had started flinching in anticipation of the recoil. The result was missed birds.

I switched over to a .20 gauge Browington lightweight automatic, but that provided little relief because I also was shooting high brass shells in that gun, and it kicked as bad as the sixteen.

The high brass shells had not been my choice. They simply were all that was left at the local sporting goods store when I dashed out at the last minute to purchase shells.

It wasn't until Peters of Clifton, Ill., handed me his pigeon grade Winchester pump .12 gauge and a handful of trap loads that I got some relief. At first I didn't believe him when he told me the gun didn't have much recoil.

Those two shots at a passing bird told me he was right. "I still flinched," I said, "but it was in anticipation of the kick I never got. Wait until the next bird."

"You don't have long to wait," Peters said. "Here comes one now."

The single was following the same drainage ditch, and swung out in front of us. I took my time and swung the gun barrel with him, squeezing the trigger gently this time. The bird dropped with the shot.

Peters was using my .20 gauge automatic, protesting he wouldn't be able to hit anything with "the Chicago city slicker's gun." We teamed up on the next double. "There goes mine," I said, dropping the first bird. "I missed mine," Peters said, "and you were right, this gun kicks like a horse."

But it didn't take long for him to become adapted to the shotgun. Soon he was knocking down doubles. "I've changed my mind about this gun," he said grinning after taking two birds in a row with one shot each. "It ain't bad. . .for a city slicker's gun."

Hunters often call the dove the "gray bullet" because it makes a tough target when moving at high speeds. However, be warned the bird is not always as difficult to hit as some hunters would have us believe.

The basic problem I had when I began dove hunting about six years ago was putting a proper "lead" on the bird. All my life, I've been more of an instinct or what I call a "snap" shooter.

But before I began hunting dove, hunters warned me to give the bird a proper lead or I would surely miss. Everything I read on the dove proclaimed it as a nearly impossible target that drives hunters mad. Certainly it is all of that at one time or another.

However, my basic shooting style has always been to swing on a bird, line the sights on his head or just in front of it and squeeze the trigger while maintaining the swing. This is all done in a split second automatically.

When I tried to alter that style by thinking of what I was doing and just how many feet to lead the dove to match its speed, I began missing. I finally have gotten back to my original style of shooting, and am now hitting more birds.

For those "snap" shooters like myself who are just getting into dove shooting, don't worry. After enough misses, you'll find your style begins adjusting to any difference in the speed of the "gray bullet" and the birds you're now hunting.

Rally fails, stocks fall for fourth straight day

NEW YORK (UPI) — An early bargain-hunting rally died due to lack of support Friday and prices fell for the fourth consecutive day in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Although there was little initial reaction, Wall Street's concerns about rising interest rates mounted when trend-setting First National City Bank of New York raised its prime rate from 7¾ to 8 per cent, as expected. The prime is at its highest level since October, 1974.

The general lack of stimulating news failed to sustain the early rally, which most analysts attributed to bargain hunting following the market's slide this week and to short-covering — replacing borrowed shares sold earlier.

AS A RESULT, the Dow Jones industrial average, ahead more than six points early in the day, fell 3.37 points to 809.29, giving it a loss of 26.68 points for the week. After a 4.14-point gain Monday, the Dow lost 30.82 points in the next four sessions.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.15 to 83.30. The average price of an NYSE common share decreased six cents. Declines overtook advances, 674 to 590, among the 1,747 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 12,230,000 shares, compared with 11,100,000 traded Thursday.

Citibank's move was followed by several other major banks.

Late in the session, a state Supreme Court justice in Albany, N.Y. issued a temporary restraining order barring the state from using $125 million in public employe retirement funds to buy bonds to rescue New York City.

UTILITIES WERE heavily traded by institutions. Some contend the issues are sensitive to interest rates.

Virginia Electric & Power led the Big Board actives, off 1/8 to 12 on 231,000 shares, including a block of 200,000 shares at 12. Middle South Utilities followed, unchanged at 13 on 222,400 shares, including two blocks of 100,000 shares each at 12 7/8. Southern Co. was fourth, unchanged at 12 5/8 on 145,800 shares, including a block of 100,000 shares at 12 5/8.

Gulf Oil was the third most active issue, off ¼ to 21 1/8 on 179,500 shares, including a block of 100,000 shares at 21¼.

Banking issues were weak. Citicorp, parent of First National City Bank, lost ½ to 27 7/8, J. P. Morgan 1½ to 51 1/8, Manufacturers Hanover 1 3/8 to 28 5/8 and Chase Manhattan 3/8 to 28 7/8.

Prices closed lower in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share lost two cents. Volume totaled 1,120,000 shares, compared with 1,190,000 traded Thursday.

Walking plan simple and healthy

Can you send me details on starting the walking exercise program you mentioned in your column?

It is really very simple. Start out by walking for 15 minutes at a comfortable speed. Gradually increase the length of your walk to one hour. When you can walk an hour at a time repeatedly without getting excessively tired then you can introduce a jogging program. About that point you should have a medical examination to be sure you can do more vigorous exercise.

For those with no medical contraindications the next phase is to jog a short distance during your walk, don't overdo it. Then resume walking. Do this once or twice during the walk and then gradually increase the number of times you jog in the middle of your walk. Be sure not to push it and stop jogging at once if you feel tired. Eventually you could build up to jogging at a slow pace for a whole hour if you wish.

An alternative method after you are cleared for walking would be to walk for 20 minutes, jog a short distance, maybe only 100 steps counting when your left foot hits the ground, and then gradually increase the length of your jog by about 10 steps each day. Eventually you will be jogging as long as you want to after a warm-up walk of 20 minutes.

Walking, jogging and running exercises are great for your heart and circulation.

The important thing about jogging is not to push yourself. Always gradually train to the proper level. If you have been off exercise build back, gradually, to your previous level. A good rule to follow is never jog so fast that you can't carry on a conversation without getting breathless.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb

Do not try to set records or push your own speed. Most of the men who get into trouble (and it is usually men, not women) do so becauese they just can't control their competitive urge and have to beat their old time or prove something to themselves or someone else. Jog at a comfortable rate, smell the flowers along the way, and live to enjoy them.

Also, get proper gear. Good shoes that provide adequate cushioning help protect ankles and knees, particularly if jogging on a hard surface. Many an over enthusiastic jogger has had to give up the practice because he didn't pay attention to this.

There has been a lot of three-day measles going around in my neighborhood. Would you please tell me if it's necessary for the child who has the measles to stay in a dark room? Some say yes, because the light would hurt his eyes and others say no, it's just an old wives' tale, so please give me your opinion.

Bright light is painful or irritating to some people with measles. We call this photophobia, literally translated to "fear of light." For these patients it is helpful to have the room sufficiently dark to make them comfortable. Other than this, there is no reason to darken the room. The normal lighting conditions will not damge the eye in any way.

Rally fails, stocks fall for fourth straight day

NEW YORK (UPI) — An early bargain-hunting rally died due to lack of support Friday and prices fell for the fourth consecutive day in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Although there was little initial reaction, Wall Street's concerns about rising interest rates mounted when trend-setting First National City Bank of New York raised its prime rate from 7¾ to 8 per cent, as expected. The prime is at its highest level since October, 1974.

The general lack of stimulating news failed to sustain the early rally, which most analysts attributed to bargain hunting following the market's slide this week and to short-covering — replacing borrowed shares sold earlier.

AS A RESULT, the Dow Jones industrial average, ahead more than six points early in the day, fell 3.37 points to 809.29, giving it a loss of 26.68 points for the week. After a 4.14-point gain Monday, the Dow lost 30.82 points in the next four sessions.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.15 to 83.30. The average price of an NYSE common share decreased six cents. Declines overtook advances, 674 to 590, among the 1,747 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 12,230,000 shares, compared with 11,100,000 traded Thursday.

Citibank's move was followed by several other major banks.

Late in the session, a state Supreme Court justice in Albany, N.Y. issued a temporary restraining order barring the state from using $125 million in public employe retirement funds to buy bonds to rescue New York City.

UTILITIES WERE heavily traded by institutions. Some contend the issues are sensitive to interest rates.

Virginia Electric & Power led the Big Board actives, off 1/8 to 12 on 231,000 shares, including a block of 200,000 shares at 12. Middle South Utilities followed, unchanged at 13 on 222,400 shares, including two blocks of 100,000 shares each at 12 7/8. Southern Co. was fourth, unchanged at 12 5/8 on 145,800 shares, including a block of 100,000 shares at 12 5/8.

Gulf Oil was the third most active issue, off ¼ to 21 1/8 on 179,500 shares, including a block of 100,000 shares at 21¼.

Banking issues were weak. Citicorp, parent of First National City Bank, lost ½ to 27 7/8, J. P. Morgan 1½ to 51 1/8, Manufacturers Hanover 1 3/8 to 28 5/8 and Chase Manhattan 3/8 to 28 7/8.

Prices closed lower in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share lost two cents. Volume totaled 1,120,000 shares, compared with 1,190,000 traded Thursday.

Walking plan simple and healthy

Can you send me details on starting the walking exercise program you mentioned in your column?

It is really very simple. Start out by walking for 15 minutes at a comfortable speed. Gradually increase the length of your walk to one hour. When you can walk an hour at a time repeatedly without getting excessively tired then you can introduce a jogging program. About that point you should have a medical examination to be sure you can do more vigorous exercise.

For those with no medical contraindications the next phase is to jog a short distance during your walk, don't overdo it. Then resume walking. Do this once or twice during the walk and then gradually increase the number of times you jog in the middle of your walk. Be sure not to push it and stop jogging at once if you feel tired. Eventually you could build up to jogging at a slow pace for a whole hour if you wish.

An alternative method after you are cleared for walking would be to walk for 20 minutes, jog a short distance, maybe only 100 steps counting when your left foot hits the ground, and then gradually increase the length of your jog by about 10 steps each day. Eventually you will be jogging as long as you want to after a warm-up walk of 20 minutes.

Walking, jogging and running exercises are great for your heart and circulation.

The important thing about jogging is not to push yourself. Always gradually train to the proper level. If you have been off exercise build back, gradually, to your previous level. A good rule to follow is never jog so fast that you can't carry on a conversation without getting breathless.

The doctor says
by Lawrence E. Lamb

Do not try to set records or push your own speed. Most of the men who get into trouble (and it is usually men, not women) do so becauese they just can't control their competitive urge and have to beat their old time or prove something to themselves or someone else. Jog at a comfortable rate, smell the flowers along the way, and live to enjoy them.

Also, get proper gear. Good shoes that provide adequate cushioning help protect ankles and knees, particularly if jogging on a hard surface. Many an over enthusiastic jogger has had to give up the practice because he didn't pay attention to this.

There has been a lot of three-day measles going around in my neighborhood. Would you please tell me if it's necessary for the child who has the measles to stay in a dark room? Some say yes, because the light would hurt his eyes and others say no, it's just an old wives' tale, so please give me your opinion.

Bright light is painful or irritating to some people with measles. We call this photophobia, literally translated to "fear of light." For these patients it is helpful to have the room sufficiently dark to make them comfortable. Other than this, there is no reason to darken the room. The normal lighting conditions will not damge the eye in any way.

God... the flag... and Friday nights at the ol' fish fry

by BARRY SIGALE

To the accordion strains of "Close To You," 250 members of the Loyal Order of Moose, Des Plaines chapter, their relatives and friends, heed the summons to the dinner table.

Friday night is the traditional fish fry at the River Road lodge. The people have come to sink their teeth into ocean perch, cole slaw and french fries. Other offerings lure a small percentage of the customers, but the fish is the main attraction.

All across the Northwest suburbs, at Elks lodges and VFW halls, a few thousand persons settle down for family-style supper. The object is food, drink and merriment. To the Moose, who espouse strong beliefs in a "Supreme Being and the Flag of the United States," fried fish is their apple pie.

Business is better than ever at the Moose gathering since the building was remodeled from fish fry funds and other events. Dinner money now supports Mooseheart, a children's home near Aurora, and Moosehaven, a retirement center in Orange Park, Fla.

About 10 years ago the Moose was heavily into bingo. When the state outlawed the game, the organization was among the last to shut down its operation. They then turned to fish fries, a Friday night institution ever since.

EXCEPT FOR a short period, the Moose response to dinner has been excellent. When interest was low, the menu was expanded for all tastes. The choices include steak, hamburger, chicken and shrimp as well as fish. Now Moose members from lodges as far away as the south side of Chicago travel to Des Plaines for dinner — Elmer Tucker style.

Heading a kitchen crew of volunteers that includes his wife, who buses tables, chief cook Tucker prepares an average of 60 pounds of fish, 30 orders of chicken and a couple of cases of french fries every Friday. The first hour he prepares one order a minute. In between he nibbles his own dinner, consuming scraps of food when he has a free hand.

"This is what I do in my spare time," says Tucker, an Arlington Heights man who gets his name and picture in the paper every year while waiting in line at the county building to claim the season's first picnic permit for the Moose. He is an awning installer by trade.

With new equipment Tucker feels the Moose, of which he is junior governor, provides better quality food at economical prices. A fish meal, complete with four pieces of perch, french fries, cole slaw and coffee is $2. Shrimp dinner is $2.50, steak $2.75. But Moose fish fries are for members only.

Doubling as food buyer, Tucker hunts for bargains. Recently he bought 140 steaks at the Jewel Food Store in Arlington Heights because the meat was on sale and 61 cents cheaper than elsewhere. How do they react to such a big order? "They kind of flip over that," he laughs.

BECAUSE SOME of the food is precooked, orders are filled with never more than a half hour wait. A full-service bar does a lively business as members socialize.

The crowd begins arriving at 6 p.m. A

(Contiued on Page 22)

Elmer Tucker doles out the fried fish.

Several clubs open to public for Friday fish

While fish fries at the Loyal Order of Moose and Elks club are closed to the general public the Veterans of Foreign Wars invite the public to eat with them on Friday nights.

The Arlington Heights, VFW, 811 N. Yale St., has a different menu each Friday night. Featured on various Fridays are walleye, haddock, filet of sole and rainbow trout. Supplements to the menu include perch, chicken, shrimp and hamburger. Prices range from $2.50 to $3.50. Doors are open from 6 to 9 p.m.

The Elk Grove Village VFW, 400 E. Devon Ave., has fish fries every Friday from 5 to 9 p.m. They serve red snapper, monk fish, perch, shrimp and hamburger. Prices range from $1 to $2.50.

In Mount Prospect, the VFW sponsors a fish fry the last Friday of every month. The menu includes haddock, cole slaw and french fries. Prices are $1.50 for children, $2.50 for adults. It's all you can eat every meal. The VFW is located at 401 N. Main

The stately homes

Bicyclists' first stop — Riverside Public Library

by KATHERINE BOYCE

In 1870, one year before the Great Fire, Chicago was a crowded, turbulent city where horse-drawn wagons strained through the mud of unpaved streets.

Those who could afford it fled the city on weekends. A favorite spot was Riverside, a scenic resort community nestled west of the city in a bend of the Des Plaines River.

Today Riverside is just another suburb but it remains an elite, picturesque community. Rich heritage and famous architecture have earned it recognition as a national landmark.

City dwellers and suburbanites still travel to Riverside to study architecture, learn history and commune with nature. The Chicago School of Architecture Foundation sponsors a bicycle tour of the village every Sunday in September.

IN 1869, landscape architects Frederick Law Olmsted and Calvert Vaux were commissioned to turn one of the largest horse farms outside Chicago into the community of Riverside. The architects also designed New York City's Central Park, Boston Common and Chicago's Jackson Park.

Riverside was Chicago's first planned suburb and the first suburb with curved streets. It was one of the first villages in the Midwest to have paved streets. Although the streets have been repaved many times, they were originally several inches below the level of the lawns to be hidden from view of the homeowner sitting on his front porch.

One of Riverside's most distinctive features is its abundant greenery. The architects set aside 700 of its 1,600 acres as public parkways which are spread throughout the village. In 1870, the streets were illuminated with gas street lamps. When electricity came to the Midwest the people of Riverside kept those lamps which are one of the village's trademarks today.

EXPLORING Riverside is an adventure for any bicyclist who can endure the six-mile ride lasting two to three hours. Cyclists, in groups of 15 to 20, are led around town by a tour guide.

A highlight of the tour is Riverside's Water Tower, built in 1870 by William LeBaron Jenney who lived in the village. Jenney was famous for gothic architecture at that time but later became known as the father of the modern skyscraper.

Also early on the tour is one of Riverside's original houses, built in 1870 with a distinctive Mansard roof. The flat roof was designed in France "as a form of tax evasion," explains the tour guide. At that time homeowners were being taxed for the number of floors below the eaves. The top

In 1870, one year before the Great Fire, Chicago was a crowded, turbulent city where horse-drawn wagons strained through the mud of unpaved streets.

Those who could afford it fled the city on weekends. A favorite spot was Riverside, a scenic resort community nestled west of the city in a bend of the Des Plaines River.

Today Riverside is just another suburb but it remains an elite, picturesque community. Rich heritage and famous architecture have earned it recognition as a national landmark.

City dwellers and suburbanites still travel to Riverside to study architecture, learn history and commune with nature. The Chicago School of Architecture Foundation sponsors a bicycle tour of the village every Sunday in September.

IN 1869, landscape architects Frederick Law Olmsted and Calvert Vaux were commissioned to turn one of the largest horse farms outside Chicago into the community of Riverside. The architects also designed New York City's Central Park, Boston Common and Chicago's Jackson Park.

Riverside was Chicago's first planned suburb and the first suburb with curved streets. It was one of the first villages in the Midwest to have paved streets. Although the streets have been repaved many times, they were originally several inches below the level of the lawns to be hidden from view of the homeowner sitting on his front porch.

One of Riverside's most distinctive features is its abundant greenery. The architects set aside 700 of its 1,600 acres as public parkways which are spread throughout the village. In 1870, the streets were illuminated with gas street lamps. When electricity came to the Midwest the people of Riverside kept those lamps which are one of the village's trademarks today.

floor of the houses with a Mansard roof is actually above the eaves, the guide explains.

THE DATE of some of the Riverside houses is unknown. Although the community was developed in 1870 the Chicago fire struck in 1871 and most money in the area went to rebuild Chicago. Historians believe some of the early Riverside houses were built afterwards.

One home whose date is unknown was owned by the Kinsey family, the only family to survive the Chicago massacre at Fort Dearborn. The house is built in the Queen Anne style with a variety of shingle types, windows and roofing put together with no thought of symmetry.

One characteristic of the design on homes of this period is the use of "gingerbread," the common term applied to the ornate wood carvings used to decorate corners, windows and porches. Each carpenter had his own pattern much like the women of the era had a pattern for their quilts.

The tour does not include a look at the interior of the homes, but some owners watch for the bicyclists and greet them on their lawns. One man who has lived in an 1870 Italian villa style home for 40 years described the interior of his home and argued good-naturedly with the guide on the value of architecture of that period.

THE ROMANTICISM of the 1870s is easily seen in another of the original homes built in the Italian villa style. One small room extends above the main roof of the home like a steeple. The room is called a cupola and was used by the owner as a place to view the countryside and write poetry.

After riding past house after house in the 1870-style the visitor rounds a corner and is suddenly struck by what looks like modern architecture. The F. F. Tomeck home was built in 1907 by Frank Lloyd Wright. His prairie-style architecture can be spotted easily by its horizontal lines and small ribbon-like windows. Wright homes do not have basements. The houses are built on cement pedestals and the first floor of the homes serve as a basement-utility area.

Another home, built by prairie-school architects William Grey Purcell and George Grant Elmsie, is actually the servant quarters of an old estate home which was torn down in 1960.

The homes built in the prairie-style are some of the largest and most impressive in Riverside. They include the famous Avery Coonley Estate designed by Wright in 1908. Wright considered this design his best. The estate is almost hidden from view by trees and shrubbery but the visitor can catch glimpses of the ribbon windows, wooden beams and ornate tiles used to decorate the exterior walls.

COONLEY, a wealthy industrialist, also commissioned Wright to design a preschool building for his wife who worked as a teacher. Two other prairie-school architects also built the Thorncroft House for Coonley which was used as a home for employes.

One landmark doesn't seem to fit into the Riverside setting but is included in the tour because it attracts attention from the bicyclists. Hoffman Tower is actually located in Lyons, across the river from Riverside. The tower, which reminds the viewers of a castle on the Rhine, was built in 1907 by a German landowner.

The tower was to be used to generate electricity from the current of the Des Plaines River. The project went bankrupt in one year when it was discovered the current of the river was not strong enough to operate the generators. The tower stands today and is now owned by the Forest Preserve District.

During the Centennial of 1876 this home was remodeled in a Federal style.

Bike tours continue through September

Bicycle tours of Riverside are sponsored by the Chicago School of Architecture Foundation Sept. 14, 21 and 28.

The tour begins at the Riverside Library on Burling Road at 2 p.m. The cost of the tour is $2 per person and riders must supply their own bicycles. The six-mile tour lasts from two to three hours and includes 31 points of interest throughout the community.

Riverside is about an hour's drive from the Northwest suburbs. Suburbanites should take Interstate 90 east to Harlem Avenue, travel south on Harlem about three miles to the Burlington-Quincy Railroad tracks. Immediately after crossing the tracks, turn right on Quincy Street which leads to the town square and library.

The foundation also sponsors walking tours and bicycle tours of Evanston and the North Shore, Lincoln Park, North Michigan Avenue and the Chicago Loop, Graceland Cemetery, Hyde Park, Beverly Hills and Pullman and Oak Park.

Information about these tours is available from the foundation, Glessner House, 1800 S. Prairie Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60616, (312) 326-1393.

Prudent Don will never be tied in knots

Don Knotts will never join Burt Reynolds, James Caan and Clint Eastwood in that select fraternity of actors who do their own movie stunts.

Don is a prudent — not to say cowardly — actor who makes certain he lives to star another day.

Currently working in his third Disney picture, Don carefully combs each script in advance to see what death-defying feats are expected of him. Disney films are rarely found wanting in blood-chilling action.

"I've never been hurt in a movie because I've never done a stunt," Knotts said contentedly. "When I played Barney Fife in 'The Andy Griffith Show' all those years there was very little physical action.

"THE STUNTS aren't usually included in Disney scripts. They add them later. But it's no sweat for me because I don't do 'em.

"I do spend a lot of time soaked to the skin. Or plastered from head to foot with flour. It's a part of life when you work for Disney."

In "The Apple Dumpling Gang" Don's character plunged from a girder into wet cement. He also was tangled in a broken ladder, fell off a rope, dangled from a roof and tiptoed on a high ledge.

"It takes days to do all that stunt work," Knotts said. "I get bored but not hurt. I watch the stunt man work and then I walk in for the close-up.

"Sometimes they get me to do part of a stunt, like walking to the edge of a cliff or something. But then they send for the stuntman.

"IN 'GUS' — it's about a fieldgoal kicking mule — I was lucky. There were no stunts for my character. I played a football coach, but I was in danger of being un over by the players."

In "No Deposit, No Return," in which he costars with David Niven, Knotts spends many days beyond camera range watching his stunt men — a fearless pair named Alex Plasschaert and Jerry Brutschet — risk their necks.

"They don't pay me enough to do dangerous stunts. Cowardice has nothing to do with it. I just don't want to ruin my stage career," he said.

When Knotts isn't sidestepping peril he gets his kicks touring in theatrical productions of "The Odd Couple," — "Last of the Red Hot Lovers" and "The Mind With the Dirty Man."

KNOTTS HAS established his timid, born loser character as firmly as such great oldtimers as Chaplin, Langdon and Keaton. He is among the most identifiable characters in comedy history.

Knotts invariably plays a man on the verge of a nervous breakdown in movie and television roles. Yet on stage he escapes that image to play wider ranging parts.

In reality, Knotts bears little resemblance to his palsied, chicken-livered film image. He is, in fact a calm and placid soul who takes his comedy as seriously as any of the giants of yesteryear.

While he likes to depart from the quavering wretch, he has no deep yearning to play "Hamlet." He will, however, head for London this fall to discuss starring in some English theatrical productions.

Don thinks audiences like his uptight character because they either identify with him or feel superior to the eternal loser. In any case, he knows they hold him in great affection.

"When I play in golf tournaments and get off a good shot, the gallery really gives me a cheer," he said. "And I like that."

Prudent Don will never be tied in knots

Don Knotts will never join Burt Reynolds, James Caan and Clint Eastwood in that select fraternity of actors who do their own movie stunts.

Don is a prudent — not to say cowardly — actor who makes certain he lives to star another day.

Currently working in his third Disney picture, Don carefully combs each script in advance to see what death-defying feats are expected of him. Disney films are rarely found wanting in blood-chilling action.

"I've never been hurt in a movie because I've never done a stunt," Knotts said contentedly. "When I played Barney Fife in 'The Andy Griffith Show' all those years there was very little physical action.

"THE STUNTS aren't usually included in Disney scripts. They add them later. But it's no sweat for me because I don't do 'em.

"I do spend a lot of time soaked to the skin. Or plastered from head to foot with flour. It's a part of life when you work for Disney."

In "The Apple Dumpling Gang" Don's character plunged from a girder into wet cement. He also was tangled in a broken ladder, fell off a rope, dangled from a roof and tiptoed on a high ledge.

"It takes days to do all that stunt work," Knotts said. "I get bored but not hurt. I watch the stunt man work and then I walk in for the close-up.

"Sometimes they get me to do part of a stunt, like walking to the edge of a cliff or something. But then they send for the stuntman.

"IN 'GUS' — it's about a fieldgoal kicking mule — I was lucky. There were no stunts for my character. I played a football coach, but I was in danger of being un over by the players."

It's apple pickin' time in northern Illinois and this year growers promise a plentiful tasty crop.

Apple picking has already started at some orchards and will continue through October. No supermarket can beat the price of pick-your-own apples at 15 to 20 cents a pound or $5 to $7.95 a bushel. Already-picked apples are also on sale at the orchards at slightly higher prices.

Dick Breeden, owner of Wauconda Orchards and manager of Northern Illinois Apple Growers Assn., expects to produce about 20,000 bushels from his orchards this year.

"We're trying something different," he says. "We are going to give pickers 20-pound plastic drawstring bags (same as a half bushel) so they can put the apples right into the refrigerator. Also the bags are cheaper. Bags will sell for 20 cents against the 65 cents we charged for a bushel basket last year."

Breeden recommends pickers wear sport clothes and low-heeled shoes and bring their own bushel baskets to save money. He advises them to come weekdays if possible to avoid weekend crowds. Families are welcome, he said, but educational tours of his orchard have been postponed until next spring.

Each variety of apple matures at a different time so orchards list the dates when the apples will begin to be available. McIntosh apples ripen first, followed by Jonathan, Red Delicious, Golden Delicious and Rome Beauty.

Here is a list of nearby orchards, picking times and prices:

Wauconda Orchards, Bonner, Fairfield and Gossel roads, one mile northeast of Wauconda. Picking has already begun for McIntosh apples. Pickers can get Jonathans starting Sept. 25, Red Delicious Oct. 2, Golden Delicious and Rome Beauty, Oct. 9.

Apples are 19 cents a pound, $3.80 a 20-pound-bag, $7.60 a 40-pound-bag. Pickers who want to use bushel baskets instead of plastic bags can bring their own. Bags are 20 cents. Open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. Also weekend craft demonstrations, apple carving, antiques and country store. Phone 526-8553.

Quig's Orchard, Ill. Rtes. 83 and 60, Mundelein. Picking has begun for McIntosh. Pickers can get Jonathans Sept. 18, Red Delicious Sept. 25 and Golden Delicious Oct. 2.

Apples are 17 cents a pound. Open daily 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Cider, donuts, jam and jelly also for sale. Phone 566-4520.

Edward's, Ill. Rte. 76, two miles north of Poplar Grove near Belvidere. Pickers can get McIntosh starting Sept. 17; Red and Golden Delicious, Oct. 3. Price is $6.70 per bushel, 70 cents deposit on bushel baskets. Open daily 8 a.m. to 7 p.m Cider, donuts and honey apples also on sale. Phone 815-765-2234.

Bell's Orchard, Ill. Rte. 22 between Barrington and Lake Zurich. Picking for McIntosh starts Sept. 18; Jonathan, Sept. 24; Red Delicious, Sept. 30; and Golden Delicious, Oct. 7.

Price is $6.75 a bushel including tax. Deposit on bushel baskets is 50 cents. Open daily 9 a.m. to sunset but will be closed to pickers Sept. 20, 21, 27 and 28. Retail store on premises. Phone 438-2211.

Jonathan Orchard, Ill. Rte. 41 and Kelley Rd., Wadsworth. Picking for McIntosh starts today, Jonathan Sept. 27. Apples are 15 cents a pound. Open 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Sept. 1-Nov. 1, 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Nov. 1-April 1. Cheese and cider sold at "Apple Shed." Phone 244-8090.

Heinz Orchards, Atkinson Road, ¾ mile north of Rte. 176, east of Libertyville. Picking for Red and Golden Delicious apples begins Oct. 4. Price hasn't been set yet but Heinze Jeske, owner, says "it will be competitive." Picking on weekends only 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Phone 362-0074.

Oriole Spring Orchards, Stateline Rd., one mile north of Ill. Rte. 176, in Twin Lakes, Wis. Pickers can get McIntosh now, Jonathans starting Sept. 20, Red Delicious Sept. 27 and Golden Delicious Oct. 4.

Price, $3 half-bushel, $5 bushel. Open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Red Barn offers squash, apple cider, donuts. Phone 414-877-2436.

Conquering the waters

There's a thin line between performance and disaster; across-the-lake, three-day race challenges sailors

by STEVE FORSYTH

Richard Rusnack squints into the dark sky and driving rain, then looks back at the luminous compass near the helm. Penelope IV, Rusnack's 41-foot sailing yacht, is on course but barely cutting the water. Not enough wind.

The rain-soaked crew is heading for a finish line 60 miles away at St. Joseph, Mich. Mast and navigation lights dot the water like a floating skyline as crews ease away from the starting line at the Monroe Street Harbor in Chicago.

The start is 7:30 on a Friday night and most of the more than 100 boats in this first and longest leg of the annual Tri-State Race are expected to finish before dawn. The wind is not cooperating, however, and the boats are kept closely bunched together. Many prows will cut into the St. Joseph Harbor Channel well after breakfast time Saturday.

SAILBOATS ride a thin line between performance and disaster, and the challenge is keen. Once a course is set the object is to gain maximum advantage of the wind without tipping over. The hull and keel of the boat acts as a balance for the wind force against the large sail area, and the sails must be adjusted to prevent the wind from toppling the craft.

The process requires an alert skipper and crew. While some crews train and rehearse, anticipating most of the maneuvers they will make, Rusnack takes a more leisurely attitude. On this race, three of the seven crewman are unfamiliar with large racing sailboats like Penelope. What's important is they know the difference between a sheet and a halyard or a mainsail and genoa.

Before tying up at the St. Joseph, Mich. basin Saturday Penelope endures light winds, fog and thunderstorms. It is a late finish for the first leg but the lake challenge has been met. The capricious Michigan waters have been conquered.

THE REST of the day is for relaxation and for talking of vagaries of the voyage. Skippers and crews head for town or the local yacht club to lift a drink or two and shake off the soggy weather, which ruined plans for a day at the beach.

The adverse weather provides plenty to talk about at a yacht club party Saturday night, and strangers meet to compare notes and sailing theory. They have a common challenge in the name of the wind and water, and it behooves each of them to respect them both.

The Tri-State Race is a social event compared to the better-known, boat-breaking Chicago-Mackinac race held earlier this year. They celebrate Saturday before the second leg Sunday, and they celebrate Sunday night before the third and final leg Monday.

This year Rusnack decides to skip the restaurant circuit in St. Joseph and provide his crew with a bratwurst cookout. Arlington Heights resident Richard Rodseth joins the cookout with the crew from his boat, Vagary, which is the same type as Penelope. To thwart the persistent rain, Rodseth's crew rigs a sail in the trees over the harbor picnic area.

Rodseth and Rusnack are good friends on shore and frequently meet to share drinks and jokes. On the water, however, they are keen competitors. When racing, they seldom let each other out of sight.

RUSNACK, of Mount Prospect, wrestles with the wind and water as often as he can during Chicago's brief sailing season, and he enjoys the victory. He still has respect, however, and says, "Each time I go out in a storm and come back, I feel a little more humble."

He trusts his boat but leaves little to chance. Any piece of equipment that might fail is replaced, and backup equipment is on the boat when possible.

Rusnack loves sailing. He started with a small Super Porpoise boat he ordered from Polk Bros. years ago and has continued to move up in class.

"Sailing is probably the most relaxing thing I've ever done," he says. "It gives me an opportunity to think about things

The rain-soaked crew is heading for a finish line 60 miles away at St. Joseph, Mich. Mast and navigation lights dot the water like a floating skyline as crews ease away from the starting line at the Monroe Street Harbor in Chicago.

The start is 7:30 on a Friday night and most of the more than 100 boats in this first and longest leg of the annual Tri-State Race are expected to finish before dawn. The wind is not cooperating, however, and the boats are kept closely bunched together. Many prows will cut into the St. Joseph Harbor Channel well after breakfast time Saturday.

SAILBOATS ride a thin line between performance and disaster, and the challenge is keen. Once a course is set the object is to gain maximum advantage of the wind without tipping over. The hull and keel of the boat acts as a balance for the wind force against the large sail area, and the sails must be adjusted to prevent the wind from toppling the craft.

The process requires an alert skipper and crew. While some crews train and rehearse, anticipating most of the maneuvers they will make, Rusnack takes a more leisurely attitude. On this race, three of the seven crewman are unfamiliar with large racing sailboats like Penelope. What's important is they know the difference between a sheet and a halyard or a mainsail and genoa.

Before tying up at the St. Joseph, Mich. basin Saturday Penelope endures light winds, fog and thunderstorms. It is a late finish for the first leg but the lake challenge has been met. The capricious Michigan waters have been conquered.

THE REST of the day is for relaxation and for talking of vagaries of the voyage. Skippers and crews head for town or the local yacht club to lift a drink or two and shake off the soggy weather, which ruined plans for a day at the beach.

The adverse weather provides plenty to talk about at a yacht club party Saturday night, and strangers meet to compare notes and sailing theory. They have a common challenge in the name of the wind and water, and it behooves each of them to respect them both.

The Tri-State Race is a social event compared to the better-known, boat-breaking Chicago-Mackinac race held earlier this year. They celebrate Saturday before the second leg Sunday, and they celebrate Sunday night before the third and final leg Monday.

This year Rusnack decides to skip the restaurant circuit in St. Joseph and provide his crew with a bratwurst cookout. Arlington Heights resident Richard Rodseth joins the cookout with the crew from his boat, Vagary, which is the same type as Penelope. To thwart the persistent rain, Rodseth's crew rigs a sail in the trees over the harbor picnic area.

Rodseth and Rusnack are good friends on shore and frequently meet to share drinks and jokes. On the water, however, they are keen competitors. When racing, they seldom let each other out of sight.

RUSNACK, of Mount Prospect, wrestles with the wind and water as often as he can during Chicago's brief sailing season, and he enjoys the victory. He still has respect, however, and says, "Each time I go out in a storm and come back, I feel a little more humble."

He trusts his boat but leaves little to chance. Any piece of equipment that might fail is replaced, and backup equipment is on the boat when possible.

Rusnack loves sailing. He started with a small Super Porpoise boat he ordered from Polk Bros. years ago and has continued to move up in class.

"Sailing is probably the most relaxing thing I've ever done," he says. "It gives me an opportunity to think about things

3-day race tests skills of area sailors

I'd like to do in the business, and I've come up with several great ideas while I was sailing."

RUSNACK'S business is 16 Hickory Farms stores in the Chicago and Wisconsin area and more on the drawing board. The first Chicago area store was at the Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect, and now Rusnack is vice chairman of the Ohio-based chain. He also operates Rusnack, Inc., which includes the Beer and Brat restaurant at Woodfield.

Like most of the big-boat owners, Rusnack can indulge in his combination hobby-sport because he is his own boss and has the money to buy the boats, which can exceed $100,000 for top models.

The time he spends sailing gives him little opportunity for other hobbies; he has virtually given up golf. The Chicago area provides a limited number of sailing days and Rusnack tries to make the best of them. "You have such a short season here. There probably aren't 90 full days of sailing," he says.

Rusnack has always been a believer in challenge, and this perhaps is the reason for his love of sailing.

"One of my dreams was to have a boat in the Monroe Street harbor," he says, and as a Whiting, Ind. native, he first saw the harbor as a youth. Now he has his boat and the social life that goes with it.

SUNDAY MORNING sailors wake up to find a sobering sight outside the harbor breakwater. Heavy winds whip up whitecaps on the lake and the 34-mile run to Michigan City, Ind. promises to be a thrilling ride.

As if to make up for the disappointing Friday night, the wind swoops in from the north and shoves the boats across the line in a spectacular start.

Billowing spinnaker sails go up and the lake becomes a magnificent collage of colorful dacron. Rusnack's crew calls off the boats' names by their well-known colors. Six- and eight-foot swells start the ride, and crew members have their hands full for the rest of the record-time trip.

FORTY KNOTS of wind is nothing to take for granted and Penelope's delicate spinnaker comes down a few hours later

Choirboy image an asset in 'Switch'

ROBERT WAGNER

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Robert Wagner has been too handsome and too youthful in appearance for his own good for at least 20 years.

Long past 40, Wagner still looks like a choirboy.

A product of good family, the country club set, and flawlessly mannered, Wagner pretty much reflects his own character and personality on screen — clean cut and personable.

R. J., AS HIS friends call him, lives in a Beverly Hills mansion. His wife is movie star Natalie Wood. His daughters are beautiful, his life uncomplicated.

He has no financial problems and currently is shopping around for a yacht.

Wagner plays a naval officer — the classic square-jawed type the Navy depicts on its recruiting posters — in "Midway" with Charlton Heston and Henry Fonda.

BUT HE REALLY enjoy his new television series, "Switch" in which he costars with Eddie Albert.

In a previous series, "It Takes a Thief," Wagner played an ex-convict hired out to a fictional United States spy agency to take advantage of his light-fingered talents.

Once again Wagner is portraying a crook. In "Switch" he is an ex-con man who goes into the detective business with a former bunco cop, Albert. Together they do as much conning as the felons they chase.

WAGNER IS VERY much aware that playing a hustler contrasts with his baby face.

"It really gives me an edge," he said. "I mean being a hustler and not looking like one. People tend to believe a guy with an open face and an honest attitude. And that's when a good con man takes over."

Wagner is no stranger to hustling himself. As a teen-ager he was an outstanding golfer. He made himself at home on golf courses playing for money against men old enough to be his father.

R. J. WOULD hack around for a few holes, convincing his opponents he couldn't hit his hat. Then when the bets got heavy R.J. grooved his swing and picked up all the marbles by the 18th hole.

"You do the best you can," Wagner said, grinning. "You have to work with the tools you've got. I gambled, played cards and shot some golf for money. And I enjoyed it when I was a kid.

"I played juveniles longer than I can remember. Now I think I've matured enough physically to be convincing in the roles I play.

"THE CHARACTER I play in the new series is an easy-going guy, a credible character. That's why I chose this show.

"Before and after 'It Takes A Thief' went off the air (1970) I've had offers to star in a series, but I held off.

"I made one other pilot, about 10 years ago, with Telly Savalas at Four Star, but it didn't work out.

"It's not easy to get the audience involved with a character they can believe. These guys look like they might work. We're playing the private eye situations lightly.

I think it can be entertaining and, hopefully, audiences will want to see it."

For a very brief time, Richard Widmark embarked on a teaching career in dramatics and speech at his alma mater (Lake Forest University, Ill.), before choosing to seek acting work in New York.

His first jobs were in radio, where he acted in such shows as "Front Page Farrell," "Inner Sanctum," "Grand Central Station" and many others. His background in radio proved to be quite valuable when his first opportunity on Broadway came along--in "Kiss and Tell."

Richard later appeared on Broadway in "Get Away Old Man," "Kiss Them for Me" and other shows. His real break, however, came in the 1947 film "Kiss of Death," where he portrayed a psychopathic gangster.

Richard went on to appear in over forty more films, although he hasn't yet won any awards. Write to him in care of International Creative Management, 9255 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

Lake race poses challenge, test of skill for area sailors

Action is frenzied, arms begin to stiffen and waves occasionally wash the deck. This is the stuff sailing and racing are made of.

The early afternoon arrival at Michigan City allows plenty of time for lunch on deck, cleaning up and a short walk to the showers. Another yacht club party, a short night of sleep and it is Monday morning — time for another day of sailing.

MONDAY MORNING is hazy but the sky is clearing to the west. The small diesel engines again push each boat out of the harbor under the gaze of local residents, who come out to the breakwater to watch the spectacle. Groups of 20 boats start 10 minutes apart, and in between they mill around like ants, seeking the best position to make a run at the starting line.

It looks like chaos as the big boats pass within a few yards of each other. Ten seconds to go and a line of boats clearly is visible in the water. The starting cannon goes off and the final leg of the race is underway. It is slow again today.

The slow start, with boats traveling less than one knot, is too much for a few. Diesel engines come to life and the skippers head across the lake for Chicago. The rest bide their time, knowing the whims of Lake Michigan. The weather radio forecasts off-shore breezes and Rusnack elects to wait it out.

THE WAIT is worth it as the sun comes out for the first time during the race. The wind picks up and ripples on the water indicate more than a breeze ahead. Boat speed picks up — two knots, three and a half, four knots — up to five knots as the crew again unfurls the spinnaker and a companion sail known as a blooper.

Many of the boats don't have the blooper yet, and this time it will pay off. "It's the new fad," Rusnack says. The final stretch of the race is a good one for Penelope. The boat improved its time on each leg and finishes in the top 25 on the sprint back to Chicago.

Rusnack is even happier to see the 12-meter competition boat Heritage swooping down on the finish line far behind Penelope, and he considers it a major accomplishment. Heritage is faster than all the boats in the fleet but her crew took a longer course than Rusnack selected.

The boats have crews of various skills and equipment of various tolerances, but there are surprises in the race. The wind is fickle, treating some better than others, and the results are unpredictable.

Shelby Lyman on chess

Antoly Karpov has candidly confessed that he is partial to technical solutions of chess problems, unlike Bobby Fischer whose games have more tension. Bobby often chooses the most dynamic lines of play — with expected results. Though he draws fewer games, he wins and loses more than Karpov.

But Bobby is no slouch at technique. And would undoubtedly approve of the succinct and esthetic manner in which Karpov wound up the following 1972 contest with Mark Taimanov of the USSR.

The first position, (see Diagram I) if read properly, tells us, as it told Karpov, what should be done.

Although material is even, white blockades to control the center. His well-placed pieces may create favorable action in black's wide open and unprotected kingside.

The correct procedure here is well-known and easy to understand. Soften up the black king's position with a pawn assault and follow through with the heavy pieces.

Karpov did just that, and did it well. Black's efforts in defense, i.e., the trading of knights and the kingside pawn more 1 . . . P-R3, offer only futile resistance.

The actual moves were 1. P-R4!, P-R3; 2. P-KN4, Q-N2; 3. P-R5, N-B3; 4. P-N5, NxN; 5. NxN, PxP; 6. QxP, and our second position was reached (See Diagram 2).

Progress has been rapid. Karpov already has the lethal threat 7. P-R6, P-N3; 8. Q-R6 with mate to follow. Taimanov's defense, 6 . . . K-R2 only delays the inevitable result. For after Karpov's reply 7. R-B3! it is clear that black is doomed! There will be too many white pieces and too few black pieces on the kingside.

There followed 7 . . . Q-N5; 8. R-N3, R-KN1; 9. N-B3, PxP; 10. PxP, QxP? Taimanov is now set up for the winning combination. Do you see it?

Karpov did, of course, and played 11. Q-B1! By vacating the KN5 square, he has created the deadly threat of N-N5 check, which would uncover the white rook on the black queen.

Taimanov saved his queen with 11 . . . Q-R7, but Karpov used the time gained to rush in with his knight and further strip the black king.

After 12. N-N5 check, K-B1; 13. NxP check, K-R2; 14. Q-N5! Taimanov's doom is sealed. There is no answer to 15. Q-N6 check, PxP; and 16. PxP mate!

Taimanov dutifully resigned.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Jim: "Here is a hand from a rubber bridge game I watched recently. I was sitting in back of North and watched him study a long time before going to four spades over East's four hearts."

Oswald: "Did you ask what he was studying about?"

Jim: "I didn't have to. When North put down the dummy he said that he didn't know whether to double with his two aces or to bid four spades."

Oswald: "The double would have been a real winner. Four hearts would have been one down. Then, since four spades went down two he would have been 700 points better off, but strangely enough North does not appear to have considered the right bid."

Jim: "No, indeed. North should have passed and hoped for the best. He should have known that four spades would be doomed to defeat and while he could not be sure about four hearts, he should have been willing to try to set it undoubled."

Oswald: "Of course, he should. Those two aces were going to be worth two tricks at either hearts or spades."

Thomson featured on card

Thomson's signature on the Declaration of Independence appears at the left below that of John Hancock. Serving as secretary through the entire Congress, Thomson, later, in 1789, journeyed to Mount Vernon to convey to George Washington his certificate of election as First President of the United States.

Requests for first day cancellations will be honored through Sept. 30 and should be sent to Thomson Post Card, Postmaster, Bryn Mawr, Pa. 19010. Collectors should include a self-addressed, stamped envelope with their remittance (7 cents for each single card and 14 cents for each double card) so the cards can be returned under cover.

Stamp notes
by Bernadine M. Rechner

THE UNITED Nations Postal Administration (UNPA) Sept. 22 will release a commemorative adhesive marking "Namibia — United Nations Direct Responsibility."

The design features a cupped hand and forearm superimposed over the continent of Africa with the protectorate Namibia in relief.

Four denominations will be issued — the U.S. 10-cent and 18-cent and the Swiss F.s.0,50 and F.s.1,30. Stamps will be printed 50 to a sheet.

Collectors desiring UN-NY first day cancellations should send their requests to FDC-Namibia, UNPA, P.O. Box 1586, New York, N. Y. 10017 enclosing the proper remittance which is the cost of the stamps to be affixed plus a 5-cent service charge per cover.

AUSTRALIA released two new definitive stamps in its wildflower series Aug. 27 to meet increased postal costs.

Both wildflowers are rare species — Helichrysum thomsonii on the 18-cent adhesive and the "Bearded Bottlebrush" (Callistemon teretifolius) on the 45-cent stamp.

Mint stamps are available from the Philatelic Bureau, Australia Post Office, 12th floor, 374 Bourke St., Melbourne, Victoria, Australia 3000.

God...the flag...Friday nights at the ol' fish fry

Moose Greeter takes their orders and gives them a number. When their digits are called, they pick up their meals at an opening by the kitchen. With the shortage of volunteers the self-service method seems best.

Dinner is eaten in a civilized manner. There are no fish eating champions because few persons go for the allowed seconds or even thirds of fish. There is more than enough food on the plate. Members sit at round or square tables. There are no long, rectangular places to sit, like the old days when the fish was put on a large platter and the eaters dug in. The test today, as it was then, is in the tasting.

"We went to Portage Park, here, Cicero and back here again," says Wilma Martinson, a Moose wife from the Portage Park lodge. "I shouldn't say this but I think it's the best. It's worth the drive."

LAURICE WEBER and her husband, Joseph, brought Josephine Klap and her spouse from the River Grove chapter. "I don't like our food," says Mrs. Weber. She puts the fork to her mouth, and murmers, "This shrimp has lots of breading." Mrs. Klap takes her initial bite. "Oh, they're delicious," she says. "Oh, my!"

Over in a corner, the John Sebastians are waiting for their meal, which is free because they won it as a prize. It's their 23rd wedding anniversary. The Park Ridge couple is impressed with the new surroundings at the lodge. "It's a nice arrangement. You drink and take a number," they say.

After dinner, the youngsters are taken home and an accordion player and drummer provide music for dancing. The evening ends around 10:30, which is early considering the place used to swing to all hours when it was owned by Eddie Rico and Chuck Bianci. It was then known as the El Reno nightclub. The fraternity bought the building in 1951. Four years later the fish story began.

State park schedules wanderer's weekend

Two days of hiking, biking, canoeing, fishing, camping, boating and other outdoor activities are planned for visitors to Le-Aqua-Na State Park, northwest of Freeport, Ill., Sept. 20-21.

The second annual "Wanderer's Weekend" sponsored by the Illinois Conservation Dept. will emphasize environmentally sound ways of finding fun out of doors. A number of instructional clinics are on the agenda for the family-oriented weekend.

Scheduled during the weekend are bike and backpacking treks to Apple River Canyon State Park in neighboring Jo Daviess County, nature hikes, a fishing derby with prizes and a foot race over a seven-mile course.

The Giant City Puppet Theatre will present the Muppets in an environmental puppet show and clinics on camping, backpacking, sailing, jogging, nature photograph and bike repairs will be conducted.

Demonstrations of trained Retriever handling, an archery demonstration and a campfire Sept. 20 are also scheduled. Activities begin noon each day until 9 p.m. Sept. 20 and 5 p.m. Sept. 21. There are no admission fees to the two-day program.

Bird safaris offered at Lincoln Park Zoo

Free bird safaris are offered each Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday through October at the Lincoln Park Zoo in Chicago.

The safaris leave at 8:30 a.m. from the bird house. As many as 25 to 30 species of wild birds are in and around Lincoln Park Zoo now, said Bob Hinckley, the zoo's bird curator and leader of the safaris.

"Every fall we spot wild mallards, pin-tail and ring-necked ducks, Canadian geese and many other wild birds," Hinckley said. Many birds are found in the Zoo-rookery, a setting of trees, shubbery and water in the northeast corner of the zoo.

Thomson featured on card

Thomson's signature on the Declaration of Independence appears at the left below that of John Hancock. Serving as secretary through the entire Congress, Thomson, later, in 1789, journeyed to Mount Vernon to convey to George Washington his certificate of election as First President of the United States.

Requests for first day cancellations will be honored through Sept. 30 and should be sent to Thomson Post Card, Postmaster, Bryn Mawr, Pa. 19010. Collectors should include a self-addressed, stamped envelope with their remittance (7 cents for each single card and 14 cents for each double card) so the cards can be returned under cover.

Stamp notes

THE UNITED Nations Postal Administration (UNPA) Sept. 22 will release a commemorative adhesive marking "Namibia — United Nations Direct Responsibility."

The design features a cupped hand and forearm superimposed over the continent of Africa with the protectorate Namibia in relief.

Four denominations will be issued — the U.S. 10-cent and 18-cent and the Swiss F.s.0,50 and F.s.1,30. Stamps will be printed 50 to a sheet.

Collectors desiring UN-NY first day cancellations should send their requests to FDC-Namibia, UNPA, P.O. Box 1586, New York, N. Y. 10017 enclosing the proper remittance which is the cost of the stamps to be affixed plus a 5-cent service charge per cover.

AUSTRALIA released two new definitive stamps in its wildflower series Aug. 27 to meet increased postal costs.

Both wildflowers are rare species — Helichrysum thomsonii on the 18-cent adhesive and the "Bearded Bottlebrush" (Callistemon teretifolius) on the 45-cent stamp.

Mint stamps are available from the Philatelic Bureau, Australia Post Office, 12th floor, 374 Bourke St., Melbourne, Victoria, Australia 3000.

Moose Greeter takes their orders and gives them a number. When their digits are called, they pick up their meals at an opening by the kitchen. With the shortage of volunteers the self-service method seems best.

Dinner is eaten in a civilized manner. There are no fish eating champions because few persons go for the allowed seconds or even thirds of fish. There is more than enough food on the plate. Members sit at round or square tables. There are no long, rectangular places to sit, like the old days when the fish was put on a large platter and the eaters dug in. The test today, as it was then, is in the tasting.

"We went to Portage Park, here, Cicero and back here again," says Wilma Martinson, a Moose wife from the Portage Park lodge. "I shouldn't say this but I think it's the best. It's worth the drive."

LAURICE WEBER and her husband, Joseph, brought Josephine Klap and her spouse from the River Grove chapter. "I don't like our food," says Mrs. Weber. She puts the fork to her mouth, and murmers, "This shrimp has lots of breading." Mrs. Klap takes her initial bite. "Oh, they're delicious," she says. "Oh, my!"

Over in a corner, the John Sebastians are waiting for their meal, which is free because they won it as a prize. It's their 23rd wedding anniversary. The Park Ridge couple is impressed with the new surroundings at the lodge. "It's a nice arrangement. You drink and take a number," they say.

After dinner, the youngsters are taken home and an accordion player and drummer provide music for dancing. The evening ends around 10:30, which is early considering the place used to swing to all hours when it was owned by Eddie Rico and Chuck Bianci. It was then known as the El Reno nightclub. The fraternity bought the building in 1951. Four years later the fish story began.

State park schedules wanderer's weekend

Two days of hiking, biking, canoeing, fishing, camping, boating and other outdoor activities are planned for visitors to Le-Aqua-Na State Park, northwest of Freeport, Ill., Sept. 20-21.

The second annual "Wanderer's Weekend" sponsored by the Illinois Conservation Dept. will emphasize environmentally sound ways of finding fun out of doors. A number of instructional clinics are on the agenda for the family-oriented weekend.

Scheduled during the weekend are bike and backpacking treks to Apple River Canyon State Park in neighboring Jo Daviess County, nature hikes, a fishing derby with prizes and a foot race over a seven-mile course.

The Giant City Puppet Theatre will present the Muppets in an environmental puppet show and clinics on camping, backpacking, sailing, jogging, nature photograph and bike repairs will be conducted.

Demonstrations of trained Retriever handling, an archery demonstration and a campfire Sept. 20 are also scheduled. Activities begin noon each day until 9 p.m. Sept. 20 and 5 p.m. Sept. 21. There are no admission fees to the two-day program.

Bird safaris offered at Lincoln Park Zoo

Free bird safaris are offered each Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday through October at the Lincoln Park Zoo in Chicago.

The safaris leave at 8:30 a.m. from the bird house. As many as 25 to 30 species of wild birds are in and around Lincoln Park Zoo now, said Bob Hinckley, the zoo's bird curator and leader of the safaris.

"Every fall we spot wild mallards, pin-tail and ring-necked ducks, Canadian geese and many other wild birds," Hinckley said. Many birds are found in the Zoo-rookery, a setting of trees, shubbery and water in the northeast corner of the zoo.
